DODD

Dodd is also in position to add an all-American nod - or even contend fora national championship — in the heptathlon. Her score earlier in the week at Forest Grove is the top score at the NAIA level by 50 points, meaning she'll likely be in the mix at nationals.

But even with the national accolades that could lie ahead, her top goal in the final months of her junior year and into her senior year is to top the school record in the heptathlon. The standard, which is 4,934 points, has stood for 30 years and is held by the former Talia Hackney – now Talia Welch, wife of the EOU head track coach.

"It's fun to have the school record holder around and having her push me and support me," Dodd said. "Having Tali in my life has put that (breaking her record) as a big goal for me."

Dodd said she got to share a moment with Tali after moving up to No. 2 all-time at the school in the 100 hurdles last weekend at the NNU Invite, as Tali's old PR was one of the top marks she passed.

"She was super excited," Dodd said. "She thinks I'm going to be going for that school record soon. It helped spark that fire. I have so much respect and I love Tali. She such a great woman."

Even with the strides she has made, Dodd still sees many areas she could improve in, meaning the record she's chasing and the all-American or national title – could all be reached.

"I still have so much more potential in all these events," she said. ■
