MAGNETISM WITH ELECTRICITY.

This illustrates the manner in which many of Dr. Darrin's cases are treated by magnetic electricity. Chronic, acute and private diseases treated with the latest remedies known to science, the electro-magnetic treatment being a specialty. Headaches can generally be cured by rubbing the hands lightly across the forehead. The reason of this is: Friction produces electricity, and lack of electricity in the brain is the cause of nervous headaches. Therefore when we produce electricity in this manner, we give the brain the food it is hungry for and the pain is cured. The body needs electricity as much as it needs food. Sickness indicates that there is a lack of electricity, which in order to restore health must be supplied.

To such cases, Dr. Darrin can restore the lost vitality or animal electricity and promote a healthy action to the vital organs. The doctor's mode of administering electricity differs from that in general use; his long experience having demonstrated that the best results are obtained by electricity combined with magnetism.

As a proof of the efficiency of this treatment, read the cures performed years ago which have remained permanent:

To the Editor, DEAR SIR:—For more than ten years I have been troubled with pain in my side, kidney trouble, dyspepsia and sour stomach. I have been under Dr. Darrin's treatment about two months and can now pronounce myself cured and gladly give my name if it will benefit anyone. I reside at Wellen, Ore.

Litter Devised by Wife of Capt. Chadwick of the Navy—Made by Women, Too.

The most practical litter yet constructed for carrying the wounded is the invention of Mrs. Chadwick, the wife of the captain who was in command of the cruiser New York at the battle of Santiago. It is designed especially for use in war, but it is equally convenient for hospital or family use and its cost is slight.

It is a kind of hammock chair, and while its weight is only 3½ pounds it will support the heaviest person. The bearers wear a harness of two leather straps, one of which goes over the shoulder and the other around the waist. The shoulder strap is passed through a broad piece of webbing to prevent it from cutting the shoulder of the bearer. To the belt strap two strong rings are attached to which the carrier is fastened. A canvas strip forms the chair.

The bearers' hands are left free and any inequality of height in the bearers is overcome by adjusting the length of the shoulder straps, so that the waist belts shall be at the same distance from the ground. The hospital corps of the United States army has pronounced the device the best and simplest yet used. A woman invented it and women manufacture it.
