The Road to Wealth. Cannot be necessarily traced without good health. To reach wealth or any coveted position in life requires the full possession and operation of all the faculties of the human body. These conditions cannot exist unless the physical being is in perfect working order, and this is impossible when the liver and spleen are torpid, thus obstructing the secretions, causing indigestion and dyspepsia, with all of their accompanying horrors. DR. HENLEY'S English Bile Beans Tonic cures a specific influence over the liver, causes it to healthy action, restores the chronic engorgements, and promotes the secretions; cures indigestion and constipation, opens the arteries, tones up the entire system, and makes life worth living.

OREGON STATE WEATHER SERVICE. In Co-operation with U. S. Weather Bureau, of the Department of Agriculture. Central office, Portland, Oregon. Crop-Weather Bulletin No. 2588. For week ending, Saturday, April 13. THE PAST WINTER. During October the rains were well distributed and about the average amount. During November and December the rains were heavy and general throughout the state, there being an absence of the usual amount of sunshine. January, February and up to March 20th the rains were light; sufficient, however, to keep the soil in good condition. There was an absence of any heavy snowfall, east of the coast mountains, while to the west there were few days that the temperature was below the freezing point; in eastern Oregon there was an entire absence of any snowfall, and a temperature of zero occurring but a few times in the more elevated regions. There was not the usual acreage of fall crops, owing to the low rate of the heavy November and December rainfall, but that which was sown did remarkably well. Plowing and seeding were pushed to their utmost during January, February and the first part of March, so that now the acreage of cereals is fully up to the average, and it is all reported to be in first-class condition. A more favorable winter for the stock has seldom been experienced. There is no loss reported; the grass and feed were plentiful and the stock all came through the winter in excellent condition. The growing season of 1912 opens most favorably for a bountiful harvest, even surpassing the wonderful yields and products of 1911. It should, however, be borne in mind that the success of the cereal crop in eastern and southern Oregon especially, depends more upon the distribution and amount of the rainfall in May and June and the temperature conditions in those months than the conditions of the soil and prospects at the present time.

WEATHER. The week has been generally cloudy and rainy; the temperature has been from 3 to 6 degrees a day below the average. The rainfall amounted to from 1.5 inches to 2.5 inches for the week, being considerably more than the average amount. Light frosts occurred in the more exposed places on the coast and in the foothills of the mountains, and on the 23rd snow fell on the foothills and mountains. The winds have been generally southerly, and chilly in effect. CEREALS. Cereals are all in good condition, though more growth would obtain if there should be more sunshine, which has been very deficient. The rainy weather and seedling have been generally in full bloom, and so far are in good condition, though the weather for the week has been unfavorable. The present weather conditions, which if continued, will seriously injure the prospective crop. Less rain, more sunshine and warmer weather are needed to protect and develop the buds. The smaller fruits and berries are developing nicely. The hop men are busily engaged in preparing the hops for the coming crop. The acreage is being increased in most of the counties. The weather has not been favorable to the lambing season, as the rains and snow have been so general. Warmth and sunshine during the coming week will materially benefit all crops and products. EASTERN OREGON WEATHER. General rains have prevailed throughout the past week, and on Sunday, March 27th, by a general snowstorm throughout the entire section, being heaviest along the Blue mountains. At Coeur d'Alene, snow fell to a depth of one foot; in Grant Co., from 10 to 15 inches fell. General frosts have prevailed, except in the more sheltered places. The amount of sunshine has been below the average for the month. CROPS. The weather has been unfavorable to the growth of all vegetation, though no damage has been done save in a very few exposed places. The frosts of March 27th, 28th and 29th, have been more advanced and tender vegetation. Plowing and seeding are nearly done, and the acreage is somewhat larger than last year. The soil is in fine condition, and the wheat has a good stand, and the prospects are excellent. Peaches, apricots, almonds and apples are in full bloom, except in the interior. The fruit prospects are, so far, very good. Sheep shearing is being pushed. In some sections it has been finished. An extra good clip and staple has been secured. The weather is too cold for the newly-shorn sheep. Lambing is now in progress. The general prospects for cereals, fruits and stock are very good; much better than usual at this period of the year. B. S. PAGUE, Observer, Weather Bureau and Asst. Dir. Ore. W. T. Bureau.

Obituary. BROWNBORO, March 31, 1912. Little Nellie Farlow, the youngest daughter of W. P. and Lizzie Farlow, departed this life at her grandparents' home in Brownboro, Jackson county, Or., March 27th, 1912, in the 14th year of her age. This was passed away a beautiful spirit. She was born in Scio, Linn Co., Oregon, June 25, 1878. Her heart is sad and lonely. And of her grave a shade is cast; For by that grave she loved to rest. The grave has passed. It was night. All nature seemed hushed to rest. Naught disturbed the stillness of night save the low rustle of leaves from the trees that shaded the house, and now and then the evening notes of the whippoorwill in the large maple so near the window of the apartment where lay our loved one that we feared the notes would disturb her now seemingly quiet slumber. They told us she was dying; that soon our darling would be no more. We watched as the little angel breathed so low, not a man could hear her lips. The physician told us she could not live longer than midnight, and yet we hoped and prayed that our darling might be spared to us, for how could we live in this cold world without her? You who have lost those that are near and dear, know how our hearts yearned over one who had never been so kind and gentle even while that terrible disease was stealing her little life away. At almost midnight she awoke. Oh! how we trembled; we almost held our breath in this dreadful hour of suspense, longing, hoping for just one look of recognition. Little Nellie slowly opened her eyes and again closed them never more to open them in this life. Her spirit had fled without a struggle, and we were left to fight the battles of life alone. Oh! you who have little children be kind, be true to them, for you know not how long they may be spared to you. Sleep sweetly, little sister. E. J. B. Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Farlow wish to thank the kind friends and neighbors for their sympathy and assistance in their late sad affliction.

John M. Morgan and wife lived in Benton county about twelve years and raised a family. They were quite well known and highly respected, but married life was a failure in this case, and a divorce was applied for and granted. This was several years ago, and Mrs. Morgan was allowed $8000 for the support of herself and family. Since then it has been learned that Mr. Morgan is very wealthy, and in the settlement with his wife induced her, by fraudulent representations, to sign a deed conveying her interest in the community property, valued at $300,000. Mrs. Morgan is now a resident of Colfax, Wash., and her former liege lord lives in Spokane. She has just begun an action to set aside the deed of the court and asks that she be given her rightful share of his possessions. A drive in job work. For a few days we will furnish you with 1,000 printed envelopes for $3.00, or 1,000 printed letter heads for $3.50. Give this your immediate attention, as these offers are only for a short time.
