SOME NEW LAWS.

GAME LAW.

It punishes the use of sink boxes, batteries, swivel or pivot guns, either from shore or boat or raft; blinds (except 100 feet from the shore of lakes) hunting between sundown and sunrise (except on grain and generally in Curry county); offering for sale or killing grouse, pheasants, quail, ringnecked, China, silver, golden, copper or green Japanese pheasants, bobwhite, jacknipe or prairie chicken, except between October 15 and November 15, and except that prairie chicken may be killed in July, August and September, and except that no quail, bobwhite or pheasant may be at any time killed east of the Cascades—by a fine of $15 to $100 and costs, or equivalent imprisonment. The penalty is extended to transportation of the birds, except alive for exhibitory or propagation purposes. Wild ducks, geese and swan may only be sold in November and December; trout only in September and October. Deer must not be hunted between December 1 and August 1, or from an hour after sunset until a half hour before sunrise of any day, or in any day unless the carcass is used for food. Moose, elk and mountain sheep may not be taken between December 1 and August 1, or at any time for their skin, hides, horns or hams. These parts must at no time be sold or transported. The animals themselves must not be held in custody during their close season, and the possession of a hide or skin is prima facie evidence of having killed the animal. One-half of all fines go to the informer, and concurrent jurisdiction is given to justices of the peace.

FORMALLY ABOLISHED.

The state board of charities and corrections was formally abolished by Senator McGinn's bill repealing the act creating it, which passed the senate February 13 and the house February 17, and was approved by the governor.

RIGHTS OF MARRIED WOMEN.

This bill provides that the property and pecuniary rights of every married woman at the time of her marriage, or afterward acquired, shall not be subject to the debts nor contracts of her husband; she may manage, sell, convey or devise the same by will to the same extent and in the same manner that her husband can property belonging to him.

WOMAN'S SPHERE EXTENDED.

Among Senator Gates' bills is one which becomes a law in spite of adversities. It is numbered 78, and provides that women over the age of 21 years, who are citizens of the United States and of the state, shall be eligible to all educational offices within the state, and repeals all conflicting acts. The manifest purport of the law is to enable women to hold the office of school superintendent. Many maintain, however, that it is in conflict with that section of the constitution which provides that "no person shall be elected or appointed to a county office who is not an elector of the county."

FISH AND GAME PROTECTION.

Senator Myer's fish and game bill repeals the fish commission act of 1887 and provides that there shall be elected biennially by the legislature a competent person who shall be denominated a game and fish protector, whose term of office shall continue two years. He must give a $1000 bond, devote his time and attention to the duties of his office, receiving $2000 a year, and expenses not to exceed $500. He must enforce the game, fish and song bird legislation, under direction of the governor, visiting suspected places and gathering evidence of infractions. He is given authority to inspect packages stored or en route, and upon finding evidence must prosecute offenders; also authority to manage the hatcheries. He may discontinue proceedings, but no costs may be assessed to the prosecution, and sheriffs and constables must co-operate. Half the fine money goes to the county treasury, half to the state's general fund. The informer, officer or otherwise, receives what is left after the expense of prosecution is taken out of the county's one-half. The protec-

MINES AND MINING.

Mr. G. W. Johnson, of this city, left on Tuesday for Redding, California, to look after some mining interests.

THE GUIDEBOARD BILL.

One of the new laws provides that every road supervisor shall erect and keep up at the forks of every highway and every crossing of public roads within his district a guide or finger board, containing an inscription in legible letters, directing the way and specifying the distance to each town or public place situated on each road. The supervisors are not to be paid until they have submitted their report to the court, showing to the satisfaction of the court that the guideboards have been erected.

Galls Creek Items.

The Koppel saw-mill is again doing a fine business.

James Bleuins was on the creek lately, visiting friends and fair ones.

Mrs. E. Falkner has returned to her husband at Portland, after a prolonged visit among us.

Old Mr. Horn is now quite feeble from palsy, with which he has been afflicted for some time.

