

OUR COUNTY . . . Correspondents

Eagle Point Eagles.

BY A. C. HOWLETT.
Ed. Simon and wife, of Round Top, were visiting Mr. S's mother last week.

Rev. J. P. Moomaw will preach at the Betz school house next Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mr. Graham, of Elk creek, is stopping at Hotel de Linkswiler for the present.

Ben Tungate, of Mt. Pitt precinct, was visiting his parents at Eagle Point last week.

Hon. Von der Hellen, of Wellen, was in town the first of last week on a political mission.

Mr. Goodall, who has been in Klamath county for a short time, returned home last Friday.

Mr. Ditsworth, of Prospect, passed through our town on his way to Medford on Tuesday of last week.

Lee Catoa and wife passed through our town on their return trip from the Hub the first of this week.

Misses Mattie Taylor, and Gertie, Eddie and Lottie Brown made a trip to Medford on Wednesday of last week.

Mrs. Susie Perry went to Big Butte last Thursday, returning Saturday. She was visiting her son, William, and family.

Mrs. McKee, of Big Butte, has been stopping at the Eagle hotel for a week or more. She returned to her home last Sunday.

Master Walter Wood passed through town on Thursday of last week with a load of people who had been sojourning at the Dead Indian soda springs.

Mrs. Stickle visited Medford last Saturday and Mrs. Randles, of Medford, came out with her to spend a few days visiting friends in and near Eagle Point.

Miss Charlotte Williscroft took a trip to Medford on horseback last Thursday. The same day Walter Robinson went to Talent to inform James Helms of the sickness of his wife, at Flounce Rock.

The first of last week Jay W. Grover and W. B. Dailey went to the mines on Applegate but returned the same week. Mr. Dailey thinks he is getting most too old to rough it in the mines, he being 80 years of age.

Mrs. Sarah Martin, living on Little Butte, about 12 miles above Brownsboro, while arranging the bed clothes on her bed, dislocated her right shoulder, and after suffering for three days came to our town for surgical treatment last Saturday.

Owing to some derangement in plans the company spoken of in my last as going to Crater lake, etc., did not start as soon as anticipated, but on Friday last J. W. Grover, Jessie Safford and Peter Simon started expecting to take in Crater lake, Ft. Klamath, Klamath Falls and the adjacent country.

Last Friday Mrs. A. Pool gave an old ladies quilting and rag-tacking party. There were present Mesdames Maud Stickle, Geo. Brown, Alice Devens, Sinclair, McKee, of Big Butte, Howlett and Mr. and Mrs. Moomaw. Mrs. McKee superintended the culinary department, and my special reporter says that they had one of the best dinners of the season. It was one of those old fashioned quilting parties and each tried to outdo the other in trying to be sociable.

Prospect Pointers.

BY WILL.
Mr. and Mrs. Buck returned to Leeds Wednesday.

Miss Frankie Aiken was a guest of the Ellis family Sunday.

Mrs. Florey, of Eagle Point, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nye, of Flounce Rock.

Miss Maud Houck, of Gold Hill, spent Saturday in Prospect on her return Crater lake trip.

Wm. Mann and family, of Central Point, camped here for a few days at Mr. Pleasant's place, on

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair,
Gold Medal, Midwinter Fair.

DR. PRICE'S CREAM
BAKING POWDER
Most Perfect Made.
40 Years the Standard.

their way home from Klamath county. The two boys will return and pick black and huckle berries.

The Williams family have returned to their cabin, as the fires that threatened them are quite extinguished.

Mr. Pleasant's and Mr. Norbery's families have returned to Central Point on account of the illness of Mrs. Pleasant's little boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Nye passed here enroute to the Gr... place, on Wednesday of last week. Mr. Nye will care for the hay at that place.

Among the visitors at school this week were Miss Maude Houck, of Gold Hill, Miss Ellen Clark, of Central Point, and Mr. Moore, of Prospect.

Perry Ellis, our photographer, is busy taking scenes along Rogue river, and expects to go to Crater lake in a few days to take views of the lake.

