tonight's best

Bruce Lee

6 p.m. on ESPN; 9 p.m. on ESPN2 30 for 30

Acclaimed at the 2020 Sundance Film Festival, Bao Nguyen's documentary "Be Water" takes an intimate, very personal look at the life and instincts that motivated martial arts pioneer and pop culture icon Bruce Lee. The film starts with a chronicle of Lee's early years as the son of a Chinese opera star born while his father was on tour in San Francisco. Subsequently raised in Hong Kong, Lee was sent to live in America at age 18, when he began teaching kung fu in Seattle.

8:30 p.m. on CBS
Movie: Grease Sing-Along

Originally, tonight was scheduled to include the annual Tony Awards telecast honoring the best of the latest Broadway season, which was cut short by the coronavirus pandemic. That same health emergency brought down the curtain on that live special, but CBS has come up with replacement programming that still salutes Broadway — sort of. This rebroadcast of the blockbuster 1978 movie adaptation of the musical "Grease" airs here with follow-along lyrics to encourage viewers at home to sing along.

10:30 p.m. on HBO
I May Destroy You

Rising British star Michaela Coel is executive producer, writer and star of this new drama series about sexual consent, exploring how the distinction between liberation and exploitation often gets blurred in the modern dating world. Coel stars as Arabella Essiuedu, a confident, free-spirited Londoner who is on the cusp of a promising writing career, until someone spikes her drink with a date-rape drug, calling every element of her life into question. Weruche Opia, Paapa Essiuedu, Aml Ameen, Adam James, Sarah Niles and Ann Akin co-star.
