'Book Week' Is Observed In America

Children's Book Week is being observed from Nov. 2 to 7 at the La Grande Public Library as it will be also in libraries throughout the entire United States and Canada.

"Go Exploring with Books" is the theme for this year's celebration, and Feodor Rojankovsky, the noted illustrator, has designed an attractive poster, using his young daughter as a model for the charming little girl absorbed in a book. This poster will be displayed with many new and attractive children's books in the Boys' and Girls' department, at the library during the week.

In charge of the week's activities will be Mrs. William Elam, a member of the library staff.

Among the new books of non-fiction on display is an outstanding history of the United States for young people, written by Gerald Johnson—"America is Born" with unusual illustrations in black and white. For girls from eight to 12 is a new title by the well known and popular writer of children's books—"Pink Motel" by Carol Rysie. Dr. Seuss, a favorite among authors of books for young children, is represented this fall by "Happy Birthday to You!"

Arrangements are being made for visits to the library by the school children of La Grande. Teachers are invited to call the library to make appointments during the week.

Parents are also urged to visit the library and to browse among the new books for suggestions for Christmas and birthdays for their children. A booklet "Growing Up with Books—250 books which every child should have a chance to read" is available free of charge to anyone wishing to have a copy. In it will be found recommended books for all ages of children from the very youngest through Junior High School.