Mrs. J. Clements, of Central Point, and Miss Mae Earhart, of Medford, are expected in Prospect soon, to go to the huckle berry mountain.

Mr. Coker and son, Ed. and Arthur Boswell are at the Pleasant mountain home, hunting. In a few days they will change their camp to the huckle berry patch.

Fred Strop and John Stice were at the dedication ball at Henry Gordon's Saturday evening, July 25th and report a good time.

Mr. Ditsworth, of Prospect, passed through our town on his way to Medford on Tuesday of last week.

Lee Catoa and wife passed through our town on their return trip from the Hub the first of this week.

Misses Mattie Taylor, and Gertie, Eddie and Lottie Brown made a trip to Medford on Wednesday of last week.

Mrs. Susie Perry went to Big Butte last Thursday, returning Saturday. She was visiting her son, William, and family.

Mrs. McKee, of Big Butte, has been stopping at the Eagle hotel for a week or more. She returned to her home last Sunday.

Master Walter Wood passed through town on Thursday of last week with a load of people who had been sojourning at the Dead Indian soda springs.

Mrs. Stickle visited Medford last Saturday and Mrs. Randles, of Medford, came out with her to spend a few days visiting friends in and near Eagle Point.

Miss Charlotte Williscroft took a trip to Medford on horseback last Thursday. The same day Walter Robinson went to Talent to inform James Helms of the sickness of his wife, at Flounce Rock.

The first of last week Jay W. Grover and W. B. Dailey went to the mines on Applegate but returned the same week. Mr. Dailey thinks he is getting most too old to rough it in the mines, he being 80 years of age.

Mrs. Sarah Martin, living on Little Butte, about 12 miles above Brownsboro, while arranging the bed clothes on her bed, dislocated her right shoulder, and after suffering for three days came to our town for surgical treatment last Saturday.

Owing to some derangement in plans the company spoken of in my last as going to Crater lake, etc., did not start as soon as anticipated, but on Friday last J. W. Grover, Jessie Safford and Peter Simon started expecting to take in Crater lake, Ft. Klamath, Klamath Falls and the adjacent country.

Last Friday Mrs. A. Pool gave an old ladies quilting and rag-tacking party. There were present Mesdames Maud Stickle, Geo. Brown, Alice Devens, Sinclair, McKee, of Big Butte, Howlett and Mr. and Mrs. Moomaw. Mrs. McKee superintended the culinary department, and my special reporter says that they had one of the best dinners of the season. It was one of those old fashioned quilting parties and each tried to outdo the other in trying to be sociable.

BY CAPT. JACK.
Linus Brainard, of Mount Taber, is visiting his uncle, E. S. Brooks.

The placer miners here have all gone on a vacation, due to the dry weather season.

E. S. Brooks and nephew, Linus Brainard, are spending a few days at Butte mountain.

Harvesting has begun in earnest here. The hay crop is very light this year, due perhaps to the dry weather.

Mrs. Chas. Taylor, of Grants Pass, formerly Miss Maggie Hillie, of this place, is visiting her relatives here.

J. C. Kernan, of San Francisco, is spending the summer at the consolidated Saxe river mines, of which he is half owner.

Mining interests are receiving considerable attention here, where the outlook for a big mining camp is very promising.

R. J. Roberts, of Grants Pass, passed through our neighborhood, Monday on his way to the mountains, where he intends to take a few days' outing.

N. D. Young, the enterprising superintendent and joint owner of the consolidated Saxe creek mining company is busily engaged in development work.

T. B. Sublett, of Gall's creek, has begun work on his quartz mine here. Mr. S. is one of the many enterprising miners of this district, and is owner of one of its promising mines.

Of late a great many parties have passed through our vicinity from Grants Pass and the valley to the Bybee mineral springs about five miles above here. The springs are one of the finest summer resorts of southern Oregon.

Applegate Mining Notes.

There is considerable prospecting for quartz in the Applegate country this year.

Thos Winslow, the noted pocket hunter, has found another pocket over on the Klamath side and taken $200 from it.

Joe A. Thomas and R. Daw have taken about $850 from their quartz mine so far, and contemplate resuming work again soon.

