Stream a free Oregon Shakespeare Festival production

BAKER CITY — Eastern Oregon Regional Theatre is providing free streaming access May 3-29 to the Oregon Shakespeare Festival's production of “Snow in Midsummer” — a modern ghost story that “reimagines a classic myth and explores the legacy of trauma, the heart of injustice, and the lengths to which we go for love,” according to OSF.

Full show description, including audience age recommendations, is available at www.osfashland.org.

To sign up for a streaming pass, email bakerlivetheatre@gmail.com and EORT will send the access code to you for viewing.

EORT arranged the showing as a thank-you to the community for its ongoing support during the pandemic by providing a free professional theater experience from the comfort of home.