J. H. Storey is convalescent from too much Grant's Pass, we guess. It might be la grippe.

It is again reported that Mr. Horn has struck it bigger than ever. If such is the case Galls creek will soon claim its place in the foremost rank as a mining district.

Miss Edna Gibson has closed her fall and winter school here on the creek. Her school has been one of unusual prosperity, and she has the thanks and best wishes of all. She will teach our spring term.

Died.—Miss Lizzie, oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. William Blakette. Lizzie was a bright and intelligent girl in her teens, and we shall miss her from our midst. The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away. May he comfort the bereaved ones in their sore affliction.

Galls creek is the mecca of the prospector nowadays. Prospectors from all the adjoining districts are visiting the creek now, since D. Horn reached down into one of old mother earth's inside pockets and pulled out that rusty old "fifteen dollars" that lay on deposit there. I don't know whether he took it out on Saturday night or not, or whether he had a "friend from Tammany hall" with him at the time, but however, Mr. H. was not broke on Monday morning, for when he reached down in the fold of the old lady's outer garment and struck the pocket he did not stop at $15, but just kept on digging up as long as he could find any of the filthy lucre, and now he is all O. K.

Prospectors who rank in all stages of the profession, from the hayseed, right raw from the ranch, to the expert with a handle to his name, are breaking rock, pawing dirt, and putting up notices all over the hills in the vain hope of striking a big bonanza. The tools of their trade comprise a various lot and range all the way from garden hoses, dish pans and post hole augers to frying pans, pocket knives and claw hammers. The man with the story of rich float being found by somebody in early days who, of course, is now dead and sleeps beneath the daisies, and the man who had a dream that he found a boulder that was half gold; the man who knows it all; the man who don't know anything, and last but not least, the man with the forked stick, are all here.

Specimen Cases.

S. H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism. His stomach was disordered, his liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away and he was tormented with indigestion and weakness. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

Edward Shepherd, Harrisburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Calawa, O., had five large fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle of Electric Bitters and one box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold at G. H. Haskins' drug store.

How It Became Popular.

When people find an article much superior to anything of the kind they have ever before used, they are almost sure to tell their friends about it, and especially if they know of some friends needing such an article. Dealers also soon learn the true value of their goods, and when they have an article of an unusual merit they will almost invariably mention the fact to their customers. This accounts in a great measure for the large sale on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Here is an instance: W. L. Northam, a prominent citizen and business man of Oregburg, Mo., has been selling Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for several years, and recommends it to his customers, because in his experience it has proven to be the best for colds, croup and whooping cough. He says it is the most popular medicine that he handles, and gives the best satisfaction. 50 cent bottles for sale by G. H. Haskins, Druggist.

REPUBLICAN REORGANIZATION.

There has been some talk since the result of the late presidential election became known concerning the necessity for a reorganization of the Republican party. Just what is meant by reorganization is not clear. If it is only proposed that changes should be made in the method of conducting political campaigns in order to secure a better canvass and more accurate information as to the political affiliations or preferences of electors; to bring those who are temporarily charged with the management of the campaign and the party leaders into touch with the masses, and to provide a more effective means for reaching the individual voter, no one will question the necessity. If, again, by the reorganization of the Republican party is meant the abandonment of those principles of the party which are supposed to have met with popular disapproval, such a reorganization is impossible. It would involve a final dissolution of the party.

Any party which can adopt new principles to meet every change of emergency, and which has no higher aim than public plunder, is not worthy to receive, and cannot hope long to retain, the support of that portion of the country which no party can succeed. It has been gravely suggested that the Republican party should seek success by an abandonment or a modification of its position upon the tariff, by the adoption of some modified financial proposition which would satisfy a supposed popular demand, or by a formal declaration against federal control of federal elections. The Republican party must look for success in the triumph of its principles, and not by trimming its sails to catch every popular breeze.—Senator Dolph in North American Review.

