C. T. Robison, who lives on Fish Trap creek, in Coos County, dug a well inst week, on a point of bench land that is 30 feet above the creek bottom. When down 28 feet he encountered a tog four feet in diameter in compact form. It was easily dug through, as the wood was decayed, but the grain of the wood was perfect. Large ceda; and fir trees had grown on the bench, so that it must have been many ages since the log in the well fell into a mud flat, in which it seemed to be buried. The mud was eight feet thick, and plainly indicated that the ocean beach had once existed where the tree trunk was found.

STORIES FOR CHILDREN.

There Should Be Variety, But the Old Pavorites Bear Frequent Repetition.

When one speaks of telling stories to the little people, prose narratives seem to be commonly understood, and as commonly used, but there is no mistake greater than to suppose that children are not susceptible to the charms of

They care more for poetry, on the contrary, than the majority of grown people, whether for the melody, the rhythm, the rhymes, the short lines. the simplicity and picturesqueness of expression, or for all these reasons to-gether, which makes It a thing pleasantly different from common speech. Goethe advised that every child should see a pretty picture and hear a beautiful poem every day, and if we would not banish the charm of poetry from mature life it behooves us to follow his advice and subject the child to its in-fluence at the time of greatest susceptibility.

We must beware, however, of giving a one-sided development by confining ourselves too much to one branch of literature; we must include in repertory some well-selected myths. fairy stories which are pure and spirit-ual in tone, and a fable now and them. Nature stories, hero tales, animal anec-dotes, occasional narratives about good, wholesome children, neither prigs nor infant villains, plenty of fine poetry, as has been said, and, for the older ones of the family, legends, alle-gories and historic happenings. A large stock of stories is not essential for little children. They feel, as Bulwer said, the beauty and the holiness that dwell in the customary and the old; and they are well pleased—and it is best that it should be so—with hearing the same old favorites repeated again and again, in song or in story from their mothers' lips.—Nora Archi-bald Smith, in Ladies' Home Journal.

A man must reap as he sows. If he sows ill health he will reap ill-health. If he neglects his health the weeds of disease will grow up and choke it.

It is a daily and hourly marvel that men will recklessly neglect their health, when a moment's thought should tell them that they are courting death. It lies in most every man's power to live to a green old age. If a man would only take the same care of himself that he does of his horse, or cow or dog, he would erloy good health. When a man owns a heast-ed-dollar horse, and it gets sick, he does not-waste any time about doctoring him up. When his garden gets fall of weeds, he doesn't delay about rooting them opt, for he knows they will choke out his vegetables. When he is out of sorts, sick, nervous, headachey, has no-appetite and is restless and sleepless at might, he pays little attention to it. The result is consumption, servous prostration or some acrious blood or skin disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best of all medicines for hard working men. It gives edge to the appetite, facilitates the flow of digestive juices, invigorates, the liver and purifies and engiches he blood. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It cures to per cent. of all cases of Hugering counts, hornchial and throat affections, weak lungs, bleeding from lungs and kindred affections. Do not wait until the lungs are too far wasted to admit of being cured.

"As you know, five years ago the doctors had given me up to die with consumption," writes Mr. R. G. McKinney, of Deepwater, Payette Co. W. Va. "I took freatment from Dr. R. V. Pierce and am cutilety well now. I had taken steadily, as directed, his "Golden Medical Discovery"."

Last night a ball was given in a house at the corner of Campania and San Jose streets. A large number of persons were present and a number of negro officers of the Cuban army were standing on the sidewalk, which they were completely monopolizing. A policeman came along and, acting under orders, made two attemps to clear the aldewalk. A negro captain refused to obey the policeman and struck him, whereupon the latter clubbed the negro. The crowd then attacked the policeman, who was disarmed and badly injured by his assailants.

Police beadquarters was notified of disturbance and Chief of Police Menocal dispatched 25 men to disperse the crowd and stop the ball. When the negroes saw the policemen coming they all re-treated to the house in which the ball was going on and to the one adjoining. Some of them went to the roof and opened fire on the police with rifles and revolvers. Cuban officers with them took command of the mob. The first volley that was fired wounded twelve po licemen, among them Captain Estram-pes, whose left arm was broken by a bullet. He did not withdraw, however, but ordered his men to return the fire and then forced an entrance into the house on the corner, the doors of which had been barricaded.
