LA GRANDE OBSERVER U.S. Farm Workers Double

Observer, La Grande, Ore., Thurs., Oct. 29, 1959

FACING DECISION— These three federal judges are being asked to annul a Taft-Hartley injunction calling a truce in the current steel strike. The injunction which would put workers back on their jobs has already been ordered by one judge. However the union officials appealed the injunction and these three judges (left to right) H. F. Goodrich, John Biggs Jr., and Wm. H. Hastie, ordered an indefinite stay of the

Leading Moon Expert Says Russ To Land

LONDON (UPI)-One of Britn's leading moon experts said today that Russia will land an nstrument rocket on the moon

'in the very near future.''
Such a landing may even be imminent," said selenographer moon scientist) Patrick Moore, who has many contacts among Russian space scientists.

Moore said the moon landing was part of a comprehensive Soviet plan to carry out so much basic research on the earth's own satellite that it will, in effect, become Russia's own scientific preserve.

There won't be much left for the United States or anyone else to do on or about the moon if the Soviet program proceeds on sched-ule," he said.

Communist party as directed and Moore said the Russians had Bridges as sponsor of the 1934 completed two phases of their four-part program with Lunik II which hit the moon and Lunik After that strike, Jack Stachel, III which photographed it.

Lunik IV will carry instruments to the moon and then, he said, Communist trade union specialist, wrote: "What will happen it the workers elect not only one will come the great adventure of Bridges, but hundreds of Bridges trying to land a man on the in section and district leader-"The manned flight is some years off," Moore said. But the instrument recket is ready right now. Lunik III proved the Russians had from the moment of the 1938 everything—rocket power, guid-deportation order, the Commuance, telemetering devices-they need for such an effort except, fense, assessing members and otherwise raising funds and makthe moment of impact on the moon's surface.

"Compared to what they have already achieved, this is a comparatively simple technical prob-lem. Once such a station reaches the moon in operating condition the only thing left for the United States will be to beat a Russian man on the surface. And that will take a lot of doing.

> WASHINGTON UPI - The Ag riculture Department's research chief says improved enforcement of animal and plant quarantines would pay rich dividends for the nation's economy

> Dr. Byron T. Shaw told a conference on agricultural quarantines Tuesday that when plant or animal pests from abroad enter the United States they're expensive to eradicate. For instance, he said, the khapra beetle, a stored-grain pest which got into the country is eradicated at a cost of about seven million dollars.

The government has spent 18 million dollars to eradicate the Mediterranean fruit fly, he said The European corn borer still does about 350 million dollars in damage to crops annually.
