* MERIT WILL WIN! *

oscillating sieve at the bottom by means of which any quantity can be sieved at a time without a particle of waste. -

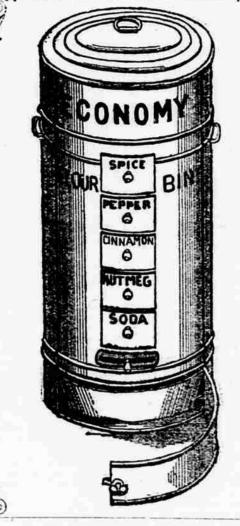

NY USING the Economy, you do away with scoops and sieves; it being Japanned and baked, it resists rust; flour enough for a baking can be sifted in a second.

IF YOU want to see a perfect embodiment of neatness, convenience and simplicity, take a look at the Economy. -

IN USING an Economy not a spoonful of flour will be wasted in a year's time and even this small saving will soon pay for a bin.

THERE are drawers connected with it to hold the different spices and seasonings used in

IT LEADS 'EM ALL!

[FEW Economy Merits:

It avoids the necessity of reaching into barrels and sacks; it can be kept on pautry shelf or table; sifted flour always ready for use; the agitator inside the bin stirs the flour, making it very light and improves the quality. -

THE flour is put in at the top and sieved out at the bottom. By this new arrangement there is no old, musty flour packed in the bottom as in the chests, boxes or barrels so commonly in use.

IT IS a satisfaction to the housekeeper to have no flour scattered around to attract mice, rats, cockroaches and the various insects that are constantly attracted by loose flour, and if such come and apply for admission into the Economy they fail to get onto the combination and retreat disgusted-they can't knaw through the Economy.
