Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is seeking to hire an Environmental Planner 4 Want to join something GREAT and make a difference? Are you interested in natural resources management that balances financial, ecological, and social objectives using cutting edge science and data management? Do you enjoy working with a variety of natural resource experts including, scientists, forest modelers, data analysts, foresters, biologists, and public outreach specialists on high priority projects? The Washington State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is looking for an Environmental Planner 4 to assist in a variety of projects related to trust land management throughout Washington state. The selected candidate will be involved in a multitude of projects that provide long lasting benefits to the citizens, economy, and ecosystems of WA state. This lead position reports to the Projects and Planning Assistant Division Manager (ADM) of the Forest Resources Division, serving as the senior planner for the establishment of Sustainable Harvest Calculation (SHC) projects on 2.1 million acres of DNR-managed lands. The majority of the work involves implementing direction from Forest Resources Division leadership to ensure that the development of the SHC follows all State Environmental Policy Act (Chapter 43.21 RCW and implementing regulations) (SEPA) requirements. In addition to helping interpret complicated SEPA policy and procedural issues, this position also interprets complex technical data sets (including forest inventory and yields, GIS datasets, and forest estate model outputs) for Division, Executive Management, the Board of Natural Resources and stakeholders. This position works with Regions, Divisions, Executive Management, and Assistant Attorney Generals for review and input as needed.
