TODAY
Today is Tuesday, April 28, the 119th day of 2020. There are 247 days left in the year.

TODAY'S HIGHLIGHT
On April 28, 1967, heavy-weight boxing champion Muhammad Ali was stripped of his title after he refused to be inducted into the armed forces.

ON THIS DATE
In 1788, Maryland became the seventh state to ratify the Constitution of the United States.

In 1789, there was a mutiny on the HMS Bounty as rebelling crew members of the British ship, led by Fletcher Christian, set the captain, William Bligh, and 18 others adrift in a launch in the South Pacific. (Bligh and most of the men with him reached Timor in 47 days.)

In 1918, Gavril Princip, 23, the assassin of Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria and the archduke's wife, Sophie, died in prison of tuberculosis.

In 1945, Italian dictator Benito Mussolini and his mistress, Clara Petacci, were executed by Italian partisans as they attempted to flee the country.

In 1958, the United States conducted the first of 35 nuclear test explosions in the Pacific Proving Ground as part of Operation Hardtack I. Vice President Richard Nixon and his wife, Pat, began a goodwill tour of Latin America that was marred by hostile mobs in Lima, Peru, and Caracas, Venezuela.

In 1963, at Broadway's Tony Awards, "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" was named best play while "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" won best musical.

In 1967, U.S. Army Gen. William C. Westmoreland told Congress that "backed at home by resolve, confidence, patience, determination and continued support, we will prevail in Vietnam over communist aggression."

In 1980, President Jimmy Carter accepted the resignation of Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, who had opposed the failed rescue mission aimed at freeing American hostages in Iran. (Vance was succeeded by Edmund Muskie.)

In 1986, the Soviet Union informed the world of the nuclear disaster at Chernobyl.

In 1988, a flight attendant was killed and more than 60 persons injured when part of the roof of an Aloha Airlines Boeing 737 tore off during a flight from Hilo to Honolulu.

In 1994, former CIA official Aldrich Ames, who had passed U.S. secrets to the Soviet Union and then Russia, pleaded guilty to espionage and tax evasion, and was sentenced to life in prison without parole.

In 1998, in a breakthrough for the government's tobacco investigation, cigarette maker Liggett and Myers agreed to tell prosecutors whether the industry had hidden evidence of health damage from smoking.

Oregon has new poet laureate

SALEM — Anis Mojgani, a two-time individual champion of the National Poetry Slam and an International World Cup Poetry Slam winner, is Oregon's new poet laureate.

Gov. Kate Brown on Monday announced Mojgani's two-year appointment to the post. Mojgani is Oregon's 10th poet laureate, succeeding Kim Stafford.

Born in New Orleans, Mojgani moved to Oregon in 2004. He is the author of five books of poetry, including his latest, "In the Pockets of Small Gods." His work has appeared on HBO, National Public Radio and several journals. He has performed at hundreds of universities across the U.S. as well as international festivals.

"I believe all of us wish to be seen on some level, to be heard," Mojgani stated in the press release. "For then we get a little closer to being known and understood. ... That is what poetry does — it gives us all the power and path to being known, both to ourselves and to others. It shows the ways in which we as humans, while carrying our aloneness, also belong and are connected to one another. The poem illuminates this collectiveness."

Lawsuit: Restaurant served fatal meal

BEND — The estate of a Bend man who died of salmonella claims he was served tainted chicken enchilada meals, according to a $2.5 million wrongful death lawsuit filed against El Rodeo restaurant.

The estate of Arthur Charles Sutton filed the lawsuit Monday in Deschutes County Circuit Court. Sutton died Aug. 16 at 70. The month before, he dined twice at El Rodeo, a Mexican restaurant in Bend.

El Rodeo owners Rodolfo and Lorena Arias did not return messages seeking comment.

Attorney David Wallace said the lawsuit is a matter of public health.

Sutton on July 16 went to El Rodeo and ate a meal of a chicken enchilada with rice, cabbage dip, coleslaw and chips, according to the lawsuit.

Over the next few days, Sutton experienced "constant dull aching pain in his abdomen, significant bowel problems, sweating and difficulty moving," the lawsuit states.

Sutton returned July 23 and ate the same meal, and that night his symptoms grew worse.

The next day he was taken to the emergency department of St. Charles Bend and was treated for two days for dehydration, vomiting and other conditions, according to the lawsuit. On July 29, he was readmitted to the hospital with kidney failure and other conditions.

Sutton died two weeks later, the cause determined to be sepsis with acute organ dysfunction due to salmonella. The lawsuit states that before Sutton's death, samples of his blood had tested positive for a species of salmonella.
