NEWS OF THE WORLD.

THE GIST OF THE WEEK'S HAPPENINGS AS TOLD BY TELEGRAPH. Interesting Items From Europe, Asia, Africa and North and South America. With Particular Attention to Important News. Missouri Presbyterians are active in the campaign against the liquor traffic. The Colima volcano is in eruption. Adolph Kraus has bought the Chicago Times. Chile has refused China's offer to purchase six warships. The Berlin municipal council refuses to limit a day's work to eight hours. The executive board of the Western and Southwestern railroad lines have entered into an agreement to abolish all passes after Jan. 1 next.

The missing doctor, A. B. Conklin of Canby, Ore., has returned to his home and tells a gory story of having been kidnaped by masked burglars and carted about the country. The federal grand jury at Chicago has returned an omnibus indictment against Debs and the other officers of the American Railway Union, and a large number of parties charged with participation in obstructing the mails on different roads last summer. In all 66 persons are included in the blanket indictment. Two boys from Nevada dock were driving a wild steer through Martinez, Cal., recently when the animal became mad and started for every person it met. G. Weiss was the first to come in contact with the beast, and he escaped by putting a wheelbarrow in front of himself. The steer continued on its wild charge until it met a Chinaman, whom it gored under the breast, and then, perceiving the man's right lung, the steer carried the Chinaman on its horns for a hundred feet. The Chinaman will probably die. Seven of his ribs were broken and he died terribly. The animal continued on its mad career until it reached the east end of town and was shot down. At Rockport, Ind., on a recent morning Robert Burr shot and instantly killed Arthur Williamson. Burr saluted Williamson on the street, saying he wanted to speak to him. While conversing Burr drew a revolver and shot Williamson in the head, the bullet causing instant death. Williamson had said that Burr had visited his home during his absence. Both were young men. There is great excitement about the jail where Burr is confined, and threats of mob violence are heard.

James and George Lipp, aged 19 and 17 years respectively, near Way, Tex., at a country dance the other night and became involved in a dispute. Moon accused Stone of misrepresenting him to a young woman to whom both were paying attentions. The men withdrew to a lane and engaged in a duel with pistols. Moon was shot and died several times and died shortly afterward. Stone, badly wounded, made his escape. James Anthony Froude, the English historian, died at London a few days ago. He was born in Dorington, Devonshire, April 23, 1818. He was a graduate of Oxford and a member of the Church of England in 1844. For a time he was connected with the high church party, and was the author of quite a number of books prior to 1856, when the first volume of his history of England, "From the Fall of Wolsey to the Death of Charles II," appeared. The balance of his histories appeared from time to time until 1879, when the last volume appeared. In 1869 he became rector of the University of St. Andrews and in 1870 he visited the United States and delivered a series of lectures on the relations between England and Ireland. After 1871 he published several interesting books, including "The Life of Thomas Carlyle," and one of Lord Beaconsfield.

Mr. Eliza Carson, aged over 70, of Chicago, has a marvellous record of longevity. Some years ago she inherited $110,000 and shortly after her husband died. She then began living on Atlantic steamers. She has crossed the ocean 120 times and has spent about $80,000 on these trips. The old lady frequently crosses the ocean in the most comfortable way, without leaving the steamer. Her son-in-law at Chicago recently endeavored to have a guardian appointed for her, claiming she was of unsound mind and that her money would soon be all gone. Mrs. Carson has about $20,000 left in her fortune. As soon as the insanity case was dismissed at Chicago she started on another trip across the Atlantic.

The annual meeting of the Pullman Car company was held at Chicago the other day. The total revenue for the year was $9,595,067 and expenditures $7,274,650, leaving a surplus of $2,320,417. Of the disbursements $2,880,000 was paid out in dividends on the capital stock. The statement shows that no profit was made at the Pullman shops during the year. The revenue is made up of earnings, patents and dividends, interest, etc. Total assets are put at $62,042,008. The number of passengers carried during the year was 5,282,323, and the number of miles run was 197,498,508. During the previous year 5,673,129 passengers were carried and 806,472,790 miles were run. The year just ended shows a decrease of about 7 per cent in the number of passengers carried and of about 4 per cent in the number of miles run. The value of the manufactured product of the car works was $4,347,317, and of industries, including rentals, $378,014, making a total of $4,725,331, against $18,414,708 for the previous year. The wages paid amounted to $4,065,948, against $7,751,544 for the preceding year.

A gas well digger near Muncie, Ind., got down 129 feet when his drill suddenly dropped as if in a bottomless pit. Subsequently soundings showed that 10,000 feet of rope was not long enough to reach the bottom. In Tarrytown, N. Y., the memory of revolutionary heroes was honored by the unveiling of a handsome monument on Oct. 19 to the memory of 76 soldiers for independence. The day was the 118th anniversary of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown.

