“Giada's Holiday Handbook”

The Food Network mainstay offers up creative, fun and relatively simple entertaining ideas for different holidays and special occasions in the first four seasons of this cablenet series. In each episode, she presents recipes and tips for making themed party favors for guests, be it at a Thanksgiving meal or a Yuletide bash, along with ideas for music and decor pairings.

“Movie: Braking for Whales”

Writer/director Sean McEwen (“The Dougherty Gang”) teamed with wife Tammin Sursok (“Pretty Little Liars”) to make this 2020 dramedy about estranged siblings (Sursok, who co-wrote the script, and Tom Felton, the “Harry Potter” movies) who must come together on a road trip to satisfy their deceased mother’s absurd final wish, that her ashes be disposed of in the body of a whale.

“Tia Mowry at Home”

“Sister, Sister” actress Tia Mowry-Hardict shows off her chops in the kitchen in this 2015-17 unscripted series that aired on the Cooking Channel, which shows her in her everyday life as a wife, mother and thespian, but mainly preparing sumptuous meals for her family and friends. Guest stars including actresses Kelly Rowland, Wendy Raquel Robinson and the late Naya Rivera make appearances.

“Movie: Bombshell”

Charlize Theron and Margot Robbie reaped a bonanza of awards season love for their performances — as Fox News colleagues Megyn Kelly and Kayla Pospisil — in Jay Roach’s 2019 drama that chronicles how several women at that cable news outlet teamed up to expose executive Roger Ailes (John Lithgow) for sexual harassment. Nicole Kidman and Kate McKinnon also star.
