News Reporter Dresses Like One And Covers International Meet

By FRANK ELEAZER UPI Staff Writer
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Nowhere in the house could I lay hands on spats or a cane, and the briefcase I got for graduation from college, what with the mold and all, was coming apart at the seams.

But they don't hold big diplomatic talks here every day, and

I was determined to let nothing deter me. In sports coat and slacks I approached the mahogany doors to the big caucus room in the House Office Building, where the 5th annual NATO parliamentary conference was assembled. Well, you would have thought this was the Harris committee investigating rigged quiz shows on TV. They let me right in. And in some other ways it was just like a few weeks ago, when in this same room 100 of us non-diplomatic reporters watched Charles Van Doren and friends mopping their brows for prizes like $125,000.

Only, the show then was on film, flashed on a screen. Now it was real. Two isolation booths dominated the front right corner of the hall, the biggest hearing room Congress has. In the left

Cove 4-H Clubbers Receive Special Awards At Meeting

COVE (Special)—The multi-purpose room at the Cove High School was filled to capacity for the 4-H Achievement and PTA meeting last week. ## EOC Thanksgiving Assembly Tuesday

"Land of Hope and Glory" is the theme of the Eastern Oregon College Thanksgiving assembly scheduled Tuesday, according to Dr. Virgil Bolen, chairman of the Interfaith Council, sponsoring organization.

The program is scheduled for 10 a.m. in the college auditorium.

The program will include Donald Nelson, vocalist; the EOC choir, under the direction of Neil E. Wilson; an interpretive dance, under the direction of Christine Nicoloff; and a pictorial presentation of the Northwest wonderland.

BASEBALL OPENER SET

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Boston Red Sox meet the Washington Senators in the American League's traditional opener here next April 18. It will mark the 10th time these two clubs have met in opening season ceremonies. The other six teams in the circuit play their inaugural games the following day.

At meetings like this they always have broadcast channels for English, Russian, and often for Spanish, Russian, and maybe Chinese, depending on who's there. Listening and talking at the same time, and in different languages, is much too tough even for the average wife. So the few experts who can do this are busy all over the world most of the time.

Traveling with the international set like they do, it's probably not so surprising that they tend to speak the Queen's English instead of the American kind.

Of the nine interpreters taking turns on the radio here, three each are from the United States and France and one each from England, Brazil, and Peru. Maybe I didn't catch the Americans. Anyway, with the noise and all, I never did learn exactly what the general was saying, but it had something to do with adjourning for lunch.
