Eagle Point Eagles.

BY A. G. HOWLETT.

Emanuel Pool put up a new barn on his place in Eagle Point last week.

S. A. Carlton and family were the guests of George Brown last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Grover were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nichols last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Sovereance were the guests of Mrs. A. M. Thomas last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. McGee, of Josephine County, are here on a visit to their son, O. P. McGee, and family.

On Thursday of last week Wm. Ulrich brought in a band of beef cattle from his range on Rogue river.

Mr. Dodge has been engaged in boring a well for David Clingens. At last account he was down seventy-two feet.

The anglers are having a fine time now as the fish are quite plenty. A goodly number are being taken from Little Butte creek.

Messdames Thomas and Cawley were pleasant callers at our home last Sunday. They expect to start for Klamath County this week.

Rader Bros. are still making improvements on their place, by building new fences, putting more tracks in their barns and fixing things up generally.

Mrs. R. L. Friend is visiting with Mrs. Howlett. Mr. F. having about completed his contract with the S. P. Co., expects to start for California in a few days.

J. A. Jonas has been filling the position of teacher in the Antelope district, during the absence of Mr. Von der Hellen, who has been in the mountains for his health.

By some means or other the name of C. M. Fries was omitted from the list of visitors at our home on Sunday, Sept. 28th, in last week's MAIL, while he was one of the most highly esteemed of the company.

Perry McGee came up the first of the week to take charge of the ranch while O. P. McGee and his two sons, Donnie and Roy, go to the coast after a band of calves. They started last Saturday.

Ben. Abbelesse and Leo Von de Neucle, of Klamath County, were pleasant callers on A. C. Howlett one day last week. They report everything in a prosperous condition and stock doing well. Mr. N. has decided to remain in this county for the winter.

On Monday night of last week there was a social dance given in honor of the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Tinker, Mrs. Carro and Dr. and Mrs. W. B. O'Brien, who took the train for the south on Tuesday of last week, the former three going to Los Angeles and the latter two to their home in Grass Valley, Calif.

"For three days and nights I suffered agony untold from an attack of cholera morbus brought on by eating cucumbers," says M. E. Lowther, clerk of the Circuit court, Centerville, Iowa. "I thought I should surely die, and tried a dozen different medicines but all to no purpose. I sent for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and three doses relieved me entirely." This remedy is for sale by Chas. Strang, druggist.

BY REDNOCK.

Miss Eva Conley, of Lake Creek, visited friends here Sunday.

J. H. Tyrrell, of South Butte, took dinner with friends in town Wednesday.

Parsons are busy making ready for the early approach of their fall plowing and seeding.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Short, of Ashland, are visiting Mrs. Short's mother, Mrs. Nussbaum, and family, of Lake Creek.

Mr. West, recently from the Willamette valley, has purchased the Compton place and moved his family thereto this week.

Miss Mabel Bell was the guest of J. A. Obenchain's family and Miss Bessie Conde last Sunday. It is needless to say the young people had a pleasant time.

Mrs. Cora Culbertson, accompanied by Miss Sophia Rattie, made a trip to Medford the first of the week. They spent Sunday night as the guests of Wm. Stewart and family.

Our school was opened on Monday morning, October 8th, by Miss Carrie Sackett. A goodly number of pupils were present. We anticipate a good school for the winter.

Miss Hattie Eaton, of Medford, went up last week to finish the few remaining weeks of a term of school on South Butte, so as to allow Miss Carrie Sackett to come down and take charge of our school.

Good News for Our Readers

Who have scrofula taints in their blood, and who has not? Scrofula in all its forms is cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla which thoroughly purifies the blood. This disease, which frequently appears in children, is greatly to be dreaded. It is most likely to affect the glands of the neck, which become enlarged, eruptions appear on the head and face, and the eyes are frequently affected. Upon its first appearance, perhaps in slight eruptions or pimples, scrofula should be entirely eradicated from the system by a thorough course of Hood's Sarsaparilla to prevent all the painful and sickening consequences of running scrofula sores which drain the system, sap the strength and make existence utterly wretched.

Klamath County Items.

From the Klamath Falls Republican.

A. F. Hunt, of Ashland, brought down from Fort Klamath on Monday 100 head of beef cattle which he bought in that neighborhood, paying $4 for cows and $4 for steers, and left them at the Mitchell ranch for the winter.