Small Fishermen's Luck.

There was quite a panic among the small fishermen of Stroudwater the other evening. On the ice below the tide mill are about twenty of the little wooden box houses used by the fishermen. On one of the coldest evenings the fishermen were snugly ensconced in their little houses, with warm fires, pipes lit, and lines hanging down through holes in the ice for the benefit of the smelts.

It had been so cold that the water near the tide mill had frozen solid, so that when the miller hoisted his gate the water, instead of taking its accustomed channel, ran out on top of the ice to a depth of about six inches. The flood was upon the fishermen before they were aware of its cause. At once there was a panic. They left their warm houses and rushed headlong for the bank. Soon one of them, a genius, hitched a rope to his house and dragged it ashore. In a few minutes all had adopted the plan, and in a twinkling the smelt village had vanished. When the water subsided they returned.—Portland (Me.) Press.

To Breed Kangaroos in America.

Henry G. Adams, of Sydney, Australia, is here. From Montreal he goes to Topeka, Kan., and from that point he will reconnoiter the southwestern prairies with a view of purchasing large ranches for rearing an animal never seen outside of a cage on this continent—the kangaroo.

"The kangaroo is to take the place of the almost extinct buffalo," said Mr. Adams today. "I am confident," he continued, "that they will do better in the same latitude as that in which the American bison multiplied to such enormous herds. I am told that the climate is similar to that of New South Wales, but I shall soon know the truth for myself. I will spend the winter in the southwest, and before the end of next summer I expect to make my first importation of kangaroos."—Montreal Cor. Chicago Tribune.

Griffin Creek Gatherings.

Griffin creek has the best roads in the county. Wallace Woods, of Medford, was rusticating out in these parts Sunday.

Preaching at the school house next Sunday at 11 o'clock by Rev. David Brower.

Captain W. S. Crowell was in Medford one day last week buying farm machinery.

Clarence Kellogg, of Medford, was taking advantage of our fine roads last Sabbath.

Miss Jessie Hubbard, of Grant's Pass, was visiting her friend, Miss Minnie McPherson, a few days since.

At the annual school meeting of Enterprise district, No. 2, J. P. True was re-elected director and J. W. Lawton re-elected clerk.

Henry Griffin had the misfortune to lose a valuable cow last week. She fell into the old well at the old parsonage and was drowned.

For sale—One span of No. 1 work horses, 1,200 lbs. each, also harness and wagon, on time if desired with approved security. For particulars call at Lawton's harness shop.

Griffin creek can scare up about as big a mining excitement as any other locality, and we all dream of gold in great chunks. There is no doubt about there being lots of rich gravel up the creek and also rich quartz ledges.

The Farmers' Club of Jackson county held its regular monthly meeting last Saturday night. A very pleasant time was had. It was decided to change the time of meeting to the first Saturday evening in each month. The next meeting will be the election of officers, and a full attendance is requested.

Griffin creek country is taking long strides to the front in the fruit industry. Several of our ranchers are putting out large orchards, and some of them are just beginning to bear. All seem to realize the necessity of fighting the fruit pests, and are using the spray pumps freely and doing everything in their power to make our fruit first-class in every respect. Let the good work go on.

After He Got Back.

Charles Hawkins succeeded in capturing a handsome butterfly Sunday afternoon on board the tug that went out to meet the Numidian. The genial, light winged messenger from a very distant clime, no doubt, hung in sight and sort of nodded to the passengers on the tug, as much as to say that everything was all right and that the rest of the crowd would soon be along. In his good nature and familiarity he took a seat on the rail and was soon made a prisoner.—Eastern (Me.) Argus.

Back of the merry bells there is occasionally a young man with icy feet and numb hands who is learning that a five dollar ride behind a three dollar horse is not necessarily fascinating.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Notice is hereby given that all school tax for the year 1891-2 not paid on or before March 1, 1893, will be turned over to the sheriff for collection. Attest: J. H. FARIS, School Clerk.