Dave Law has made a deal with Portland parties for his quartz claims, near French gulch receiving $1000 and a large amount of stock.

Messrs. Morris, Smith & Phillips, of Palmer creek, have just begun their clean-up, and anticipate great results. They have work off the largest piece of ground ever worked on the creek in a single season.

Pat Ives, of Squaw creek, will develop a quartz ledge on Sterling. The ledge is a good one and was worked by Mr. Ives during the 50s, and at that time sold to other parties. Until the present time Ives had been unable to get control of the property.

A rumor is in circulation that C. W. Kahler, of Jacksonville, is contemplating the purchase of all the Manuel Silvas ground lying west of the Applegate river for mining purposes. This ground would certainly be a valuable addition to Mr. Kahler's already valuable property.

William Knox has the position of superintendent of the Squaw Lake company's mine on Dividend Bar and is rushing the mine for all it is worth. The company will probably move their extensive plant to the Applegate at an early date, which will necessitate the completion of over eleven miles of ditch.

Messrs. Coul & Wade have recently discharged thirty men, but your correspondent is informed that they will soon again enlarge their force. The reason for laying off the men is that the ditch crew got far enough ahead with their work and had to wait for flume lumber, about 600 feet of which is at present cut and in the mill yard.

Big Sticky Items.

BY BILL NYE'S BROTHER.
Rollin Smith and wife were Medford visitors last week.

Mollie Riley had another illness last week, but is better now.

Mart Perry, of Sams Valley spent last Tuesday night with friends on Big Stickey.

Thos. Smith and wife, of Sams Valley, spent a Sunday recently at T. R. Moore's.

Mrs. T. R. Moore and son, Earl, were guests of Mrs. G. C. Roberts several days this week.

Mrs. David Cingcade and daughter, Hattie, made a flying trip to Medford last Thursday.

Miss Lulu Roberts, who has been teaching a summer school in the Pankey district, returned home last Friday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Allison and son, George, and nephew, Mart Perry, were guests of Mrs. G. C. Roberts one day last week.

Frank Roberts, John Smith, Jr., and Walter Stotler, three of our enterprising young men, have gone east of the mountains. They soon found work near Gale, each one running a mowing machine.

Notes from Colestin.

Hotel Colestin has been thoroughly renovated from cellar to attic, water mains carrying clear, cold water to all parts of the house have been laid and the hotel put in good condition for the season's business which has been exceptionally good, as the hotel is filled to its utmost capacity by first-class boarders who receive all possible attention from the hostess and assistants. Willard L. Cole, the gentlemanly office manager, is always on hand and makes one readily feel at home and enjoy the change of climate and a liberal use of soda water.

The guests at the hotel are Mrs. S. R. Hill, Mrs. W. I. Vawter and two children, Medford; W. W. Larson, Mrs. H. B. Moore, Mrs. Jas. Vance, and Mrs. J. M. Walbridge and son, of Yreka, Cal.; R. S. Barclay and daughter-in-law, Mrs. R. M. Barclay, Talent; Misses Agnes E. and Mary Devlin, Jacksonville; Mrs. J. C. Poore and son, Dunsmuir, Calif. Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Pickel and Mrs. I. A. Webb have cosy rooms on Fifth avenue and Rippling Hill and are taking meals at the hotel. T. F. West is located on Broadway and also taking meals at hotel. E. Warman, Medford, and Mesdames Fred Antinette and Bislur, Yreka, Calif., are at the hotel. W. I. Vawter, the banker and lawyer, of Medford, and I. A. Webb, the old reliable furniture man, came by the 3 o'clock train Saturday. Evidently they are having a good time and regret to leave.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Baker and family, Medford, are pleasantly located on Fifth avenue; Mrs. Carrie Jump M. D. and Miss Mary Baker, Oakland, Calif., have pleasant rooms on Fifth avenue; ex-County Clerk Jacobs, wife and son, Medford, are permanently located on Broadway; Mrs. Geo. Kurtz, Medford, is well situated on Broadway; Misses Dora A., Susan J. and Gertrude Horn, Hornbrook, Calif., have excellent rooms on the corner of Wall street and Laughing Water; Mrs. J. H. Norris and two children, Medford, enjoy good quarters on Broadway; Mrs. W. J. Virgin, Ashland, and her friend, Miss Dora Remington, have splendid rooms in Virgin Castle; Mrs. M. Coyle, Hornbrook, Miss M. Coyle, San Francisco, and Edward Coyle, Sterling, Ore., have pleasant rooms on Observatory Point and Rippling Hill, north side; Mrs. F. L. Cranfill and Chas. Cranfill occupy Mrs. Geo. Webb's quarters on Broadway; R. K. Montgomery, wife and two children, and F. W. Chause, wife and mother and Miss Chause, Grants Pass, have good quarters on Fifth avenue; L. C. Sisemore, wife, child and mother and H. A. Horton, Gold Hill, occupy good quarters on Cascade reserve.

