Khrushchev's Occupy Presidential Suite

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Staff Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—It takes a capitalist in the upper income brackets to afford the hotel suite in which Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev and his family are staying in New York.

The Khrushchev clan—pappa, mamma, two grown daughters, a son and son-in-law—all were put up in the Waldorf-Astoria's four bedroom presidential suite and a much smaller one next door for their two-day stay in the nation's largest city.

We Pay Bill
The hotel gets $150 a day for the presidential suite—the other one is "hardly so expensive," said F. Dell's Agnese, manager of the Waldorf Towers apartments. But since the Soviet family is a guest of this government, we taxpayers through the State Department will foot the bill.

What is the presidential suite like?
It is mostly American colonial in furnishings, is simply but elegantly done, is light and airy, and high enough—the 33rd floor—for the Khrushchevs to see most of the New York skyline.

(Former President Hoover lives four floors below: General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, two floors above.)
The Khrushchev suite consists of drawing room, about 25 by 30 feet long; dining room, with a stoveless kitchen and serving pantry adjoining; a large entrance foyer; the four bedrooms; and four baths, all with tub and stall shower.

The master bedroom, done in pale blue and ivory tones, boasts a dressing room also in the same scheme, and its bath has a set of scales in case the portly Mr. and Mrs. K. want to check waistline expansion through all the luncheons and banquet and their schedule.

Over the drawing room of the fireplace hangs an oil painting of Thomas Jefferson, third President, framer of the Declaration of Independence, and the man who once said "I have sworn upon the altar of God eternal hostility against every form of tyranny over the mind of man."

TV For K
The drawing room also has a television set (black and white), in case the Khrushchev family has time for the late, late show.
The reception foyer, dining room, drawing room and master bedroom all are colonial, of the 1800's period, said Joseph Huston, whose firm was commissioned some six years ago to decorate the rooms. Other bedrooms are French and English, he said, "because a lot of European royalty uses the suite."

Huston wouldn't reveal how much the furnishings had cost. But he must have had an ample budget to provide the pale beige wall-to-wall carpeting throughout; for the brocade draperies and heavy silk bedspreads; for the reproductions of the elaborately carved desk and highboy in the drawing room; or for the hand-made pictorial paper in the latter, showing Niagara Falls, the natural bridge of Virginia, and New York and Boston harbors in colonial days.

Since the suite opened, President Eisenhower has slept there. So have former President Harry Truman, King Hussein of Jordan, King Saud of Saudi Arabia, and assorted millionaires and movie stars.

But not any other Russians that Dell's Agnese can recall.
"Most of them go on up to their embassy," he said.

"Let's talk dry cleaning"

By Ed Craig

The sports car trend has given a big boost to casual all-weather coats. They're just as popular with hunters and fishermen as they are at sports car rallies. The popular styles include shaggy-dog coats of fake fur, brushed mohair jackets lined with poplin, reversible ponchos of plaid blanket wool, leather and suede hooded car coats, and others.

Many of these garments are made of more than one type of fabric—wool and fur blends lined with cotton, dacron or rayon. Before they can be cleaned, your cleaner must analyze the exterior and the lining fabrics for fiber content to determine which method will be safe for both.

Most of the fabrics used for sports car clothes and other casual outdoor wear have been given pre-shrinkage, water-repellency, and flame resistance treatments. These also must be taken into consideration when the article is dry cleaned.

The simple truth of the matter is that we cannot afford to take chances. We must be sure before we go ahead. This kind of extra care means that you can be sure, too, when you send your cleaning to us that every article will be thoroughly and safely cleaned by time-proven methods. Don't take chances with your good clothes. Pickup and delivery.
