D. Coles, D. Gilstrap Married Sept. 13

Miss Darlene Annette Coles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emery A. Coles, La Grande, and Dwight D. Gilstrap, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Gilstrap, also La Grande, were married Sept. 13.

Dr. V. A. Bolen performed the ceremony in the First Methodist Church at La Grande. Ruth and Beth Combs sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Mrs. Combs. Richard Lyman played the Wedding March and the recessional. Dr. Gilstrap, also La Grande, decorated with baskets of gladioli.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a waltz length gown of white chantilly lace and taffeta. The fitted bodice had elbow length sleeves, and the skirt was bouffant. The back was draped to the hem with flowing chiffon. A lace trimmed shoulder length veil was held by a satin and pearl crown. She carried a white rainbow Bible, with an orchid and streamers.

The maid of honor, Miss Patricia Workman, wore a pink gown of chiffon and carried a nosegay of roses and carnations. Dale Coles, a brother of the bride, was best man to the groom. Frank Sheherb and Herbert Imel were ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Coles wore a medium blue suit with black accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations. The mother of the groom wore a rose colored suit with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

The reception was held in the church; decorations used there were vases of colorful asters. Cutting and serving the wedding cake was Mrs. Fern Hutchison. Pouring were Mrs. Jesse Lock-

Blue Mt. Grange Observes Annual 'Booster Night' Here

The local Blue Mountain Grange held their Booster Night Saturday in their hall. There were about 70 persons attending 14 of which were guests.

The evening began with a potluck dinner at 7 o'clock followed by an evening of entertainment, with members, guests and children taking part in games and skits.

A team of eight men and an equal amount of women were competing against each other in a gum contest. The women were the victors with the men seconds behind. The teenagers were then put in competition, followed by the children playing a jumping game. The latter was won by Connie Smock and Sue DeLashmutt.

Grange members presented the flag and called roll of officers. A number of corsages and bouquets were given to persons remembering historical events and a charter member, Ernie Holman.

Four couples of grange members danced the Virginia Reel. In bringing the program to a close, Mrs. Turnbull and Sambo entertained with a dance accompanied by Knute on his accordion.

Several songs were sung, and a display made-up of different articles of arts and crafts, made by 16 members of the grange, was viewed. Decorations about the hall and on the dinner tables included a variety of fall flowers, pumpkins, gourds, and corn stalks. These were all donated by Laura Bates; Laura Taylor, Sylvia Turnbull, Lynn Hill, Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Black and Prudence Carter.

The next gathering of the grange will be Oct. 3, beginning with a potluck dinner at 7 p.m.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann: I never thought I'd wind up on your "couch" in print. But then I suppose they all say that!

I went with this perfectly beautiful girl four months. She was so magnificent that for three months I was mesmerized by her indescribable beauty.

I read her poems by Pound and Kunitz. She was a great listener. I bought her albums of Chopin and Brahms. She smiled her thanks. Then suddenly I saw her bare face of truth. What I had imagined was tranquility, depth and inner security, was only silence—borne of ignorance.

When I tried to recall a single statement from this girl which reflected an original idea, I was stymied. She was a fraud.

I have three degrees, Ann, but this idiot beauty who I'm sure never saw the 10th grade, duped me. Please pass the word along. It may save another idealistic four months, and $1,000 in books, records, flowers and gifts.—Voltaire.

Dear Ann: Why is this girl a fraud? Did she tell you she was on the faculty at Harvard?
You were so snowed by her looks that all your male impulses went on active duty and your brains went AWOL. You tried to build a dream castle and move this brainless female in. Your attempt to spin a shimmering cocoon of magic around a beautiful (but dumb) dame didn't work. It never does. So—take your medicine like a little man.

Dear Ann: Maybe if you publish this letter it will help my cause.

I got my drivers' license a few days ago. I passed the test with flying colors. Now my folks won't let me drive unless one of them is with me. I've been practicing for three years and I'm as good a driver as either of them. Yet they say I haven't had enough experience to take the car alone.

How can I get experience if they won't let me have the car? If you can explain this I'll be grateful.—Liz.

Dear Liz. Be patient, Lamb—your time will come. Drive whenever you get the chance. After a while they'll get used to the idea that you're a competent driver. Then you'll be permitted to take the car on your own. Nagging and begging is a sign of childishness, so lay off and you'll achieve your goal sooner.

Dear Ann: Lately I've been reading articles entitled "Is Dad just a meal ticket?" "Are American wives pampered?" Has the male lost his place as head of the American Family?

I'd like to ask the following questions: "Is Mom just a housekeeper?" "Do American men have life too soft?"

True, women don't have to work as hard as their grandmothers did, but neither do men. Today the 40-hour week is considered "too long." They want 35. The young man out of college who is looking for a job wants to know what the pension plan is before he'll consider it. Mom doesn't get any such deals. Being a wife and mother mean 24-hours-a-day duty.

This malarky about a woman being boss is a joke. I've yet to see a wife who could watch the TV program of her choice when a fight or a cowboy movie was on.

If there's any pampering going on it's the men who are getting it. American husbands are the most spoiled males on the face of the earth. Mom starts it and the wife takes over from there.—Sadie.

Martha's Memos

Hannah Is Predictable. She's Always Tired!

by Martha Morgan

The most predictable person I know is Hannah Johnson, who lives through the block. No matter when you see her and ask her well-being, she sighs and says, "I'm pretty tired today."

Winter or summer, day or night, rain or shine, the answer is always the same. Sympathize, josh, contradict, you can't change her one bit. There are times when I'd as soon cross the street as meet her in conversation. And there are times when I want to shake her and say "Look Hannah, why don't you go home and take a nap!"

Hannah's a capable person, though—a good cook and a fine seamstress and quite an artist. And she uses these talents often to help others. But sometimes the gift is gone when her weariness for having done it shows through so much.

It reminds me of some women I know who are "in everything," then always talk about how rushed they are. They're busy by choice, I often think, so why inflict the headaches of it onto others. And so I feel about Hannah. She is mistress of her own life. If she wants to work herself tired each day, that's her affair. But it does seem unnecessary to present such a tired face. Why not keep our problems to ourselves, and turn to the world a happy countenance?

There is something I have to thank Hannah for though—and that's this recipe for Individual Salmon Cups. It's become a favorite recipe of ours—and of Mary's family, too. For one thing it's quick to serve, for the salmon mixture is baked in custardy cups and is ready to serve as soon as it comes from the oven. And just as with any meat mixture that's made with Morning Milk, this one remains moist and juicy and holds together wonderfully well. It's a superb recipe!

INDIVIDUAL SALMON CUPS

(Makes 4 to 6 servings)
2 cups (1-pound can) salmon
1 cup undiluted MORNING MILK
1 egg
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1/2 cup finely grated celery
1/4 cup sweet pickle relish
teaspoon pepper
1 cup coarsely crushed potato chips

Place salmon in mixing bowl. Add remaining ingredients. Mix well. Spoon into 6 buttered custard cups. Place extra pieces of potato chips around edges of each custard cup as garnish. Place custard cups on cookie sheet or in shallow pan. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 35 to 40 minutes. Remove from oven. Cool on rack for 5 minutes. Remove from custard cups and serve on platter garnished with tomato and lemon wedges.

Save a dollar bill on every fill!
