Two Jacks-Coogan, Cooper, Take Back Seat To 'Beaver'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Jackie Coogan and Jackie Cooper, two of the biggest child stars in history, must take a back seat to 11-year-old Jerry Mathers in the statistical department.

As star of the "Leave It to Beaver" TV series, young Jerry is seen by some 20 million viewers weekly. His 39 half-hour shows for the past two seasons give him a total of 39 hours on film.

In 11 films as a child star Coogan racked up 13 1/2 hours while Cooper managed 2 1/2 hours in 15 pictures. Jerry's total does not include roles he has played in movies.

Jerry, however, is unmoved by the comparisons.

"When I grow up I'd like to be an attorney, or maybe own a restaurant," Jerry said. "Maybe I'll miss all the attention of being an actor when I quit. But I'm not going to let it throw me. If I stop acting it won't make any difference to my friends, anyhow."

NEW TREATY AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States, Russia and 10 other countries are near final agreement on a treaty to demilitarize Antarctica and freeze the region's territorial status quo. Treaty negotiators are expected to hold a final session Friday to sign the pact.

QUOTES IN THE NEWS

United Press International

LANGLEY FIELD, Va. — Air Force Capt. Donald K. Slayton, one of the seven U.S. astronauts, expressing confidence that the pilot of America's first space flight will get back even if automatic devices fail.

"It's a misconception that you have to build a system that is perfect automatically before you put a man in space. It's the man aboard that gives you reliability."

HOLYOKE, Mass. — Mrs. James Walsh, of Chicopee, Mass., who bought a $22.75 counter check and got one for $4,000.02.75 instead, refusing to return the check until the bank rebukes the teller who made the error.

"I'm just stubborn. Everybody makes mistakes."

HAVANA — Premier Fidel Castro, telling Cuba's two-million-member Labor Confederation (CTC) that their conduct had convinced him it would be unwise to arm and train "workers brigades."

"What would happen at this convention if each of you had a machine gun in his hand?"

CHICAGO — Robert F. Hurligh, president of the Mutual Broadcasting System, calling for a single program rating service and for a Senate hearing on the impact of ratings on programming.

"This will unearth some of the mumbo-jumbo, the double-talk, the weasel-wording and defensive mee-too tactics that undeniably are some of the causatives for the problems of our industry."

Russian Reports Trip

Somebody asked for a short report on the trip.

Tikhon Khrennikov, with smiling full face said he was glad to oblige. He said the Russians had visited eight big cities and many states from coast to coast and had been greatly enriched by their tour.

Through the interpreter he covered this thought, in a number of ways, in not more than 10 or 12 minutes.

"There is no doubt," he said, "but that our trip has broadened our idea of the American nature, the American people, and the American culture — and in particular the American musical culture. We have a knowledge now of the system of musical education in the United States. We had an opportunity of meeting the musical youth of America. Now we know about the American people and culture much more than we knew before."

He hadn't said specifically, I pointed out, whether his group's broadened view of America came as a change for the better or worse.

"Our attitude toward American culture is that it is an extremely high culture," Khrennikov said, smiling firmly.

I had a feeling this fell short of an answer. Maybe Boris Yartovsky had been sold on the group by our "wealthy and clever planning" of libraries, universities, public buildings, and theaters. He said they were impressed too by our art forms other than music, like painting.

"I cannot say of course," he added, however, "that our tastes are always the same."

Question Evokes Snickers

Well, why not try it once more? I said to myself. So I noted there had been pleasant mention of classical music and symphonic orchestras, but I wondered if any

Six Touring Soviets Guarded Their Press Conference Well

By FRANK BLEAZER UPI Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dmitri Kabalevsky, it is true, lost his balance and pretty nearly fell to the floor, but otherwise it was plain the six touring Russian composers weren't about to make any slips.

They were winding up a month's tour of the United States with a press conference at the Statler-Hilton Hotel. Looking back, I'm not sure why they called it. At the time I wondered mostly why they called it for 10 a.m. and then strolled in at about 10:08.

In fairness, they probably had been tipped off by some local souse that this was the American custom.

There was an exchange of smiles and greetings with the 18 or so newsmen.

Howard Mitchell, director of the National Symphony Orchestra, and an interpreter came in with the visitors, including Dmitri Shostakovich. There was a brief game of musical chairs as the group arranged itself behind a long baize-covered table. In the good-natured confusion I think Kabalevsky took a seat where there wasn't one. Mitchell helped him recover, and invited our questions.

Somebody asked for a short report on the trip.

Tikhon Khrennikov, with smiling full face said he was glad of the visiting six had had time to catch radio's musical fare—popular stuff like, say, rock 'n' roll — and if so, how did they like it?

One thing I learned out of this was that rock 'n' roll, when translated into Russian, comes out rock 'n' roll. Also that Kabalevsky for one didn't care for the snicker that went up at his mention from the more long-haired segment of the press.

"The question is somewhat strange," he said, icily. "Even more strange is the fact that the newsmen present are smiling."

Mitchell leaped diplomatically into the breach to say he was sure the question had been misunderstood. He rephrased it. Even so, "I've heard good popular music and music I don't like," was about the best I could get for an answer.

OBITS

United Press International

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Harry T. (Hal) Forrest, 66, creator of the comic strip "Taspin Tommy" died Monday. He was to be buried today at the Veterans National Cemetery in West Los Angeles.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Robert L. Hays, 61, an assistant vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., died Tuesday after a short illness.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Leon L. Kaso, 59, a writer-editor in the radio news department of the Daily News and former war correspondent for the United Press died Tuesday after a long illness.
