Entered in the Postoffice at Medford, Oregon as Second Class Mail Matter.

MEDFORD, FRIDAY, APRIL 13, 1901.

BINGER HERMAN gets the republican nomination for congressman and Judge Lord, of Marion county, for governor.

The morphine habit is spreading to such an extent among New York and Brooklyn shop girls that the W. C. T. U., of those cities, are making a combined effort to suppress the evil.

PROF. NARRBEGAN has been admitted to the supreme court of Oregon on his certificate as an attorney and counselor at law and solicitor in chancery from the supreme court of Michigan.

A POINT IN LAW: "Annual crops which are the product of industry and care, sown by the owner of the soil, are, while growing and immature, personal property subject to attachment and sale for the debts of the owner."—Polley vs. Johnson, (Supreme court of Kansas), 35 Pac. Rep. 8.

The leather medal for hard luck goes to the Pittsburg burglar who risked his life to blow open the safe, was caught in the act and pursued, broke his leg, was captured, and at the police station discovered that his booty was $1,000 worth of confederate bills.

COXBY'S army of commonwealers is having a sorry time in its endeavor to reach Washington. Twelve hundred recruits are now being fed at Ogden by the city, pending the court's decision as to whether the Southern Pacific railroad, which road brought them to that city, has a right to enter Utah with that sort of freight—there being territorial laws prohibiting the importation of paupers.

The city council's action in staying procedure in matters pertaining to an improved water system, until such time as they can see wherein the desired end can be reached without seriously crippling the city's finance is truly a commendable move. The greatest trouble to the American people is their eagerness to attempt a leap in the abyss of darkness, regardless of the possible consequences.

The county books are to be expected. The grand jury has secured the services of Geo. H. Kelly, of Grants Pass, and Vinton Smith, of this county, to perform this work with instructions to begin operation at once. The gentlemen are both accountants of long experience and it is expected they will be able to unearth any of the crooks that may exist in said books. It will bother them, however, to tell for what purpose some county warrants have been issued, and why.

The matter of subsidizing any and all enterprises which come along is becoming decidedly monotonous. While the enterprises are undoubtedly deserving it is as well a fact that if our city and county demand such enterprises this demand and a promise of a lucrative business ought to be a subsidy sufficient to warrant their being established. Our business men and citizens in general are naturally a liberal people, and they have built a city which is assuredly a prosperous one, and one which offers many and varied advantages to the establishing of manufacturing enterprises—but they look not with pleasure upon a subscription paper.

In the annals of Southern Oregon mining industry nothing has occurred for many a long year which so positively demonstrates the reliability and "staying" qualities of our mines as does the recent successful finish of the extensive mining tunnel at Ashland, where, at a distance of 600 feet from the light of day was struck the main ledge of the mine at a depth of 575 feet from the surface. It proves conclusively the theory of Mr. Morris, a recent arrival in the valley and a mining man of experience, that our best and richest mines will be found at quite a distance below the surface. It is a fact that many of our miners "pull up" and start out for a hunt for pockets just at a time when the mines upon which they have been working reach a point where a little greater effort is required to work but at a point, where, as demonstrated by the Ashland company, the ore is in reality just reaching a paying basis. Mr. Morris is of the opinion that our mines will never reach a point wherein their full value can be determined and realized until a smelter is erected at some place convenient to the several rich localities of this valley.

In a communication from Beagle, published elsewhere, a suggestion is offered which is really amusing. The writer recommends that Medford let up on the Jacksonville and petition for an improvement in the roads leading into this city. The suggestion is an amusing one because that it lays wide open the oftentimes quoted expression that if Medford, or any other locality outside the favored few, expects to receive any benefit, no matter how deserving, we must first attire ourselves in costly apparel and appear, with heads uncovered, before that great and only god ruler over Jackson county's finance, and implore this self exalted king to kindly bestow upon a deserving people a few of the county pennies which the officials have not entirely absorbed in their combination "dealer's raffle." And, being thus made subjects of the king's graciousness we must promise a lasting fidelity to his principles, a brother to his gang of despoilers and further promise that politically we know none but the one god and that he and his shall be preeminent in all matters, either right or wrong. We ask the taxpayers of this county if these are not the facts as they now exist. This paper is not attempting to defend the interests of Medford in this matter any more than any other of the several localities which are not receiving their quota of the county's public improvements—and all because that we dare to criticize the official conduct of those who are elected, supposedly, to deal honorably and impartially with each and every one of their constituents regardless of the political "pull" which the one may have more than the other.

J. O. JOHNSON, Table Rock P. O., Jackson county, Or. The Weekly Oregonian for Four Bits. The Weekly Oregonian is a pretty good newspaper, as a matter of fact, it is a rattling good paper and is published in the interest of Oregon and her people. By subscribing for THE MAIL and paying fifty cents extra you can get the two papers for one year. Old subscribers to this paper who will pay all back dues and one year in advance—and the extra four bits—will be entitled to both papers, same as new subscribers. This is undoubtedly the best proposition yet made by any newspaper on the coast. It is subscribers we are after and subscribers we are going to have.

