“Your Attention Please”

Celebrity dog groomer Ashley Ann, ice cream scientist Dr. Maya Warren and NASCAR pit crew member Brehanna Daniels are among those in the spotlight in the third season of this series that delves into the lives, ideas and purpose of a diverse group of Black innovators and creators who are leaving their mark on the world. Craig Robinson is the host. (ORIGINAL)

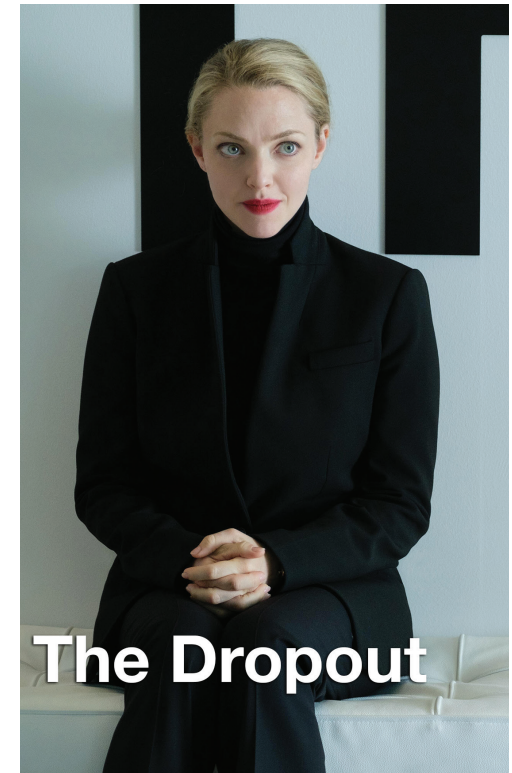

“Pawn Stars”

The inaugural round of episodes of this long-running History Channel series about the daily activities of Richard “Old Man” Harrison, son Rick, grandson Corey and his childhood friend Austin “Chumlee” Russell at the World Famous Gold & Silver Pawn Shop of Las Vegas comes to the streaming service.

“Movie: Ali”

Will Smith was an Oscar nominee for his performance as the heavyweight champ — whose personal life has been as colorful as his style in the ring — in director Michael Mann’s (“Heat”) biographical 2001 drama. The film examines the former Cassius Clay’s relationships with right-hand man Drew “Bundini” Brown (Jamie Foxx) and sportscaster Howard Cosell (a heavily made-up Jon Voight), and the controversies Ali stirred.

“The Dropout”

Amanda Seyfried (“Mank,” “Les Miserables”) is the dropout of the title in this limited series from Elizabeth Meriwether (“New Girl”), which casts her as Theranos CEO Elizabeth Holmes, whose vision for a revolutionary blood-testing device brought her to the top of the business world before she was arrested and charged with defrauding investors. Naveen Andrews, William H. Macy, Laurie Metcalf and Utkarsh Ambudkar also star. (ORIGINAL)
