Comment: Extreme dry conditions will send cattle to market early this year. If you have cows and bulls to cull the earlier the better. Now more than ever before a proper vaccination program for your calves will help them bring more money. Buyers are requesting vaccination records on the calves. Some buyers are taking a firm pass on unvaccinated cattle this year. Call us and we can share a proper vaccination protocol.

to instances of dangerous flash flooding. Arizona contacts say milk output has tightened as cow comfort is less than optimal amid high heat, humidity, and muddy farm conditions. Flooded roads have caused some delays in milk pick ups, but handlers report that milk deliveries are still coming in. Class I orders are ramping up as the school year begins for some educational institutions. Class II demand is flat. Milk production in New Mexico is lower and following seasonal patterns. Bottling sales are level. Class III demand is steady to higher. Balancing plants are active, but not stressed, contacts report. Heat events and wildfire conditions may have influenced slightly lower than expected production in Washington, but contacts say that milk output in the Pacific Northwest is relatively steady overall.
