The market has rebounded handsomely in the last few weeks and prices are now above the first week of October levels. More and more weaned calves are available for sale this time of year and even the unweaned calves didn't suffer the considerable discounts seen the past several weeks.

Calves suitable for grazing wheat have been in demand the past couple weeks and this week

All week long, auctions from the Southern

Plains of Texas to the Northern Plains of North

Dakota saw many more receipts and the auction receipts this week on this report is the largest for all of 2016. Producers have been waiting for the market to rebound all fall long and they are finally

However, the weather has been great for fall

WESTERN FLUID MILK AND CREAM REVIEW (USDA Market News) Madison, Wis.

Nov. 17

Farm level milk output is up in California following seasonal trends. Lower daytime temperatures in the Central Valley, averaging 75

On one end, orders from educational institu tions are lower as most K-12 schools will close for the Thanksgiving holiday. At the other end, Class 1 retail demands continue to be strong ahead of the upcoming holiday, somewhat lim iting manufacturing milk supplies. Demands for eggnog and flavored milk are active.

Some dairy operators are buying high quality alfalfa from nearby states since local supplies are tight. California is into the last cutting of alfalfa hay. Winter wheat planting is active throughout the state

The December 2016 Class 1 prices in California are $19.22 in the north and $19.49 in the south. The statewide average Class 1 price based on production is $19.23. This price is up $3.08 from the previous month and $0.89 higher than December 2015.

According to the DMN National Retail Report-Dairy for the week of Nov. 11-17, the national weighted average advertised price for one gallon of milk is $2.57. The weighted average regional prices in the Southwest and Northwest are $2.22 and $2.50, respectively.

Pacific Northwestern dairy contacts report plenty of milk for most processing needs. Milk production is seasonally steady with a lot of milk moving to cheese manufacturing. Bottling demand is stable

Cheese manufacturers anticipate more milk to be available for processing runs next week due to the holiday break

Milk production in Idaho, Colorado and Utah is stable and in good supply. Processors are not having any trouble getting milk they need, and the milk is finding homes at nearby plants. Farmers have good supplies of feedstuffs for dairy herds and are happy to see some snow accumulating at higher elevations. Any snow that stays will help recharge the reservoirs used for next year's irrigation needs

Condensed skim interest from Class II processors remains strong. As a result, condensed skim volumes moving into dryers are steady to lower. Cream usage for cream cheese, sour cream, whipping cream, dips, eggnog and othe popular holiday dairy products is robust.

Cream supplies vary all over the West. Some volumes are moving to the Central region and Mexico. A few butter processors are opting to sell the cream instead of churning, as multiples remain relatively high. This week, multiples for all classes are slightly higher, ranging from 1.08 to 1.27.

boosted by urea plant project BEULAH, N.D. (AP) -One of North Dakota's largest ongoing construction projects is making its host county a harbor of economic stability while much of the state experiences tough economic times.

N. Dakota county's economy

A $500 million urea fertilizer plant started in 2014 is past the halfway construction mark within the sprawling industrial complex of Basin Electric Power Cooperative's Dakota Gasification Co. plant northwest of Beulah, the Bismarck Tribune reported.

Mercer County is already home to four power plants, two lignite coal mines and the synfuels plant. Sales were up 17 percent in the most recent reporting quarter compared to last year. That same number declined 26 percent statewide.

Tax Commissioner Ryan Rauschenberger said coal industry counties are usually a beacon of stability over the years as other counties that are dependent on agriculture and oil struggle with declining commodity prices.
