VICTORIOUS JAPANESE.

ANOTHER FIERCE FIGHT IN WHICH THE CHINESE WERE ROUTED.

The Mikado's Soldiers Cross the Yalu River and Take Possession of the Chinese Stronghold—After Three Hours Fighting the Chinese Retreat in Disorder—Japanese Forces Are Aggressive.

Dispatches from Wu Ju give details of the battle fought between the Chinese and Japanese across the Yalu river. General Nodzu, the Japanese chief of staff, it appears, succeeded in getting the main body of the Japanese army across the Yalu river without a mishap by daylight Thursday.

Then Colonel Sato went the head of a column on a reconnoitering expedition and he covered the enemy occupying a fortified position near the village of Fushang on the right bank of the Yalu. Though he had no artillery at his disposal, Colonel Sato immediately commenced an attack upon the Chinese and a fierce fight followed. The Chinese fought desperately and stubbornly.

The attack began at 10 o'clock in the morning and lasted until noon, when the Chinese began wavering, broke and eventually retired in great disorder, falling back upon Kewienching. The troops commanded by Colonel Sato, after the Chinese had retired, set to work upon the demolition of the fortifications of Fushang. Inside the fortifications they found 200 Chinese dead. The Japanese captured a number of prisoners, among whom was a Chinese officer who stated that the position was held by 18 battalions of Chinese troops.

The Japanese, escorting their prisoners, marched in the direction of General Nodzu's main body, with the intention of rejoining it. The number of Chinese wounded is not known. The Japanese lost five officers and 90 men killed and wounded. Later dispatches said the Chinese troops were falling back upon Kewienching, where it is expected the only determined stand of the Chinese in Manchuria will be made. It is understood that Field Marshal Yamagata's forces are completed in every detail for pushing the Chinese westward to a crushing blow upon the Chinese.

Several columns of Japanese troops are acting in concert, after the manner adopted by the Japanese commander at Yang Yang, and it is expected they will do a similar thing in the future. The Chinese position, if the Japanese field marshal's plans are carried out in the manner indicated in the dispatches from the front, it is probable the network of the invaders will be completed around the Chinese position by midnight Saturday, thus enabling the attack to be delivered at dawn Sunday. But, if the Japanese columns succeed in occupying the position assigned them previous to midnight Saturday, it is believed the attack will be delivered at the earliest possible moment.

Some doubts are expressed among the Japanese commanders as to the reported strength of the Chinese position at Kewienching. It is reported the Japanese batteries at Kewienching have been increased from the right bank of the river. A rumor says it is extremely doubtful whether all these batteries are fully armed. The esprit de corps and health of the Japanese troops are excellent, and it is said to be the universal ambition to capture Seoul before the birthday of the emperor of Japan, Nov. 3.

Later dispatches from the Yalu river show that in the battle between the Chinese and Japanese 3500 Chinese troops of all arms were utterly routed. A detachment of 1,800 wounded Japanese have arrived at Chemulpo. There is a large number of wounded at Seoul. In addition 2,100 wounded Japanese have been sent to Japan.

At Ping Yang there are 1,200 wounded Chinese in the hospitals. The rebellious Tong Hais of Southern Korea are restless and only the fact that they are not provided with arms prevents them from breaking out in open revolt and moving on Seoul, for which many of them have started.

Four hundred Japanese soldiers have been arrested at Chemulpo. These, Seoul, as the king's brother is believed to be leagued with the Tong Hais. The Chinese are mobilizing a force at Kiren and gathering a strong force at Pow Ting Fu.

The British consul at Seoul states that a dispatch bag which was officially sealed, must have been opened while in transit from Chemulpo to Seoul. This must have been done, the consul adds, with the knowledge of the highest Japanese officials at Seoul, because they have since shown that they were acquainted with the gist of the contents of the bag. The consul has requested his home office to cable him instructions as to what action he shall take in the event of the discovery of such a dispatch bag. A fierce battle was fought recently on the banks of the Yalu river. Both sides lost heavily. The Japanese were repulsed.

At the beginning of August the whalers Aurora, Balena and Esquiman were in Prince Regent's inlet searching for white walrus. They steamed in Elfin bay and a party from the Balena went on shore. They had not got far when they came upon a ghastly ring of corpses, the remains of Esquiman who evidently had died of starvation. The clean-picked and partly-drowned bodies revealed a story of cannibalism. One corpse had been beheaded and the head was found thirty yards away from the trunk at a place where some one had evidently made a meal upon the flesh and brains. It is supposed the party, while traveling, found their progress blocked by the ice of winter. One by one they succumbed to hunger, and finally the stronger, in an attempt to save their own lives, were driven to eat the others.

