Whitney Meier converts a layup while being fouled during EOU's win over Simpson Saturday.

EOU

 struggled from deep — and a breakaway layup by Slater to help keep Simpson at bay. The Red Hawks did get as close at 64-61 in the final minute before a Nelson layup and a pair of free throws finished off the win.

"(In the) second half we got tired and we made too many turnovers," EOU head coach Anji Weissenfluh said. "Their pressure got to us, and we didn't play as confidently as we did in the first half. We had some individual decent performances, but as a team we struggled to shoot the ball tonight, (and) we struggled to be strong with the ball. Rebounding was a positive. Bev (Slater) stepped up on both ends, got some rebounds (and) played strong."

EOU was just 5-for-27 from 3-point range, its second straight off-game from long range to open the season. Nelson was the exception, going 4-for-6.

"Her 3s were pretty clutch, especially on a night when others were struggling to find the hole," Weissenfluh said. "Jane (Nelson) stepped up when we needed her (and) Whitney Meier stepped up in the first half and gave us valuable minutes."

Nelson said the confidence instilled in the players by Weissenfluh to keep shooting was important in her shooting effort, and in being able to hit the big triple late.

"She always tells us if that's your shot, even if you haven't been hitting it all game, keep shooting," Nelson said. "That's what I love about her. She always gives us confidence in our 3-point shot even if we feel like it's not falling. I'm glad she gives us the green light."

Nelson also said she doesn't anticipate the cold start from 3 this season to continue.

"We have a lot of great shooters. These last few games we've been on a roller coaster — they'll fall for a little while, and then we won't hit a lot. As the season progresses and we get our rhythm and figure out how we're supposed to work together, they'll start falling more consistently."

Emma Logan added 10 points and both Kylie Smith and Meier added seven, and all three had important baskets in the third quarter to fend off another Red Hawks rally. EOU went 4:02 without scoring to open the third before Smith's 3-pointer gave it a 37-32 lead. Slater hit a jumper, and then subsequent 3-point plays — one by Meier and one by Logan — pushed the lead to 45-37 with 3:56 to play in the third quarter. EOU followed with a 9-2 run to end the third and take a 56-42 lead on a Nelson trey.

After its alumni game and a scrimmage against Umpqua Community College next weekend, EOU (2-0 overall) hosts George Fox Nov. 2.
