Spain's Opposition Groups Against Ike-Franco Confab

By HENRY F. SCHULTE
UPI Staff Writer

MADRID (UPI) — Leaders of Spain's opposition groups said today they hoped the world would interpret President Eisenhower's visit as a gesture toward the Spanish people and not as further recognition of the Franco regime.

They described their personal reaction of Eisenhower's visit to Generalissimo Francisco Franco as "very negative."

"As Spaniards we are humored," a top leader of the monarchist "Union Espanola" told me. "But we are sorry that the regime may be able to claim the visit us recognition of its rights."

One of the nation's best-known socialist leaders added, "we hope that any public gestures or speeches by the President will be directed towards the people and not the government."

Political Enthusiasm

Political observers here predicted a show of spontaneous enthusiasm for Eisenhower unequalled in recent Spanish history.

Even the opposition hoped the President's flying visit will go smoothly. They predict there will be no attempts at demonstrations.

"We have no desire to do anything that might be interpreted as showing hostility to the President," according to one of the nation's most outspoken critics of the Franco regime, socialist spokesman Dicilio Ridruejo.

To Arrive December 21

The President is due to arrive here Dec. 21 and will leave the following morning. During the brief stopover he will spend about six hours with Franco.

Even that is enough, opposition leaders feared, to enhance Franco's prestige in the world.

"We know that a military coup [in Spain] is necessary," a spokesman for the "Union Espanola" said, referring to the Spanish-American joint defense agreement and the network of American air and navy bases here.

"But any idea of political friendship is impossible," he added.

Hollywood Actress Approves Of Skimpy Attire In Films

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Everyone discusses morals and sex in movies except the individuals most closely connected with it — the glamour girls themselves.

In a new movie, Janet Leigh — Mrs. Tony Curtis in private life — strolls on screen in the opening scene clad only in brassiere and a half-slip for an intimate bed-room shot.

As a wife, mother and actress, Janet sees nothing wrong with sexy movie passages.

"It all depends on what purpose sex is used for," she said. "If pictures play up sex for sex sake, or for shock value, then I don't approve. But if it is used in story context—if it advances the plot—then I am all for it."

"What I'm trying to say," Janet added, "is that if sex is an essential part of the movie, then it's valid and necessary."

Undressed Far Days

As co-star with John Gavin in Alfred Hitchcock's "Psycho," the blonde beauty worked several days in the nude scenes. How did she feel about appearing in such abbreviated costume?

"I wasn't at all self-conscious," she said. "People are only self-conscious when they have a guilty conscience. If the script calls for me to wear next to nothing, it is all a part of my work."

I try to put myself on the set at ease."

"First of all I made an effort not to appear modest. That would give the idea that I was parading around nearly nude for other reasons. There was no bickering or whistling among the cast and crew."

Sex-Part Of Career

"Sex is part of what I'm doing for a living," Janet said and taste is a personal matter.
