

Girl Scouts Benefit From United Fund

(Editor's Note—The Observer in the public interest, will present a series of stories on the various participating agencies which benefit from the United Fund. Today's article is on the Girl Scouts.)

The Girl Scouts depend on their communities for financial support as well as volunteer workers. Most people are aware that this organization is dedicated to helping girls develop as happy, resourceful individuals willing to share their abilities as citizens, but few people realize the means by which this end is achieved.

This purpose is achieved through a program that is based on the Girl Scout laws, in small groups under adult leadership. The leader defines for the girls the meaning of the laws and how they apply in everyday life.

This program offers a wide range of activities, more than any other youth program in the area developed around the needs of the girls, and offers opportunities for fun, friendship, service to others, and actual practice in daily living the Girl Scout Promise and Laws.

Leader Helps Girls

The leader helps the girls learn to assume responsibilities for troop affairs, such as program planning, attendance, finances, equipment and discipline, according to their ages and abilities, until in their intermediate program they are capable of running their own troop affairs and the leader becomes only an advisor.

The many interesting fields in Girl Scouting are designed to give the girls an opportunity to investigate vocational and educational interest possibilities. By the time an intermediate Girl Scout has earned her first class rank or the highest rank possible, the curved bar, she usually has set for herself a goal.

Youngsters like to belong to a group and follow a leader, and being a Girl Scout gives them an opportunity to belong to a group whose code and ethics will meet with any parent's approval.

In order to have effective Girl troops they must have the necessary support of the community.

State Farm Bureau Again Sponsoring Essay Contest

The Oregon Farm Bureau is again sponsoring an essay contest for its members and high school students.

The title this year will be "The Facts About Liberty and My State in It." Prizes will be awarded on the state level with winners selected to compete in the American Farm Bureau contest.

Four categories will be judged: Farm Bureau men; Farm Bureau women; Farm Bureau young people, ages 18-28, and any high school student, not necessarily Farm Bureau families.

The essays are to be 500 words or less, not necessarily typewritten and should be mailed to Mrs. Grant Henderson, Oregon Farm Bureau Citizenship Chairman, Box 74, Summerville, Ore.

Anyone interested in entering the contest can receive further information by contacting one of the following: Mrs. Henderson, Mrs. Ralph Robinson, La Grande, or Mrs. Leal Graham, North Powder, citizenship chairman for the county Farm Bureau.

State Demos Ponder Delegation Choosing

SALEM (UPI)—One of the most pressing problems now being faced by Oregon Democrats is how they will choose the 52 delegates they may send to their national convention set for Los Angeles next July.

Word came recently from the Democratic National Committee that Oregon will have 17 full votes at the convention instead of the 16 at the last one.

Party leaders seem to be in favor of splitting the Oregon delegation to get twice as many people with one-half a vote each. Adding the 18 alternates allowed would give a grand total of 52.

The only ones with sure berths on the delegation so far are National Committeeman C. Girard Davidson and National Committeewoman Virginia Grant. These two probably will be allowed to pick their own alternates.

Thirty-two Elected

But this still leaves 32 delegates to be elected with half that many alternates to be chosen. Previously every delegate could choose his alternate.

Democrats around the statehouse say electing so many delegates will be a touchy and interesting problem with so many potential presidential candidates capable of splitting the party.

Young Sleuth Develops New 'Detect' Plan

NEW YORK (UPI)—A young detective's revolutionary method of getting at-the-scene fingerprints received enthusiastic backing from the world's police chiefs today as one of the greatest developments in crime investigation in 20 years.

Nassau (N.Y.) County Detective Matthew Bonora, 31, who has worked on such famous cases as the Peter Weinberger kidnaping and the abduction of Stephen Damra, said he has received orders from police departments in almost every state for his fingerprint taking development.

"We've also got orders from police chiefs in Mexico, Venezuela, Ghana, Liberia, Canada, all over," Bonora said in an interview with United Press International at the convention of the International Association of Police Chiefs here.

"The response is terrific and we think it's really going to help law enforcement a lot. This little thing will help fight crime throughout the world," he said.

