HST Still Hurt Over Adlai Nomination, Plans Strategy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The political wind is that Former President Harry S. Truman still is hurt, angry and ready to try again to prevent nomination of Adlai E. Stevenson for president. This should surprise no one. It is a fact that Stevenson in 1952 was Truman's hand-picked Democratic nominee for the presidency. That proved to be the beginning of the end of a beautiful friendship.

Four years later, Truman was back at a Democratic national convention to lead the campaign to prevent Stevenson's renomination. Truman stated his objections simply, asserting that Stevenson did not have what it took to win an election.

Well, maybe, Truman said on second thought, Stevenson might win if he had the right kind of help, help from Truman, for example. The former president's man in 1956 was Averell Harriman, a no-questions-asked Truman Fair Dealer. It is reasonable to believe that Truman has another such man in tow for 1960, Harriman having been knocked out in his gubernatorial contest with Nelson A. Rockefeller.

In tow for 1960 probably is Sen. Stuart Symington who fits the "Fair Deal" pattern. He is one of the Democrats given a 100 per cent good voting record by the left wing organization, Americans for Democratic Action.

Stevenson, of course, firmly disavows any desire for another presidential nomination. The political pros believe, however, that he is likely to be tapped unless the 1960 convention can name some other Democrat on an early ballot. Stevenson would be a magic name with which to break a deadlock.

Truman would be in there pitching for Stevenson now as in 1952 if Stevenson had been more considerate of his great and good friend after that first nomination. There are paragraphs of unqualified praise for Stevenson in that book. Those paragraphs are, in effect, a defense of Truman for hand-picking Stevenson in 1952 to succeed him in the White House.

The praise goes flat, however, under pressure of subsequent paragraphs of which these two are examples:

"But, Stevenson's attitude in 1952 toward the president he hoped to succeed was a mystery to me for some time," Truman wrote. "And, I believe Stevenson made several mistakes—whether this was due to the urgings of his advisers or bad information or perhaps to the contagion of other good citizens as a result of reading the anti-Democratic press, I do not know."

"The first mistake he made was

Dean Martin Made Switch To 'Acting' In Good Form

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Among the most sought-after stars in movies today is Jerry Lewis' ex-straight man, Dean Martin, who turns down four pictures a week and uncounted TV appearances.

Since splitting with Lewis the singing foil for Jerry's jibes has starred in seven films and is forming his own production company.

Movietown figured Dean would be in the unemployment lines after the team broke up, but Martin moved from TV to dramatic roles in movies with hardly a hitch, making him one of the few video stars to switch to the big screen successfully.

"I shifted from TV to movies for a very good reason," the easy-going Dino grinned. "I wanted to live like a human being."

Work Regular Hours
"In pictures I work from 8 o'clock in the morning until 6 p.m., then I go home and play with the kids. With television you work all night, and when you get through there are no retakes!"

Dean, who would rather clown than give a straight answer, grew serious about the change in his career.

"I lead sort of a double life. In movies I play dramatic parts. In television I'm a comedy-singing personality. Maybe I'll mix it up a little, playing drama on TV and making a movie comedy," he said.

Martin earns more money for a single TV show than he earns a week for movies. But he says it's not the money that counts. He's aiming for critical success as an actor.

Dislikes Method Acting
"Method" acting draws contempt from Martin, who recently completed "Career" with actor's studio grad Anthony Franciosa—one of the most temperamental of the "method" performers.

"Method acting is a fake," Dino cried. "What a lot of people think is great acting—the long takes and deep concentration—is actually the actor's own troubles trying to remember his lines."

"The great actors are the ones who know their lines and listen to what the other performers are saying."

"Once you've accomplished that, the facial expressions take care of themselves. I think I've learned to act the hard way, by watching the good ones work on the set, by watching and thinking. The only real training I've had as an actor was playing poker."

Tuesday night Dean drops his poker face to star in his first NBC-TV spectacular with Frank Sinatra and Mickey Rooney as guests.

STILL LIKE ICE CREAM

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (UPI) — The 17 men who wintered at the American antarctic station at the South Pole have had their quarters buried under three feet of snow and ice but it hasn't affected their appetite for ice cream.

Their favorite flavors are strawberry, chocolate and vanilla. Nello Bambini, of Boston, reported by shortwave radio.

NEVER A BRIDE

PINNER, England (UPI) — None of the bridesmaids caught the bride's bouquet at a wedding here Sunday. A horse ate it.

Air hostess Sallie Alden, 22, brought her pet horse Chico to her wedding to Bryan Murphy, 22. After the wedding they pinned a rose on Chico and then fed him the rest of the bouquet.

OKAY DOG REPLICA

LONDON (UPI) — Lady Munnings had a blank pass from bus collectors today for her dog which she has carried everywhere for years.

She had been ordered off buses and challenged by collectors because of her pekingese Black Knight. Most by now have come to recognize the dog Lady Munnings carries is a rubber replica of her famous pet — no charge, no trouble.

to fire the chairman of the Democratic National Committee (Frank E. McKinney of Indiana whom Truman had put in that job) and to move his campaign headquarters to Springfield, Ill., giving the impression that he was seeking to disassociate himself from the administration in Washington and, perhaps, from me. How Stevenson hoped he could persuade the American people to maintain the Democratic party in power while seeming to disown powerful elements of it. I do not know."

There was more, all evidence that Truman felt that Stevenson was brushing off the Truman administration as unclean. Truman didn't like that and, as he once said of himself, "The old man never stops midway in a fight."

DECIDE FAIR SITE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A presidential commission studying possible U.S. sites for a 1964 world's fair is expected to give its recommendations to President Eisenhower within a week. Los Angeles, New York City and Washington are vying for the fair.
