“Crossing Swords”

This stop-motion-animated comedy series follows the adventures of a good-hearted peasant who realizes his coveted position of squire at the royal palace comes with definite drawbacks in the form of libidinous monarchs, crooks and charlatans. Worse, he's now the black sheep of his criminal family and his siblings are intent on making him suffer. Nicholas Hoult, Breckin Meyer, Tony Hale, Luke Evans and Adam Pally head the voice cast. “Movie: Brick Mansions”

Set in a dystopian Detroit of the near future, this 2014 French-Canadian action film — a remake of the superior 2004 French film “District 13” — follows a heroic undercover cop (Paul Walker) who joins forces with an ex-con (David Belle, essentially recreating the character he played in “District 13”) to rescue the latter's kidnapped girlfriend (Catalina Denis) and save the city from apocalyptic destruction. RZA also stars. This was the last film Walker completed before his death in November 2013.

“Movie: Gloria”

From Chile comes this 2013 comedy/drama about a free-spirited older Santiago woman and the realities of her whirlwind romance with a former naval officer who she meets out while clubbing. Chilean stage legend Paulina García (“I'm Not Lorena”) stars as the title character, in a cast with Sergio Hernández, Diego Fontecilla and Fabiola Zamora for director Sebastián Lelio (“The Year of the Tiger”).

“Movie: The Conjuring”

The director who launched the “Saw” franchise, James Wan, shows he has what it takes to freshen up another horror concept with this paranormal investigation melodrama ... asurprisingly strong force at the 2013 summer box office. Vera Farmiga (“Bates Motel”) and Patrick Wilson (“ Fargo”) — also one of Wan's “Insidious” stars — play supposed experts on the supernatural who end up in over their heads when they probe a family's haunted farmhouse.