A specific for Croup. I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a specific for croup. It is very pleasant to take, which is one of the most important requisites where a cough remedy is intended for use among children. I have known of cases of croup where I know the life of a little one was saved by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. J. J. La Grange, druggist, Avoca, Neb. 50 cent bottles for sale by G. H. Haskins, Medford.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder. World's Fair Highest Awarded Diploma. Dispatches to the London Times from Tien-Tsin say that the Pei Yang squadron has been able to leave the dock completely refitted, with magazines filled and otherwise fitted for active service. An imperial edict has been published at Peking assuming for the government full responsibility for the protection of the foreign residents, and punishing certain culprits who have taken part in the recent assaults on travelers. The edict assures strangers that their persons and property will be protected, and its wording especially favors the missionaries. The whole tone of the edict is highly satisfactory. The Chinese overtures for peace, having been rejected without a hearing, the war now enters on a chronic stage, demanding an appeal to the latent forces of the empire. The latter are described as being quite great, but it is added that they require time in order to organize them. The Chinese government is prepared, through reluctance to do so, to engage in a protracted conflict. The party in power recognizes the urgency of radical military and fiscal reforms. The question is as to how long the natural cohesion will bear the strain of a great war. The danger is, in the correspondence, that a revolution may be followed by prolonged anarchy. The Japanese legislature has convened in extraordinary session, in response to a call by the mikado. Bills authorizing the government to borrow 100,000,000 yen were passed. Great Britain has made overtures to the European powers to negotiate peace between China and Japan. The intervention is purely diplomatic and is offered to both combatants in the friendliest manner. Chinese troops are being massed at Tien-Tsin. By the end of the month 100,000 soldiers will have arrived.

WASHINGTON NOTES. Interesting Items Picked Out from the Daily Dispatches. Letters from the civil service commission have been sent to federal employes throughout the country informing them that they need pay no attention to demands for campaign assessments. Political assessments in any guise are prohibited by law. The sugar trust officials, Messrs. Havermeyer and Scoville, were arraigned in the criminal court of the district of Columbia before Judge Cole and pleaded not guilty to the indictments against them for refusing to answer the questions of the senate sugar trust investigation committee. The proceedings were merely formal. The Postoffice Museum has been formally thrown open to the public. Postmaster-General Bissel has taken especial pride in the museum and has forwarded its success in every way within his power. The preparation of this exhibit has been under the direction of Clerk Thomas of the postoffice department. The museum includes all that was in the World's Fair, and some additional features. The postal car Grover Cleveland is not there, but there is a complete model of this postoffice on wheels. The museum is a large room in the court of the Postoffice building. The late news from Honolulu of the abrupt check given by the Dole government to the negotiations by commissioners from England for special concessions for a station in the Hawaiian islands for a projected cable between British Columbia and the Pacific Coast at Los Angeles to try for more records. Frank DeKam, president of the Portland Savings bank, died recently. W. H. Buehler, a member of the board of education of Los Angeles, was found guilty of unlawfully detaining a girl named McCurdy in the rear of his drug store, was sentenced by Judge Adams to pay a fine of $500 or be confined in jail for 500 days in default of payment. Judge Ross in the United States circuit court at Los Angeles decided the application of the Postal Telegraph Cable company to be accorded facilities by the receivers of the Atlantic and Pacific Railway company for constructing its telegraph line along that road favorably to the petitioners. In deciding the matter Judge Ross filed quite an elaborate opinion, in which he holds that the contract of the Western Union Telegraph company with the railroad for exclusive privileges is not valid. The ruling of the court upon the question raised is regarded as one of more than usual importance. Attorneys say he has covered the points more fully than has occurred in any previous decision. The test case of J. D. Snyder of Los Angeles, Cal., against the Central American Insurance company, after 21 days trial at Santa Barbara, is ended. The jury was out just eight minutes and brought in a verdict for Snyder. He was accused of setting fire to his hotel to secure the insurance. He was tried and found not guilty. For two years the company refused to pay. The case was hotly contested. Insurance amounts to $12,000. The other companies interested are the German-American Insurance company, Patriotic Insurance company of Ireland, Imperial of England, Northwest Insurance company of Milwaukee and the San of California. The grievance committee of the Oregon Bar association has filed a protest in the supreme court for the disbarment of O. T. Mason, U. S. G. Marquand and C. C. Thompson, attorneys of Portland. The committee charges that Mason was indicted by the grand jury for libel committed by publishing scandalous articles in a Sunday paper, and also that he attempted to extort money from Major General O. O. Howard. The charges against Marquand are that he fraudulently appropriated $800 while acting as receiver of the Kelso (Wash.) Shingle Mill company. Thompson is charged with fraud and corruption and violation of the rules of common decency in formulating a plan to unlawfully prosecute a Chinese firm of Portland.

