Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

I have a few questions I would like to ask you about the proposed oxidation ponds.

In the year of 1915 my husband and I lived on the ranch east of La Grande that L. D. Shelton now owns and operates, which is a dairy ranch. We, too, were dairymen at this time. That winter we had three and a half feet of snow on the level. It stayed on about one month. Do you really think you could combat the overflow of the lagoon ponds during weather like this? There was water everywhere, and no place for it to go. The drain seepage (or was) exactly northeast of where the proposed oxidation pond is to be located. The snow and water ran directly into our lot where our dairy herd had to stay. With the milk laws and all the sanitation laws we now have to abide by, the drinking water would have to be tested daily.

The farmers in this neighborhood have spent their entire lives here and our homes are dear to us. Would you voters consider coming out in this neighborhood and buying a small tract of land and establishing a home? Would you care to have your friends call on you and see the beautiful background of your homes, the La Grande Oxidation Ponds and Sewage Disposal system?

My husband milked from 18 to 20 cows for 43 years. A lot of this milk was distributed to your hungry children. Would you care now to have the milk your children drink come from cows that drink polluted water from the proposed oxidation ponds.

On behalf of our community and homes, please vote No on Friday.

Mrs. Alex Robertson
Rt. 2, La Grande

To the Editor:

The new sewage site is in one of the finest neighborhoods in the valley, as I lived there five years and some of our dearest friends still live close to the proposed site. This lagoon is an unsightly, unpleasant, smelly escape to the whole valley and especially the surrounding neighborhood.

We live in the valley but pay taxes for 1600 Adams Avenue (very close to the subway). What would the close residents and businesses think and do if we moved an old W.P.A. outhouse up on Adams or built an open cesspool in the back yard. That would be much cheaper than paying a monthly sewage charge, and I don't feel it would smell.

Steel Firms Forgetting Expansion

NEW YORK (UPI) — The staggering losses suffered by most steel companies in the third quarter is forcing these firms to take a hard second look at their future expansion and modernization plans, Iron Age magazine said today.

Most companies will go ahead with announced programs, the metal-working weekly said, but some "will be hard-pressed financially to follow through with immediate plans."

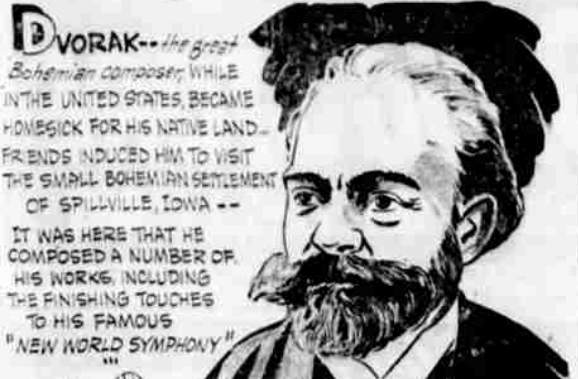

Nearly all, the magazine added, will be affected to the extent that future programs will be re-appraised or delayed.

The publication pointed out that tooling orders from hard-hit steel users also have been deferred. While auto makers report they have not altered their tooling programs, toolmakers say it is very difficult to "get decisions" on programs that have been long under study.

At the same time Iron Age said some shortages of consumer goods can be expected in the winter months. Autos in particular will be in short supply with car output dropping to less than half of normal production for the period.

INSPECTING BASES
TOKYO (UPI) — U. S. Pacific Army Commander Gen. I. D. White arrived here Tuesday for a tour of military installations in the Far East. He will visit Korea, Okinawa, Formosa, Hong Kong, and Guam.