There was a peculiar shooting affair at St. Joseph's hospital, Fort Wayne, Ind., which will result in one fatality and probably two. For many years John Hoffman, aged 70, and Hubert Allen, aged 60, have been inmates of the hospital and filled the positions of assistant janitors. Hoffman is of a very respectable disposition and has been the object of the other inmates' fondness for a long time. A few days ago he purchased a revolver and secreted it. About 3 o'clock in the morning he was awakened by a noise. Hoffman arose, turned up lights, donned his pajamas, raised his revolver, deliberately walked into Allen's bed and fired a bullet into his neck. The bullet passed entirely through and dropped out underneath the right eye. Realizing what he had done Hoffman turned to get water. In excuse for his crime old man Hoffman said: "Allen snored like cats and dogs, and I wouldn't stand it."

Peter Cline, son of farmer Cline, Ia., was arrested in an Iowa town three years ago for robbery. The crime he was charged with was the taking of goods out of the store where he was employed as clerk. He made his escape before he was taken to prison and was never recaptured until recently, and then under peculiar circumstances. After his escape $50 was offered as a reward, but no one succeeded in getting it. Two weeks after his escape, three years ago, a woman made her appearance at farmer Cline's and was introduced as a sister. Miss Cline had gentleman caller and everything went well. An officer from Iowa, however, put in an appearance and arrested the supposed woman, who proved to be Peter Cline, and who for three years has worn female garments and has made his home here until arrested. Cline was taken to Iowa.

Prairie fires are sweeping over the sandhills in Nebraska and are doing immense damage. The flames are traveling with almost lightning rapidity and consuming everything in their track. The fire was driven by wind through the central portion of Nebraska, and Cherry counties. In its track were a big Osborne and Spade ranches and a number of smaller ones. Not a vestige of these ranches exist except the burned and scorched ground. The fire reached Pullman and the whole country in that neighborhood was a raging furnace. It is not known whether any lives were lost, but thousands of head of cattle have perished. The people in the track of the fire are fleeing for their lives, leaving their property to the mercy of the flames. The fire broke out last Monday in the sandhills about fifty miles south of Gordon, and has burned over a strip of country 100 miles in length by 40 miles wide.

The striking weavers at Fall River, Mass., have returned to work. The trouble between the white and colored workmen or stoveholders at New Orleans culminated in a large party of the whites capturing the police on duty, eight in number, boarding the vessels that had employed colored men and throwing into the river all the implements used in their work. About 80 men of colored race, costing $50 each, were lost. All the vessels boarded were British craft and a demand for indemnity is likely to be made.

The report of the court of inquiry appointed by Governor McKean to investigate the conduct of the state militia at Sacramento during the strike last summer has been received by the governor. The report consists in a scathing arraignment of the officers of the national guard, holding the brigade commander responsible for the failure in attempting to take possession of the depot on July 4th. Several business men at Pendleton, Or., have been cleverly swindled. Last April a man solicited advertisements for the Consolidated Buyers' directory, published by the Merchants' Publishing company of San Francisco. It was represented to contain the names of all the business men of Oregon, Washington and California. The man made numerous contracts at $5 each. Last August one H. S. Sherman collected the money, giving a receipt therefor. The persons paying were asked to sign a receipt to be sent to the company as a voucher. Last week another man by the name of L. Morris presented orders for advertising in the directory. The signers investigated and found that the original receipt had been so arranged that by tearing off two inches of the left side it would convert the receipt into an order. Under the threat of arrest for advertising the man paid for the order and returned all the money he had collected and left town.

The apparently authorized announcement that the Princess of Wales and her daughters have taken to riding bicycles is expected to give a tremendous boom to the manufacture of that class of cycling machinery, which has been in a state of decline for several years. Politely society has always professed to regard cycling with scorn as an essentially vulgar and plebeian form of exercise and amusement. The Princess having set the fashion, fashionable dames and their middle class imitators are bound to follow it. Much gratification is expressed that the Princess did not take to the bicycle and "rattling" which is a great abuse of undeserved ridicule upon this form of healthy recreation to benefit solely the artists and writers for comic papers. It is said the Princess of Wales commenced bicycling by the advice of her physicians.
