TELEVISION IN REVIEW: 'Bells Of St. Mary's' Lacked That Down To Earth Reality

NEW YORK (UPI) — Having watched "The Bells of St. Mary's" Tuesday night, the cockles of my heart should be warm enough to cut into winter fuel bills. But it didn't work out that way. The 90-minute CBS-TV production put together some engaging personalities to tell the story of St. Mary's parochial school, its troubles with a neighboring millionaire and its faith in itself and prayer. The troubles were many: The millionaire, played by Charles Ruggles, was a hypochondriac who wanted the school razed for a parking lot; Sister Benedict, played by Claudette Colbert, developed tuberculosis; Pat- sally had family troubles; Eddie couldn't fight; the school was falling apart and, in the idiom of the day, one student took a dive on a quiz. Enough trouble here to last through a full 36-episode series, I'd say.

THE DRAFT DODGER SYRACUSE, Sicily (UPI) — For the second time in three years, the Italian army sent a draft notice Tuesday to Carmelo Celeste, aged six. SUBJECT TO ARGUMENT WARSAW (UPI) — The official Communist newspaper Trybuna Ludu Tuesday asked that television sets, taped music or juke boxes be installed in Poland's coffee houses. "It would be better to install record players," the newspaper said, "than to listen to the bad musician who plays the piano once an hour."

WIFE-BUMPER JAILED MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Howard H. Robinson was sentenced to 30 days in jail Monday for bumping his wife three times with a car after arguing with her at a tavern.

Channel Swim: Ralph Edwards brings his NBC-TV Wednesday night show, 'This Is Your Life', back to New York for two programs in November, undaunted by his encounter with Lowell Thomas during the last visit.

Carl Reiner has been added to the guest list of Dinah Shore's Parisian review on NBC-TV this Sunday because of a postponed appearance by Les Marottes, a puppet act. Metropolitan Opera star Cesare Siepi appears on the Nov. 5 CBS-TV 'The Big Party', a show the late Errol Flynn had been booked into. Backstage, Abe Burrows has assumed his duties as executive producer of 'Party', now that some Broadway directorial commitments are ended.

Allied Artists, a film company that has produced 'The Al Capone Story' and 'Friendly Persuasion', will produce two as yet unspecified TV film series for ABC films starting in January.

Ethel Shutta, the popular band singer of the 1930s, stars in 'Special Delivery', a forthcoming CBS-TV Alfred Hitchcock chiller.

Sweet-Faced Shirley Jones Being Cast Off Beaten Path

At Lancaster's insistence, the Jones girl ditched her type-cast mold for the role of a prostitute. And just in time. Movie offers had ceased coming her way, and it wouldn't have been long before Shirley would have been forgotten little gal who "used to star in musicals."

The transformation is amazing. Shirley plays all but one of her scenes dressed only in a clinging slip which reveals more of the actress than if she were wearing a bikini.

"The first day I was embarrassed to walk out in front of the crew," Shirley admitted, blushing. "I wasn't wearing a thing under it. Nothing! But now I'm used to parading around in my costume, and they've allowed me to wear a sheer pair of panties underneath."

"If this role hadn't come along I'd probably not be doing any more pictures. I'm a very fortunate girl."

Previously, Shirley rated top billing. In this part she is billed fourth, behind Lancaster, Jean Simmons and Arthur Kennedy.

"The role is nowhere near as big as my others," she went on. "But I much prefer a small, well-written role that gives me a chance to act. I started out mainly as a singer and learned to act as I went along."

Shirley admits she was a simple, honey girl when she first arrived in the land of oranges and smog to play Laurie in "Oklahoma."

"I never had to worry about acting before," she said. "I just played myself. Now, for the first time, I have a chance to become an actress."
