Musical Instruments of Aluminum.

The use of aluminum is becoming common. In Austria-Hungary a short time ago the metal was introduced into the army. The band of the Third regiment of infantry (the Archduke Charles' regiment) used it in the manufacture of drums, discarding the old-fashioned brass metal. The instruments have a neat appearance and are much lighter; and, according to experts, their timbre is more melodious. The regiment bands in garrison at Vienna have also received the aluminum drum. It is stated that this newly improved drum will shortly be supplied to all the bands in the Austrian army. Perhaps in the near future the trombone and all other instruments now wholly made of brass will give way to aluminum.

The slaughter of Elephants.

In Berlin a number of African travelers, colonial politicians and scientific men have formed a "committee for the purpose of taming and preserving the African elephant." It is computed, according to statistical data of the exports of ivory, that no fewer than from fifty to sixty thousand elephants in Africa are killed every year. The committee say, that being so, the time is not far distant when the last elephant in Africa will, says the London Daily News, have disappeared. With such prospect in view, the committee have decided to put a stop to this mischievous slaughter. By taming and maintaining the last representatives of a fast-dying-out animal world the committee hope to preserve unimpaired the enormous power the elephant is known to possess, so that he may be of still further use to mankind. The German Colonial company have already devoted a large sum of money to this purpose, and now the colonial department of the foreign office have augmented this sum by granting a liberal allowance.
