Hearings on all cases were scheduled for 3 p.m. Monday.

National Grange Head Firm Against Farm Price Support

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—National Grange Grand Master Herschel D. Newsom was on record today opposing the current system of farm price supports while neither favoring "a return to full free competition for agriculture."

Newsom delivered the keynote address Monday to 2,000 delegates of the farm organization's 50th annual convention here. The National Grange claims a membership of 850,000.

The Columbus, Ind., farmer criticized the "present price-fixing programs wherein the government itself guarantees to take off the market all commodities not absorbed by the market at some pre-determined fixed price level."

However, he noted that industry's wages and prices have been supported by a broad system of government measures.

"Thus," he said, "glib talk about getting the government out of agriculture — or any other segment of our economy — is worse than sheer folly — it is tantamount to economic disaster."

Newsom then urged that all farm organizations close "the division of ranks" because despite minor philosophical differences between them the split was "neither as extensive nor serious as some have made it appear."

He pointed out the success that was achieved in the field of farm credit legislation as a result of cooperation between the various agriculture organizations.

"The success of cooperative efforts — in this and other areas — makes it clear that all farm leaders must rise above their personal or organizational prejudices," he said.

"We must be willing to modify our views and policies when, by doing so, we better serve rural America and our nation," Newsom added.

AUCTION PAINTINGS

LONDON (UPI) — An auction sale of English paintings by Constable, Turner, Gainsborough and others brought a total of $319,410 Friday.

The sale included the collection of the late H. L. Fison. Under terms of his will part of the proceeds from his collection, which totalled $289,209 in sales, went to the British Cancer Society.

Auto Accident Damage Trial In Circuit Court

A jury trial resulting from an auto accident damage claim is scheduled to get underway in Circuit Judge W. F. Brownton's court here Thursday.

Edward Crowder is plaintiff in the action against George Fuller and Roy Harvey, defendants, as a result of a truck-auto crash last Dec. 13 on Highway 203 between Union and La Grande.

Crowder claims that Fuller's pickup truck was negligently parked and left unattended when his auto, being driven at the time by Roy Harvey, crashed into the rear of the Fuller vehicle.

Fuller, in his cross complaint, charges that Crowder, as owner of the 1933 automobile, is responsible for the accident. The Crowder vehicle was damaged to the extent of $1,000, the action states.

Fuller claims that at 11 p. m. on Dec. 13 he had stopped to render assistance at the scene of an accident. He said the night was foggy and the road slippery, and that he parked with the two right wheels of the truck off the right hand side of the road and left the tail lights of the truck burning. He also says that the Crowder car approached at a high rate of speed and failed to heed warning lights from a flashlight truck.

REMEMBER WHEN

25 years ago, many elk kills were reported in La Grande and Wallowa County areas by hunters, with more than 25 checked in here: King Roe, city fireman, boasted the biggest kill of an elk which had a 44-inch spread.

J. B. Smith, Avery Harrison and Fnoch Morgan also had nice kills.

The La Grande City Council of PTA was notified of again winning the Babriel Cup in statewide membership competition. Mrs. Faye Miller was president of the local council, with Mrs. Hugh Leonard as membership chairman.

15 years ago, the sixth war loan drive was being planned for Union County, with a quota set at $775,000. W. C. Perkins was named county committee chairman, and Mrs. Carrie Troitinger as secretary. Others serving were A. J. Stange, A. K. Parker, R. J. Green, Lowell Williamson, Raymond Gray and Tesse Lumsden, executive committeemen.

Air service for La Grande was being sought before a CAA hearing, Charles Reynolds, Chamber of Commerce director, announced.