J. H. Norris, the Medford hardware man, came in on his wheel

Saturday evening, reaching here about nine o'clock.

An improved state in the weather is greatly enjoyed here, and is causing the camp to become again fled with health seekers.

COLESTIN, TEXAS, OCT. 15, 1889.
Messrs. Paris Medicine Co.,
Paris, Tenn.

Dear Sirs:—Ship us as soon as possible 2 gross Grove's Tasteless Chili Tonic. My customers want GROVE'S Tasteless Chili Tonic and will not have any other. In our experience of 20 years in the drug business, we have never sold any medicine which gave such universal satisfaction.

Yours respectfully,
J. S. Broyne & Co.

WHAT ARMY BUTTONS SIGNIFY.
Different Designs and Styles According to the Rank of the Officer.

The interrelation of the buttons on a uniform is just as much a matter of regulation as the cut of a coat. The general wears two rows of buttons on the breast of his frock coat, twelve in each row placed by fours. The distance between the rows is five and a half at the bottom. The lieutenant general is entitled to only ten buttons in each row placed by threes. The brigadier general, eight, in groups of two. The colonel, lieutenant colonel and major have nine buttons in each row, arranged at equal distances.

There are different designs, of course, not only for the buttons of the army, the navy and marine corps, but for the different branches of the service. There are the infantry, artillery and cavalry buttons, the engineers' buttons, the ordinary corps button, and the button of the marine corps, and the navy button. The navy button is made in England, because no American manufacturer has been able to make a bronze which the sea air will not tarnish. All of these buttons the army and navy tailor must keep on hand and send on according to regulation.

"The Younger the Better."
The Chinese minister at Washington is fond of young girls, the younger the better, and the authors of "The Show at Washington" tell this little story of how he was fascinated by the vivacious ten-year-old granddaughter of Senator Palmer: He saw her at a reception one afternoon, and, asking for an introduction, devoted himself to the little maiden while he remained. Everybody crowded about, but all unconcerned, through his interpreter, he carried on an interesting conversation with the equally unembarrassed little girl. The next day the minister's carriage drew up in front of Senator Palmer's door and an attache delivered to the child a packet containing six exquisite silk handkerchiefs, embroidered in the highest style of Chinese art, and ten little chests of the kind of tea which Chinese produce on a Chinese Olympus, make Chinese nectar of.

A Peculiar Affliction.
Of the 4,000 soldiers lying in the hospitals at Madagascar a great many suffer from abscesses on the legs, caused by grass seeds having sharp barbs which enter the flesh. This is news, though it is not new. Before the war many creoles, working in the gold mines there, lost some of their toes, and sometimes half the foot, in consequence of wounds inflicted by the tiny points of such poisonous grass seeds.

—If one only wished to be happy, this could be easily accomplished: but we wish to be happier than other people, and this is always difficult, for we believe others to be happier than they are. —Montesquieu.

HE WAS INSPIRED.
The Marvellous Eloquence of an Old-Time Methodist Bishop.