Bonora's idea was simple—to a housewife. It's an aerosol can that sprays fingerprint powder, much like the cans used in every household for shaving cream, insecticide or whipped cream. To help him overcome technical difficulties, Bonora brought in two partners—William Golden, 39, a fingerprint technician for the Nassau police, and George Hartz, 51, his next-door neighbor and an aerosol chemist.

Bonora, a policeman for 10 years, said he was constantly annoyed by the long, hard and dirty job of trying to get fingerprints the old way—a system developed 20 years ago and never changed. He also knew that often a policeman who was not a fingerprint expert would ruin the prints he was trying to take.

Falls On Tracks

NEW YORK (UPI)—A 76-year-old widow fell between the express tracks at a Times Square (IRT) subway station Tuesday night. One car of the incoming train passed over her before the express halted. Mrs. Freida Nussbaum was removed from under the train by the motorman and a transit policeman and taken to Roosevelt Hospital where her injuries were described as slight.

Carrots Grown In Oregon Sell To New Yorkers

TROUTDALE, Ore. (UPI)—If you're in New York and you want carrots, come here. That's what Troutdale vegetable grower Peter Binn says.

Binn had an order Tuesday from a New York restaurant. The Four Seasons for 19 crates of his carrots each week as far as the carrots go. Just to be on the safe side, he phoned the restaurant, and the order was confirmed.

It seems the restaurant wants a special carrot that Binn grows from imported French seed on only a few acres. The restaurant's purchasing chief told the grower, "We want what we want."

Binn's variety, considered a delicacy in France, is not more than three inches long and is known as sweet coreless.

The restaurant also wants them expressed daily. Binn said the mailing charges are almost three times as much the price of the carrots.

Here Friday from Chevrolet . . .

Elegant Impala 4-Door Sport Sedan—one of 16 spanking new Chevrolets you can choose from.

THE SUPERLATIVE '60 CHEVY

This is the one that says '60 like no other car. From its clean-thrusting grille to its dapper rear deck, there's so much that's new and different about this superlative Chevrolet it stands out from the rest like a fresh-minted coin. And you'll be just as wide-eyed over what's inside—the relaxing roominess, tasteful trim, hushed elegance of its new Body by Fisher, all comfortably cradled by Full Coil springs at all four wheels. Yet, sumptuous as this new Chevy is, it's got all the thrifty virtues that make it unmistakably a Chevrolet—with new economy of operation, new dependability, new longer life. Here, then, we're confident both you and your budget will joyously agree, is the nearest to perfection a low-priced car ever came!

Here's the car that introduces a whole new decade of design—with so much that's new and different the others can only hope to come close.

It's the superlative '60 Chevrolet—with new space inside, new spirit under the hood, new splendor in every clean-etched line.

Freshly shaped contours rake back from the unified new grille to the jaunty rear deck, fitted with craftsmanship you'd expect only on the most expensive makes. Inside, the solidly built new Body by Fisher surrounds you with finely tailored fabrics and spacious elegance. There's room to sprawl in, room to sit tall in—generously provided by Chevy's sofa-wide seats and extra margin of hat space. And there's even more leg room for the man in the middle—thanks to the way Chevrolet engineers have shaved down the transmission tunnel.

Out on the road, as Chevy's Full Coil ride will persuade you most gently, there's not a car near the price that comes close to the hushed comfort of this one. Adding to your sense of silence and solidity are thicker, newly designed rubber body mounts that do an even more efficient job of isolating road shock and noise.

Quiet, quick-responding power is provided by a choice of two standard engines—Chevy's famed Hi-Thrift 6 and a new Economy Turbo-Fire V8 that gets up to 10% more miles out of a gallon of regular while delivering greater engine torque at normal speeds. There's also a choice of five other V8's and five transmissions, to assure the exact power combination to satisfy the itch in your driving foot. Chevy's accent on comfort and convenience even extends back to its easier-to-load luggage compartment. You'll also find a convenient new parking brake that automatically returns to normal height after application, a new clutch linkage that filters out engine impulses more effectively than ever and new two-toning motif available on all 16 fresh-minted models.

But, impressive as all this may look in print, there's really only one way to tell how near to perfection this superlative '60 Chevrolet actually comes . . . and that's to drop in on your dealer and drive one!
