it. I told him to enjoy the living heck out of it.”

Rollins said he plans to major in agricultural entrepreneurship, which includes business, economy, agriculture and accounting.

A man of many talents

The Cardinal finished 5-5 overall and 4-2 in Special District 2-West play this past season.

They lost to St. Paul 44-8 in a mud bowl in the first round of the 1A state playoffs. It was the Cardinals’ first trip to state since 2009.

Rollins had 89 yards rushing, nine tackles and a quarterback sack in the game.

Rollins was a first-team all-league kicker and punter, and was named to the second team as a running back and guard, and was an honorable mention linebacker.

Rollins rushed for 712 yards on 91 carries for 13 touchdowns. He also led the Cardinals with 106 tackles.

“Tanner is a kid who is very versatile,” Stefani said. “He is very football savvy. He could roll into the center position and learn that position very quickly. I could definitely see him playing center. His versatility is going to be the big thing for him going to college.”

Rollins also is an alternate for the East team for the 69th annual East-West Shrine Game on Aug. 6 in Baker City.

“Most of us kids who come and play are farm kids,” Rollins said. “We have to work and that work ethic translates to the football field and the classroom. I don’t live on a farm, but I work on a farm and ranch.”

Rollins also played basketball for the Cardinals, who finished their season 20-2 overall and 9-0 in Big Sky League play. They lost a state play-in game to Nixyaawii to end their season.

Rollins averaged 5.4 points, seven rebounds, 2.5 steals and 2.1 assists a game for the Cardinals. He was selected to the Big Sky League honorable mention team.

Rollins and his younger brother Bryce get their athletic talents from their parents Ed and Tricia.

Ed Rollins played football and wrestled at West Seattle High School, and went on to play football at Montana State, where he was an offensive lineman for the Bobcats.

Tricia played basketball and was a cheerleader at Lima High School in Montana.

games played — he averaged 38.2% from 3-point range and shot 39.4% from the field. In his freshman season, Brown played in 10 games and scored 9.9 points per game off 56.3% shooting from long range and 56.1% from the field.

The additions come in the wake of losing senior guard Max McCullough from the starting lineup. Guard Zane Wright left the program following his graduation, while forward Xavier Lovelace left Eastern after finishing the year second on the team in scoring. Guard Manny N’Tula will also transfer this offseason to play closer to home.

Following the loss of several guards, Eastern has stocked up its backcourt with a sizable group of newcomers. The Mountaineers are coming off a season in which first-year head coach Kemp led the way for a 18-13 record overall and a 12-10 record in conference play.