CRIMES AND CASUALTIES.

Victims of Fire and Accidents. Frank Shoemaker, a German innkeeper, hanged himself with a towel at Stockton. Mrs. Jessie Conhill has been arrested at Fresno for abandoning her six-month-old baby. Fifteen high-priced horses were burned to death at Monticello, Ia., recently. Christian Kortgard, a bank president, has been convicted at Minneapolis of the larceny of $13,000. At a bull fight in Puebla, Mexico, one of the bulls jumped among the spectators, wounding eight persons. Anton Pfeiffer of St. Cloud, Minn., the shoe man, was robbed of $2,400 by a daylight robbery. William C. Lippard, one of the hoodlums of the Detroit school board, has been sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary. Will T. Martin, a Clark county (Miss.) farmer, killed his child because it cried too much. He is now lying in a swamp while a mob is waiting to lynch him with an express package containing $2,000 in gold was opened somewhere between Cheyenne and Ogden, on the Union Pacific road, about two weeks ago. A Pacific Express messenger is now suspected and is under surveillance at Ogden. Perry Beal, a well-known placer miner, was shot by a highwayman near Butte, Mont. Beal and his wife were taking $1,500 in gold dust to town. Mrs. Beal whipped up the horse and escaped robbery. Thomas Blanck, the murderer of barkeeper Charles H. Bridwell of Seattle, and Marshal Jeffries of Payallup, has been convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to death at Seattle. Blanck has made several desperate attempts to escape since his arrest. J. H. McFarland, ex-sheriff of Walla Walla county, Wash., and traveling agent for Brown Baggage company, was arrested on a warrant from Portland and charged with "larceny by baillee." McFarland says the charge has no foundation and is prompted by personal grudge. Young Indian convict, Nelson Huff, a young Indian convict and recently sentenced to a month's imprisonment, with 15 lashes at the end of the first two weeks of his imprisonment, received a whipping in the court house yard on a recent night. The prisoner cried most piteously. Father Gay of St. Peter's Catholic church, Chicago, ended mass the other day abruptly leaving the altar, and though robed in his sacred vestments he collared a bold thief in the main aisle. The thief, George Adams, an ex-convict, pretending to be a worshiper, had suddenly grabbed the pocket of the priest, aged 76, and was making his escape. Adams was locked up. E. L. Titus and Miss Mary Duff were found dead in a bathroom at Sea Cliff, L. I., the other day. Miss Duff died from the effects of chloroform and Titus from the effects of cyanide of potassium. Titus attempted to administer a severe headache from which Miss Duff was suffering and she administered too much of the anesthetic, causing her death. He then shot himself. The young couple were engaged to be married and were greatly devoted to each other. A serious illness is not credited because they were wealthy and had no cares or troubles. F. C. Warren, a young civil engineer of Mexico, Mexico, has arrived at Irapato more dead than alive from a journey across the Sierra Madre mountains. He started six months ago from the city of Oaxaca and crossed the mountains to the port of Salina Cruz. He then proceeded along the coast of Colima, where he fell in with two American named James West and George Crenshaw, both of Philadelphia, who were making a pleasure tour of Mexico. They proposed an overland trip across the mountains to the City of Mexico. About 10 days ago they were passing through a mountain gorge in the vicinity of Los Colchos, about 90 miles from Irapato, when the rain began to pour down in torrents. Mr. Warren was riding in advance of his companions, when without warning a terrible landslide occurred. West and Crenshaw were caught and crushed to death and Mr. Warren narrowly escaped. Viscount Drumlanrig, eldest son of the Marquis of Queensberry, was accidentally shot in the head recently while shooting over the covers of the Monack Lodge, Bridgewater, Somersetshire, England, the residence of Edward J. Stanley, a member of the house of commons. The viscount's grandfather met his death by the accidental discharge of his own gun at Kinnmount in 1838. A former viscount was killed by his own pistol in 1743. This accident changed the succession to the title with the result that the Dukes of Buccleuch became the Dukes of Queensberry. The Duke's eldest son, Lord Dalkeith, was accidentally killed while deer-stalking in 1886. Viscount Drumlanrig's uncle, Lord Francis Douglas, was also killed by a fall from the Matterhorn in 1863. Viscount Drumlanrig dropped in the rear of the party. A shot was heard, but no notice was taken. Later, as he failed to join the party, the others went in search and found him lying against a hedge with his head terribly injured. He died before the doctors could arrive.

