

TUNESMITH NIGHT season ends, but the MUSIC GOES ON

■ Saturday's virtual episode concludes this season, which is archived and accessible anytime

ENTERPRISE — The Wallowa Valley Music Alliance wraps up the 15th season of Tunesmith Night, a showcase of original music, on Saturday, May 8.

The performance will be streamed to YouTube and www.wvmusicalalliance.org at 7 p.m. Viewers may watch it live or anytime later and are encouraged to show their support for the program via online donations.

The May 8 season finale edition features two dynamic songwriting duos, Wanderlodge and Jezebel's Mother.

Wanderlodge

Wanderlodge hails from Portland but has spent most of its time on the road. The duo formed in 2016 with Matt Cadenelli and Kris Stuart combining their love of classic rock and country with their own tunes, those of other favorite local songwriters, and a taste for the sunny, country rock sounds of LA and its surrounding canyons. The result is a new west coast, country rocking gem, and their recent recording "Cypress Mountain Drive" is an excellent example that really shines. More on Wanderlodge here: <https://wanderlodge.bandcamp.com>.

LISTEN

Due to COVID-19, Tunesmith Night season's concert series was presented virtually in 2021-2021. The season, which runs October to April, traditionally the music was performed in front of a live audience. While we all miss the energy inherent in such gatherings, the bonus is the recorded concerts are recorded and the entire season is available to watch online anytime you want at the Wallowa Valley Music Alliance's website: www.wvmusicalalliance.org.

Jezebel's Mother

Songwriters Carolyn Lochert and Janis Carper blend their talents to form the bluesy-rootsy-lively-lovely sound of Jezebel's Mother. With swirling rhythms and harmonies, sentiment and smiles, each tight but spontaneous performance is a musical adventure that reveals the bond of best friends. Whether they're belting out blues on a big concert stage or crooning in the corner of a cozy coffeehouse, these two seasoned musicians entertain with soul and style.
