On the arrival of the British cruiser

MATAAFA

On April 1 a force of 214 British and Americans and 150 friendlies were sur-prised in ambush at the German plan-tation of Vaslao. The robel force opened fire on the rear, left flank and front of tne Anglo-American force. The friend-lies bolted, but the marines and bluejackets stood their ground spleudidly.

Lieutenant Angel H. Freeman, first lieutenant of the Tauranga, who was in command of the allied force, was shot through the heart, Lieutenant Philip Van Horne Lansdale, U. S. N. had his leg shattered while endeavoring to fix the jammed gun. Seaman Hunt of the British ship Porpolse had an ettra cap. He remained with Lieutenant Landale until clubbed over the head until sense less. The blue jacket revived as the ha tives were cutting off his left ear, and turning him over to cut off his right ear.

A shell from the British cruiser Royalist burst on the battlefield, scaring the rebels, and Hunt succeeded in escaping to the beach although badly stabbed in one foot.

The same night the friendlies found the bodies of all the officers, headless. The odies were buried with all honors at Mulinuu on Easter Sunday. Their heads were subsequently brought in by some French priests and the graves were reopened and the heads buried with the bodies.

It is estimated that about 800 warriors attacked the Anglo-American party from ambush.

Washington, April 14.—The govern-ment will probably begin at once to bring home the volunteers serving in the Philippines. I This is contrary to expectation, but Adjutant-General Corbin is authority for the statement. He says the California troops will be the first to return to the United States, because they were the first volunteers sent to Philip-pines. He added that they would probably come back in the troopship Sher-idan. The Sheridan is a well-equipped vessel with capacity for an entire ment, General Corbin added that the volunteers under General Otis would probably be returned to the United States as fast autransportation could be provided for them.

The significance of this is greater than mere fact that all the volunteer soldiers are to be mustered out as soon as possible. It is indicative of the be-lief of administration officials that the situation in the Philippines can be handled by General Otis with the regulars alone. When General Corbin was asked who would take the place of the volunteers brought back he said it would probably not be necessary to fill their places. He explained that General Otis would have 20,000 regulars, which the war department thought would be enough. In other words the Washing ton authorities are of the opinion that the worst of the fighting with Aguinaldo
