

Technology helps orchardists work with nature for greatest advantage

Agricultural engineers shape the land to create the most effective air flow. The orchards are designed with state-of-the-art irrigation systems and maximum access for equipment and harvesting crews.

Technology helps these orchardists work with nature for greatest advantage — for the best angle of seasonal sunlight, wind direction and frost control.

There are many reasons why Gebbers Farms fruit is famous for quality and freshness, and this family takes pride in their efforts.