A gas well digger near Muncie, Ind., got down 129 feet when his drill suddenly dropped as if in a bottomless pit. Subsequently soundings showed that 10,000 feet of rope was not long enough to reach the bottom. In Tarrytown, N. A specific for Croup. I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a specific for croup. It is very pleasant to take, which is one of the most important requisites where a cough remedy is intended for use among children. I have known of cases of croup where I know the life of a little one was saved by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. J. J. La Grange, druggist, Avoca, Neb. 50 cent bottles for sale by G. H. Haskins, Medford.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder. World's Fair Highest Awarded Diploma. Dispatches to the London Times from Tien-Tsin say that the Pei Yang squadron has been able to leave the dock completely refitted, with magazines filled and otherwise fitted for active service. An imperial edict has been published at Peking assuming for the government full responsibility for the protection of the foreign residents, and punishing certain culprits who have taken part in the recent assaults on travelers. The edict assures strangers that their persons and property will be protected, and its wording especially favors the missionaries. The whole tone of the edict is highly satisfactory. The Chinese overtures for peace, having been rejected without a hearing, the war now enters on a chronic stage, demanding an appeal to the latent forces of the empire. The latter are described as being quite great, but it is added that they require time in order to organize them. The Chinese government is prepared, through reluctance to do so, to engage in a protracted conflict. The party in power recognizes the urgency of radical military and fiscal reforms. The question is as to how long the natural cohesion will bear the strain of a great war. The danger is, in the correspondence, that a revolution may be followed by prolonged anarchy. The Japanese legislature has convened in extraordinary session, in response to a call by the mikado. Bills authorizing the government to borrow 100,000,000 yen were passed. Great Britain has made overtures to the European powers to negotiate peace between China and Japan. The intervention is purely diplomatic and is offered to both combatants in the friendliest manner. Chinese troops are being massed at Tien-Tsin. By the end of the month 100,000 soldiers will have arrived.

WASHINGTON NOTES. Interesting Items Picked Out from the Daily Dispatches. Letters from the civil service commission have been sent to federal employes throughout the country informing them that they need pay no attention to demands for campaign assessments. Political assessments in any guise are prohibited by law. The sugar trust officials, Messrs. Havermeyer and Scoville, were arraigned in the criminal court of the district of Columbia before Judge Cole and pleaded not guilty to the indictments against them for refusing to answer the questions of the senate sugar trust investigation committee. The proceedings were merely formal. The Postoffice Museum has been formally thrown open to the public. Postmaster-General Bissel has taken especial pride in the museum and has forwarded its success in every way within his power. The preparation of this exhibit has been under the direction of Clerk Thomas of the postoffice department. The museum includes all that was in the World's Fair, and some additional features. The postal car Grover Cleveland is not there, but there is a complete model of this postoffice on wheels. The museum is a large room in the court of the Postoffice building. The late news from Honolulu of the abrupt check given by the Dole government to the negotiations by commissioners from England for special concessions for a station in the Hawaiian islands for a projected cable between British Columbia and the Pacific Coast at Los Angeles to try for more records. Frank DeKam, president of the Portland Savings bank, died recently. W. H. Buehler, a member of the board of education of Los Angeles, was found guilty of unlawfully detaining a girl named McCurdy in the rear of his drug store, was sentenced by Judge Adams to pay a fine of $500 or be confined in jail for 500 days in default of payment. Judge Ross in the United States circuit court at Los Angeles decided the application of the Postal Telegraph Cable company to be accorded facilities by the receivers of the Atlantic and Pacific Railway company for constructing its telegraph line along that road favorably to the petitioners. In deciding the matter Judge Ross filed quite an elaborate opinion, in which he holds that the contract of the Western Union Telegraph company with the railroad for exclusive privileges is not valid. The ruling of the court upon the question raised is regarded as one of more than usual importance. Attorneys say he has covered the points more fully than has occurred in any previous decision. The test case of J. D. Snyder of Los Angeles, Cal., against the Central American Insurance company, after 21 days trial at Santa Barbara, is ended. The jury was out just eight minutes and brought in a verdict for Snyder. He was accused of setting fire to his hotel to secure the insurance. He was tried and found not guilty. For two years the company refused to pay. The case was hotly contested. Insurance amounts to $12,000. The other companies interested are the German-American Insurance company, Patriotic Insurance company of Ireland, Imperial of England, Northwest Insurance company of Milwaukee and the San of California. The grievance committee of the Oregon Bar association has filed a protest in the supreme court for the disbarment of O. T. Mason, U. S. G. Marquand and C. C. Thompson, attorneys of Portland. The committee charges that Mason was indicted by the grand jury for libel committed by publishing scandalous articles in a Sunday paper, and also that he attempted to extort money from Major General O. O. Howard. The charges against Marquand are that he fraudulently appropriated $800 while acting as receiver of the Kelso (Wash.) Shingle Mill company.