"Eloquence is speaking out—out of the abundance of the heart, the only source from which truth can flow in a passionate, persuasive torrent." This remark of Julius Hare is illustrated by a story told of the eloquent Methodist bishop, the late Dr. Simpson, in the Youth's Companion:

Bishop Simpson preached some years ago in the Memorial hall, London. For half an hour he spoke quietly, without gestulation or uplifting of his voice; then, picturing the Son of God bearing our sins in His own body on the tree, he stooped, as if laden with an immeasurable burden, and, rising to his full height, he seemed to throw it from him, crying:

"How far? As far as the east is from the west, so far hath He removed our transgressions from us."

The whole assembly, as if moved by an irresistible impulse, rose, remained standing for a second or two, then sank back into their seats.

A professor of elocution was there.

He had occasion to visit the metropolis on business, and after a stay of several days at one of the chief hotels he called for his bill. When it was given him he tendered in payment a brand-new $20 silver certificate. The clerk looked at it for a moment and then passed it back.

"What is the matter?" said the official.

"I can't take that," replied the clerk. "I don't think it's good."

"Not good!" exclaimed the official. "Not good! Why, man, I know it's good. I made it myself."

"Yes," said the clerk, "that's just what I thought!"—Washington Post.

HE WAS INSPIRED.

The Marvellous Eloquence of an Old-Time Methodist Bishop.

"Eloquence is speaking out—out of the abundance of the heart, the only source from which truth can flow in a passionate, persuasive torrent." This remark of Julius Hare is illustrated by a story told of the eloquent Methodist bishop, the late Dr. Simpson, in the Youth's Companion:

Bishop Simpson preached some years ago in the Memorial hall, London. For half an hour he spoke quietly, without gestulation or uplifting of his voice; then, picturing the Son of God bearing our sins in His own body on the tree, he stooped, as if laden with an immeasurable burden, and, rising to his full height, he seemed to throw it from him, crying:

"How far? As far as the east is from the west, so far hath He removed our transgressions from us."

The whole assembly, as if moved by an irresistible impulse, rose, remained standing for a second or two, then sank back into their seats.

A professor of elocution was there.

He had occasion to visit the metropolis on business, and after a stay of several days at one of the chief hotels he called for his bill. When it was given him he tendered in payment a brand-new $20 silver certificate. The clerk looked at it for a moment and then passed it back.

"What is the matter?" said the official.

"I can't take that," replied the clerk. "I don't think it's good."

"Not good!" exclaimed the official. "Not good! Why, man, I know it's good. I made it myself."

"Yes," said the clerk, "that's just what I thought!"—Washington Post.

HE WAS INSPIRED.

The Marvellous Eloquence of an Old-Time Methodist Bishop.

"Eloquence is speaking out—out of the abundance of the heart, the only source from which truth can flow in a passionate, persuasive torrent." This remark of Julius Hare is illustrated by a story told of the eloquent Methodist bishop, the late Dr. Simpson, in the Youth's Companion:

Bishop Simpson preached some years ago in the Memorial hall, London. For half an hour he spoke quietly, without gestulation or uplifting of his voice; then, picturing the Son of God bearing our sins in His own body on the tree, he stooped, as if laden with an immeasurable burden, and, rising to his full height, he seemed to throw it from him, crying:

"How far? As far as the east is from the west, so far hath He removed our transgressions from us."

The whole assembly, as if moved by an irresistible impulse, rose, remained standing for a second or two, then sank back into their seats.

A professor of elocution was there.

He had occasion to visit the metropolis on business, and after a stay of several days at one of the chief hotels he called for his bill. When it was given him he tendered in payment a brand-new $20 silver certificate. The clerk looked at it for a moment and then passed it back.

"What is the matter?" said the official.

"I can't take that," replied the clerk. "I don't think it's good."

"Not good!" exclaimed the official. "Not good! Why, man, I know it's good. I made it myself."

"Yes," said the clerk, "that's just what I thought!"—Washington Post.

HE WAS INSPIRED.

The Marvellous Eloquence of an Old-Time Methodist Bishop.

