Nazarene Missionary Society Plans To Fill Clothing Need

The Galloway Chapter of the Nazarene Foreign Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. Roy Bechtel for the October session. Those present were Mesdames Orval Wilcox, Ed Alexander, Don Smith, Lawrence Abia, William Blackeney, Don Hanson, Bill Baca, Dee Quesinberry, and the hostess, Mrs. Bechtel. Devotions entitled "He Lives" were given by Mrs. Alexander. Mrs. Blackeney presented the prayer requests. She also read an article telling of the progress of little Danny York, for whom prayer had been requested. Danny is now recovering from paralytic polio. His doctors in Miami, Fla., said it was truly an answer to prayer that he had escaped the dread disease with his life. The business was conducted by Mrs. Abia, chapter chairman. The chapter received a request for clothing for the Harman Schmelzenbach family, newly appointed missionaries to Africa. Plans were made to secure the clothing required. It was also announced that the monthly prayer and fasting service will be held at the church the last Friday of each month at noon. "Education of the African" was the title of the lesson study given by Mrs. Smith. There is hardly an African of prominence today who has not, at some time in his life, attended a missionary school. After dismissal, Mrs. Bechtel served refreshments to those present.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann: My husband's god child was 13 in June. We've never failed to give Jean a birthday gift and a Christmas present. Never has she sent a card or made a phone call to acknowledge a gift. When we see Jean, her mother gives her a nudge, and she blurts out, "Gee, thanks for the present I got a few months ago."

My husband says she's too young for polished social graces. I say she's old enough to drop a line or pick up a telephone. What do YOU say, Ann Landers?—Chicagoan.

Dear Chicagoan: I say the girl's mother is nudging her much too late. If you want to do Jean a favor, sit down with her privately and give her a short course in common everyday courtesy. Anyone who takes the time and trouble to send a gift, is entitled to an acknowledgment. * * *

Dear Ann: How much does a woman owe her family anyway?

"Let's talk dry cleaning"
By Ed Craig

Want to prevent your draperies and slipcovers from telling their age? The best way we know of to keep them young-looking is to have them thoroughly cleaned at least once during the winter season as well as at the onset of spring. Furnaces, radiators, all purveyors of artificial heat put fumes and tiny particles of dust into the air. These eventually settle on draperies and slipcovers and dull the colors. If allowed to remain, they penetrate deep down into the fibers and tend to destroy them. An accumulation of soil always has a weakening effect on fabric, and when left for a long time it often becomes so firmly imbedded that it's difficult and even impossible to remove. Casement cloth, which is so popular for draperies today, is so loosely woven that it doesn't show soil as readily as more closely woven fabrics—but needs to be cleaned often to keep it fresh and new-looking and to insure long wear. It's much less expensive in the long run to have draperies and slipcovers cleaned regularly than to have them destroyed by hidden soil and have to be replaced. Send them to us. We'll remove hidden soil, brighten colors, make them look young again. Phone for prompt pickup and delivery.

Senior High School Parents Attend PTA

Parents of the Senior High School students found themselves following a pretty tight schedule when they attended the "Back To School" PTA meeting last night in the high school auditorium. In spite of conflicting meetings and a howling wind, a large group of parents took advantage of the opportunity to meet the teachers and inspect the classrooms. After picking up the student's schedule, parents were given three minutes to pass between each seven minute class. A full seven period day was followed. Refreshments were served during the evening in the home economics room and the library. Prior to the class visitations, Mrs. Easley, president, conducted a short business meeting. Officers for this year are president, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Easley; vice president, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Pitts; secretary, Mrs. Thelma Smutz; and treasurer, Bob Valient. Mrs. Melba Fisk requested to be contacted if any parents were interested in chaperoning the teenage dances held at the Armory. A. In Noyes spoke on behalf of the bond election to be held on Friday, concerning the sewage disposal lagoon. The audience was asked to "become informed on the issue, think it through, and come out and vote." Procedures for the classroom visits were explained by Jack Beck, who said that guides were available for all who became lost. The next meeting of the High School PTA will be held in January and all interested persons are urged to attend.