ECHOES FROM THE STREET.

J. R. Eford:—"When Dr. Geary used to drive a team in making his professional visits about the city and county he used to stop near an approaching train of cars, get out of his buggy and hold the team by the head. I noticed him doing the same thing with his bicycle a couple of days ago—force of habit undoubtedly."

L. L. Hamilton:—"What am I doing regarding the fruit cannery, vinegar and jelly plant spoken of sometime ago? Well, when our fire occurred a few weeks ago the subscription papers, upon which were a few names, were burned and I have not written up any new ones and hardly think it worth while to do so. While, of course, we are all anxious to see these enterprises established it is a pretty difficult matter to secure subsidies."

Ed. Wilkinson:—"Wait until I get my new refrigerator then my market will glitter. It will be here about May first and is being shipped from San Francisco. It will be 60x40x40 feet in size and will be the finest article of the kind in Southern Oregon. It will cost $350 and is warranted to keep meat thirty days when properly fed. The front of it is to be covered with hoavy plate mirror glass and my name will appear on it in gilt letters. It will be a thing of beauty."

A. Fetsch:—"Since I opened business, five days ago, I have taken orders for thirteen suits of clothes. I didn't realize that Medford was so much of a cream city as it is. There are many things noticeable in this city that are commendable. Principal among these is the manner in which our people spend their money at home. There are but a very few articles sent away for that can possibly be bought here. A dollar spent at home is not lost to the city, but a good portion of it gets back into circulation again among us. Trade is first-class. I hear this expression coming from all the different businesses of the city."

STATE REPUBLICAN NOMINEES. For governor, W. P. Lord, Salem. For secretary of state, H. R. Kincaid, of Eugene. For state treasurer, P. Metschan, of Baker City. For supreme judge, C. E. Wolverton, of Albany. For sup. of public instructions, G. M. Irwin, of La Grande. For attorney general, C. M. Idleman, of Portland. For state printer, W. H. Leeds, of Ashland.

Why Dr. Merritt Did It.—Editor MEDFORD MAIL:—I noticed a communication by your last issue headed, "Why did Mr. Merritt do it?" Now I can tell you why he did it. I had the place rented for three or four years and had my crops partly destroyed by people going through the place. I looked the gates and they broke the locks and threw the fence down and left them to be kept a man on the place to protect my crops. Now, if the people of Medford and vicinity would quit their howling at the Jacksonville ring for a short time and petition for a road from the southwest corner of the J. S. Hagar place south to the Walker place, thence west to intersect the Central Point and Medford road, they would confer a great favor on the traveling public from the north and a great financial benefit to themselves.

KUMUX. Bangle, Oregon, April 2, 1894. Democrats in Convention. —Last Saturday the democratic delegates from the various precincts of Jackson county met in convention at Jacksonville for the purpose of electing delegates to the state convention to be held at Astoria, on April 17th. Judge G. S. Wagon, of Medford, was elected temporary chairman and Geo. Huffman, secretary. After the appointment of the committees on credentials and order of business and permanent organization the convention adjourned until 1:30 p. m.

At the hour named above the convention re-convened and proceeded to elect permanent officers. Those chosen were, chairman, Ben Hayward; secretary, Geo. Huffman; assistant secretary, J. H. Whitman. A motion was then made and carried that eight gentlemen receiving the highest number of votes be declared elected as delegates to the state convention. Upon vote being taken the tally sheets gave the honors to the following gentlemen: D. H. Miller, Levi Morris, W. H. Brunk, D. T. Sears, E. A. Sherwin, A. N. Solles, Chas. Nickell and Horace Pelton.

Mr. H. has about seventy acres of land in that locality which he is going to get planted to fruit as soon as possible. L. J. JACOBS and GEO. BROWN, the latter foreman of the grand jury, were in Medford Sunday visiting the family of N. A. Jacobs. Their mission here was principally that of ascertaining if it was possible to secure the services of N. A. Jacobs as assistant to an expert which the grand jury was contemplating putting to work on the county books. Owing to Mr. Jacobs' school duties requiring his attention he was obliged to decline their proposition.

Merchant C. I. HUTCHISON returned Saturday evening from a week's hunting and fishing tour at the head waters of Pleasant creek. While there he was the guest of his friend, Chas. Reaser, and by him was chaperoned to various points of interest. It had been Hutch's ambition to gaze upon the den of the bear which are so plentiful thereabouts, but about five feet of snow lying between him and his habitation was an obstacle he declined to surmount. The Judge Knew Smith, the Jeweler. "Say, Judge, who is this Edward Smith, the new Watchmaker, that I hear all the boys talking so much about that has just located at Medford?" "Why, don't you know him? He is the oldest son of Henry Smith, the old Medford storekeeper, where Mr. and Mrs. Cranfill have carried on a large and successful business for years past, and he is now located in his father's old store on Front street. Your fine watches are perfectly safe in his hands—just as much so as if you placed them in the Jackson County Bank vault."
