

Spotlights

Happenings from around the district

Students at Keating Elementary designed the best way to make apple slices fly during a science activity the first week back to school.

Miguel Canul and Joe Chastain work on multiplication tables during the first days back at South Baker Intermediate School.

The first day back featured an alien theme at Baker High School. Each year, a group of students attend a program called Renaissance that focuses on improving school culture and the inclusion of all students. Day one featured class competitions and a dress up day for students and staff.