EARLY CHRISTMAS
PORT BEUNAME, Calif. (UPI) — The Christmas presents were hidden in a closet and 3-year-old Mike Burgess fared out about it. Mike waited his chance. Then, when his mother, Mrs. James Burgess, went next door for a cup of coffee Monday, Mike locked the doors of the house and refused to open them until he completed opening all the presents in the closet.

XMAS PARTIES DECLINE
NEW YORK (UPI) — The office Christmas party is on the decline, the Commerce and Industry Assn. reported Monday of 897 firms queried, only 42.1 per cent are holding parties this year compared with 46 per cent in 1956.

Student Group Elects Officers

The recently organized 'Science Club' of Central Grade School has elected officers. The club, made up of fifth and sixth grade students, met in Avery Muller's room, and elected the following: La Zelle Griener, president; Sam Kinzer, vice president; and Danny Baker, secretary. Tommy Sberwood was elected song leader and Teresa Robertson, reporter. Millering is the instructor, and Bill De Mastus, assistant. Pupils are learning the care and use of microscopes. Later, when the weather permits, they will be out to conduct experiments on science questions. The 'Science Club' has aroused the interest of all the fifth and sixth grade members.

Edna Hopper Remembered; Gay Era Of U.S. 'Flappers'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Edna Wallace Hopper was a gentle and foolish and gay era when all the world seemed young and she was perpetual youth. In 1908 she married stockbroker Albert O. Brown and her stage work tapered off, but she started a new career as a beauty expert. She wore the first high heels and foolish hats and age never seemed to touch her girlish face or figure. Any grandfathers or grandmothers can tell you. Edna Hopper was the Gay '90s right into the Roaring '20s. She was "Floradora" and stagecoach Johnnies and the first face-liftings and women's diets. "My secret," she told an interviewer recently, "is I never smoked. I never drink. I eat sensible things — lots of proteins and no fats. I go to bed early during the week — not later than 9:30 and I get up at 6:30. Week ends I entertain or am entertained. I go to the theater a lot."

But her name brought the nostalgia of youth to any man old enough to remember bathtub gin and any woman who could remember her face glowing from the first beauty ads or those who saw the motion picture of her face-lifting operation which she took on a national lecture tour. She was an overnight sensation on Broadway in 1923. Impresario Charles Frohman had seen the fragile beauty (she never weighed more than 90 pounds) in small parts and he engaged David Belasco to write for her the comedy, "The Girl I Left Behind Me."

She went from one success to another, reaching her top triumph as the starring lady Hollywood in "Floradora." And if you can't remember the "Floradora Sextette" and "Tell Me Pretty Maiden," then back to the Brigittes and Marilyn's. She appeared with Lillian Russell and was courted and won by the dashing De Wolf Hopper. She divorced her husband after five years' marriage but kept his name because it was the one by which she had become known to audiences. In 1908 she married stockbroker Albert O. Brown and her stage work tapered off, but she started a new career as a beauty expert. She wore the first high heels and foolish hats and age never seemed to touch her girlish face or figure. "My secret," she told an interviewer recently, "is I never smoked. I never drink. I eat sensible things — lots of proteins and no fats. I go to bed early during the week — not later than 9:30 and I get up at 6:30. Week ends I entertain or am entertained. I go to the theater a lot."

Union Family Visits Portland

UNION (Special) — Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kenney drove to Portland recently to visit their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. John Wolf and to see their new grandchild, Heidi Lynn, who was two weeks old. Walter Dale Richards, apprentice petty officer third class, graduated Dec. 4 from recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif. Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Hendon and family have left for Miami, Fla., where they will spend the winter with his father, Robert Hendon. Mrs. Grace Leep has left for her home in Beaverton, after a visit with her daughter and family. Mr. and Mrs. Edison Spears.

KRUSH RETURNS

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev returned to Moscow Sunday after stopping to visit Kiev and other Ukrainian cities on his way home from the Communist party congress in Budapest.
