“The Lucy Show”

Lucille Ball reteamed with her “I Love Lucy” collaborators Bob Carroll Jr., Madelyn Davis, Bob Schiller and Bob Weiskopf to create this 1962-68 sitcom follow-up in which she stars as Lucy Carmichael, a scheming widow with two kids, a long-suffering best friend (Vivian Vance, also from the previous series) and a cantankerous boss (Gale Gordon).

“The Roy Rogers Show”

The inaugural round of this Western series originally broadcast on NBC from 1951 to 1957 stars Rogers and wife Dale Evans as a ranch owner and a cafe proprietor in an 1800s Old West town that apparently had all the conveniences — cars, telephones, electric lights — of the 20th century. Rogers’ beloved horse Trigger and German shepherd Bullet the Wonder Dog headed the nonhuman cast.

“Movie: The Theory of Everything”

Eddie Redmayne won an Oscar for his superb performance as astrophysicist Stephen Hawking in this 2014 biopic, which charts Hawking’s relationship with then-wife Jane (Felicity Jones). Both are tested sorely when Stephen is diagnosed with ALS, but even as his body fails, he applies himself even more to his work, becoming a global icon for his accomplishments against very visible odds. Emily Watson also stars.

“Movie: Lady of the Manor”

Actor Justin Long and his brother Christian made their directorial debuts with this 2021 buddy comedy about a pot-smoking slacker (Melanie Lynskey, “Yellowjackets”) who gets a job as a tour guide at a historic Savannah, Ga., mansion and winds up becoming friends with the ghost of a 19th century resident (Judy Greer, “The Descendants”). Justin Long, Ryan Phillippe, Luis Guzman, and Patrick Duffy also star.