J. H. Jardine took over to Ashland last week and from there shipped to the proprietor of a snake farm near Rochester, Minnesota, 700 snakes. They are the bug-eating, fly-catching and mosquito-killing variety of snakes, and as rattlesnake destroyers they have no equals. Hence the demand for them, and hence the collecting together of this herd of 700 public benefactors and the shipping of them to a distance and less favored country. They were sent by express and the cost of so doing was $75.

Mr. Henry Ankeny, who was here this week, and who is well known to this county as one of the most influential and wealthy citizens of Southern Oregon, and whose activity and success have heretofore been fully shown in mining and banking, has made a purchase which will undoubtedly prove to be of great benefit to land owners. He bought on Monday an undivided half of the irrigating ditch which now starts from upper Klamath lake, and from thence, passing through this town, runs eastward several miles. But it is not large enough to meet the increasing demand for irrigation. The present owners of this ditch are Mr. Ankeny and J. T. Henley, and we understand that the design is to either enlarge and lengthen the present ditch, or if needed, to make an entirely new ditch from the lake, cutting through or tunneling the hill and making a great canal sufficient to irrigate thousands of acres of land. Such a great irrigating canal will very likely be the most probable result.

John Hunsaker, an old and respected resident of Klamath Falls, met with a shocking accident on Monday afternoon. He started alone in his buggy to go to the Rhoads place after a cow, taking with him his Winchester rifle, which, it appears, he placed in the front of the buggy with the barrel leaning against the seat and pointing upward. He had proceeded about two miles, when, probably by his foot accidentally coming in contact with the hammer of the gun, it was discharged. The ball entered his arm below the elbow, and ranging up shattered the bones and elbow and mangled the flesh in a terrible manner. From the shock he fainted and fell from the buggy. He recollects finding himself on the ground, and that the horse had stopped. After long and painful efforts he was enabled to rise and climb into the buggy again and turn the horse towards home. His arm was amputated and he will probably recover, notwithstanding the fact that he is 77 years of age.

From the Klamath Falls Express.

George Small and others brought in 300 head of beef and stock cattle from Silver Lake for L. Gerber.

Mitchell Bros. passed through Klamath Falls Saturday morning with 340 head of beef which they are driving to Gazelle.

H. M. Coss, of the Coss Piano House, Medford, arrived Friday and remained until the first of the week. While here he sold several pianos.

He handles the best pianos in the market as well as some cheaper ones.

During the past two weeks the following bands of cattle have passed through Poe valley, their destination being Shasta valley: XL Company 500 head; Swanston & Son 280; L. Gerber 380; Bratton Bros. 200; the John Coughlin herd of 450 is on the road.

A Night of Terror.

"A awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham, of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she could not live till morning," writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night. "All thought she must soon die from pneumonia, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, saying it had more than once saved her life, and had cured her of consumption. After three small doses she slept easily all night, and this further use completely cured her." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all throat, chest and lung diseases. Only 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at Chas. Strang's drug store.

On His Dignity

"ARE you going up to town to-day, papa?" asked Muriel Kennard, addressing her father as they sat at the breakfast table on this crisp and sunny September morning.

"No, dear, I have several matters to attend to here; the estate accounts and so forth, which will occupy me for the greater part of the day."

"How is your new secretary getting on?" she inquired, after a short pause.

"He's got a fool, but he seems to have a somewhat inflated opinion of his own importance."

Mr. Kennard was a tall, masterful-looking man, with keen dark eyes and a hard and severe type of face. Fifty-five years of age, the banker, for that was Mr. Kennard's profession, still preserved the hale and vigorous appearance of a comparatively young man.

"Is his manner objectionable, then, papa?" she asked, as she rose from the table.

"Yes, it's objectionable in the sense that he is rather off-hand and a trifle too self-assertive for a person of his position. After all, a secretary is only a clerk, and clerks must be kept in their proper place."

In a few minutes the banker left the breakfast room and went to the library, where his secretary, Mr. Hope, a frank and refined-looking young man with keen, blue eyes and dark, curly hair, was hard at work.

"Have you finished that statement relative to the rental averages?" he asked in a snappish tone, as he seated himself at his table and proceeded to glance at sundry documents which the secretary had placed before him.

"Not yet, Mr. Kennard. You only gave it to me last night, you know, and it will take several hours to finish."

"Nonsense! A junior clerk in my bank would get through it in an hour. You really must restrain yourself a little if you wish to remain here. Get on with that settlement at once. Do you understand? At once!"

An angry flush mounted the secretary's pale face, and, looking steadily at his employer, he said in a voice, vibrating with suppressed indignation: "Mr. Kennard, I must really ask you to desist from treating me in this fashion. I am desirous of doing my duty, but—"

"Go on with your work, sir! How dare you attempt to bandy words with me?"

