It Seems So in Europe, While Ours Are Growing Warmer. It is often asked, regarding the seasons, whether they alter from year to year, whether there is a positive change in climate from century to century. The general opinion seems to be, ac cording to the New York Press, that the springs and summers are cooler than they were once, and that the winters are less cold. The records of thermometrical observations show that the temperature of together, rather tends to increase. Taking into consideration a period of fifty or sixty more years, there has been observed an actual diminution of the mean temperature in the climate of France. But observing a longer period -comparing, for example, the earliest centuries of French history with the present time-no sensible difference of the seasons can be established. For example, the Roman emperor. Julian, was very fond of living at Paris, and about A. D. 360 he made several long sojourns in that city. In his Misopogon he relates that he was greatly surprised one fine morning to see the Seine stopped in its course and its waters changed into blocks of marble. So we see that there was at that time, as well as to-day, winters severe enough to freeze the rivers, and that the climate has not changed much if any. Perhaps the men of the present time

The census statistics show that there are 28,440 white convicts in the peniteritaries of the United States who know where they were born. Of these 1,315 are natives of this country and 14,275 were born abroad. Similar statistics show that 51 per cent of the immates of the poorhouses in the United States are foreign-born, and 24 per cent of the inmates of the penchange of the p lums. These statistics are used to justify and sustain the rigorous inspection that is now being made of all immi-

Who Says Rheumatism Can Not Be Cured? My wife was confined to her bed for over two months with a severe attack of rheumatism. We could get nothing that would afford her any relief, and as a last resort gave Chamberlain's Pain Balm a trial. To our great surprise she began to improve after the first application, and by using it regular she was soon able to get up and attend to her house work. E. H. Johnson, of C. J.