"Eloquence is speaking out—out of the abundance of the heart, the only source from which truth can flow in a passionate, persuasive torrent." This remark of Julius Hare is illustrated by a story told of the eloquent Methodist bishop, the late Dr. Simpson, in the Youth's Companion:

Bishop Simpson preached some years ago in the Memorial hall, London. For half an hour he spoke quietly, without gestulation or uplifting of his voice; then, picturing the Son of God bearing our sins in His own body on the tree, he stooped, as if laden with an immeasurable burden, and, rising to his full height, he seemed to throw it from him, crying:

"How far? As far as the east is from the west, so far hath He removed our transgressions from us."

The whole assembly, as if moved by an irresistible impulse, rose, remained standing for a second or two, then sank back into their seats.

A professor of elocution was there.

He had occasion to visit the metropolis on business, and after a stay of several days at one of the chief hotels he called for his bill. When it was given him he tendered in payment a brand-new $20 silver certificate. The clerk looked at it for a moment and then passed it back.

"What is the matter?" said the official.

"I can't take that," replied the clerk. "I don't think it's good."

"Not good!" exclaimed the official. "Not good! Why, man, I know it's good. I made it myself."

"Yes," said the clerk, "that's just what I thought!"—Washington Post.

HE WAS INSPIRED.

The Marvellous Eloquence of an Old-Time Methodist Bishop.

"Eloquence is speaking out—out of the abundance of the heart, the only source from which truth can flow in a passionate, persuasive torrent." This remark of Julius Hare is illustrated by a story told of the eloquent Methodist bishop, the late Dr. Simpson, in the Youth's Companion:

Bishop Simpson preached some years ago in the Memorial hall, London. For half an hour he spoke quietly, without gestulation or uplifting of his voice; then, picturing the Son of God bearing our sins in His own body on the tree, he stooped, as if laden with an immeasurable burden, and, rising to his full height, he seemed to throw it from him, crying:

"How far? As far as the east is from the west, so far hath He removed our transgressions from us."

The whole assembly, as if moved by an irresistible impulse, rose, remained standing for a second or two, then sank back into their seats.

A professor of elocution was there.

He had occasion to visit the metropolis on business, and after a stay of several days at one of the chief hotels he called for his bill. When it was given him he tendered in payment a brand-new $20 silver certificate. The clerk looked at it for a moment and then passed it back.

"What is the matter?" said the official.

"I can't take that," replied the clerk. "I don't think it's good."

"Not good!" exclaimed the official. "Not good! Why, man, I know it's good. I made it myself."

"Yes," said the clerk, "that's just what I thought!"—Washington Post.

A friend who observed him, and knew that he had come to criticize, asked him when the service was over: "Well, what do you think of the bishop's elocution?"

"Elocution?" said he; "that man doesn't want elocution; he's got the Holy Ghost!"

Doubted the Bill.
One of the principal men in the bureau of printing and engraving had a somewhat peculiar experience in New York recently.

He had occasion to visit the metropolis on business, and after a stay of several days at one of the chief hotels he called for his bill. When it was given him he tendered in payment a brand-new $20 silver certificate. The clerk looked at it for a moment and then passed it back.

"What is the matter?" said the official.

"I can't take that," replied the clerk. "I don't think it's good."

"Not good!" exclaimed the official. "Not good! Why, man, I know it's good. I made it myself."

"Yes," said the clerk, "that's just what I thought!"—Washington Post.

HE WAS INSPIRED.

The Marvellous Eloquence of an Old-Time Methodist Bishop.

"Eloquence is speaking out—out of the abundance of the heart, the only source from which truth can flow in a passionate, persuasive torrent." This remark of Julius Hare is illustrated by a story told of the eloquent Methodist bishop, the late Dr. Simpson, in the Youth's Companion:

Bishop Simpson preached some years ago in the Memorial hall, London. For half an hour he spoke quietly, without gestulation or uplifting of his voice; then, picturing the Son of God bearing our sins in His own body on the tree, he stooped, as if laden with an immeasurable burden, and, rising to his full height, he seemed to throw it from him, crying:

"How far? As far as the east is from the west, so far hath He removed our transgressions from us."

The whole assembly, as if moved by an irresistible impulse, rose, remained standing for a second or two, then sank back into their seats.

A professor of eloc