"I really cannot put up with this sort of treatment any longer," replied the secretary, emphatically. "I have been here a month, and have patiently submitted to your bullying and browbeating airs, but—"

"But," angrily interrupted the banker, as he started to his feet, "you shall not have the satisfaction of giving me notice, young man. You shall go, sir, and at once. The idea of a paltry fellow such as you, a man in receipt of two pounds a week, and not worth even that, daring to—"

At that instant Muriel Kennard entered the room and an expression of pain and regret clouded her face as her eyes fell upon the two men. "This precious secretary of mine, Muriel," continued the banker, turning to his daughter, "wishes to reverse our positions. He thinks he knows the duties of an employer better than I do, so I have—"

"I merely resent, and I now resent, Mr. Kennard, your gratuitously insulting treatment of me," said the secretary, in a tone of firm and manly protest.

Miss Kennard hurriedly retreated from the room, evidently much distressed by the painful scene.

"You quite understand that after today your services will not be needed here?" continued the banker, addressing Gerald Hope, who had quietly resumed his work at a table at the opposite side of the room.

The secretary bowed, and with a sort of petulance and impatience his irritable and overbearing employer quitted the room.

Gerald Hope blamed himself for what had occurred, feeling that if he had taken an earlier opportunity of protesting against Mr. Kennard's offensive bearing, he might have succeeded in bringing the envious gentleman to his senses.

In the evening, when the secretary was on the point of leaving to return to his lodgings in Kelverton, a small village in the neighborhood, Mr. Kennard entered the room and handed him a check for eight pounds, saying: "That terminates all business transactions between us. And now take my advice,

RHEUMATISM

Is due to an acid poison which gains access to the blood through failure of the proper organs to carry off and keep the system clear of all morbid matter. This poison through the general circulation is deposited in the joints, muscles and nerves, causing the most intense pain. Rheumatism may attack with such suddenness and severity as to make within a few days a healthy, active person helpless and bed-ridden, with distorted limbs and shattered nerves; or it may be slow in developing, with slight wandering pains, just severe enough to make one feel uncomfortable; the tendency in such cases is to grow worse, and finally become chronic.

Like other blood diseases, Rheumatism is often inherited, and exposure to damp or cold, want of proper food, insufficient clothing, or anything calculated to impair the health, will frequently cause it to develop in early life, but more often not until middle age or later. In whatever form, whether acute or chronic, acquired or inherited, Rheumatism is Strictly a Blood Disease, and no liniment or other external treatment can reach the trouble. Neither do the preparations of potash and mercury, and the various mineral salts, which the doctors always prescribe, cure Rheumatism, but ruin the digestion and break down the constitution.

A remedy which builds up the general health, and at the same time rids the system of the poison in the only safe and certain way for Rheumatism. S. S. S., made of roots, herbs and barks of wonderful solvent, purifying properties, attacks the disease in the right way, and in the right place—the blood—and quickly neutralizes the acid and dissolves all poisonous deposits, stimulates and reinforces the overworked, worn-out organs, and cleans the system of all unhealthy accumulations. S. S. S. cures permanently and thoroughly, and keeps the blood in a pure, healthy state.

Mr. J. O. Malley, 123 W. 14th Street, Indianapolis, Ind., for eighteen months was so terribly afflicted with Rheumatism he was unable to feed or dress himself. Doctors said his case was hopeless. He had tried fifty-two prescriptions that friends had given him, without the slightest relief. A few bottles of S. S. S. cured him permanently, and he has never had a rheumatic pain since. This was five years ago.

We will send free our special book on Rheumatism, which should be in the hands of every sufferer from this torturing disease. Our physicians have made blood and skin diseases a life study, and will give you any information or advice wanted, so write them fully and freely about your case. We make no charge whatever for this service. Address, SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

It Happened in a Drug Store.

"One day last winter a lady came to my drug store and asked for a brand of cough medicine that I did not have in stock," says Mr. C. R. Grandin, the popular druggist of Ontario, N. Y. "She was disappointed and wanted to know what cough preparation I could recommend. I said to her that I could freely recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and that she could take a bottle of the remedy and after giving it a fair trial if she did not find it worth the money to bring back the bottle and I would refund the price paid. In the course of a day or two the lady came back to my drug store with a friend in need of cough medicine and advised her to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I consider that a very good recommendation for the remedy. It is for sale by Chas. Strang, druggist."
