A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible: if not possible for you, then in either case take the only remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectorations, gives a good night's rest and cures the patient. Try one bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. Get Green's prize almanac. Chas. Strang, druggist.

A dispatch faom Manti, Utah, says that Rasmus Anderson, aged 27, shot Miss Emily Campbell, aged about 22, and P. C. Christensen, and then committed suicide. Miss Campbell was driving in the stage toward her home at Mayfield, and was met by Anderson, a discarded sweetheart, who immediately began shooting. He fired four shots. two of which entered the young wom an's body and one penetrated her arm, the fourth shattering the arm of Chris-tensen, the stage driver. Anderson then turned the rifle on himself and blew out his brains.

Three negross-Batsy McCray, with her son, Belfield McCray, and daughter, Ida McCray—in dicard in the murlers of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Taliaferro, were taken from the jail by a mob at Carrollton, Miss, and hanged. Another negro, mamed Will Price, who worked for Taliaferro, was, a few days later, found on the road with a rope round his neck and riddled with bullets.

A boy named Lemoyne Jayne, of Little Rock, Ark., after being present at the hauging of a negro named Jim Anderson, constructed a miniature scaffold and invited one of his play-nates to take the place of the coudemned man. Failing in this, he ad-justed the noose round his own neck, stepped on the trap and the drop fell. His neck was not broken, but the doctors give no hope of his recovery.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures diseases of lieart, lungs, liver, kidneys, etc., when these diseases have their origin in disease of the stomach and its allied organs. Thomas A. Swarts, of Sub-Station C., Columbus, Ohio, Box 103, writes: "I was taken with severe headache, then cramps in the stomach, and my food would not digest, then kidney and liver trouble, and my back got weak so I could searcely get around. At last I had all the complaints at once, and the more I doctored the worse I got until six years passed. I had become so poorly I could only walk in the house by the sid of a chair, and I got so thin I had given up to die. Then a neighbor said, 'Take Dr. Pierre's Golden Medicai Discovery and make a new man out of yourself.' The first bottle helped me so I thought I would get another, and after I had taken eight bottles, in about six weeks. I was weighed and found I had gained twenty-seven (57) pounds. I have done more hard work in the past eleven months than I did in 186 years before, and I am as stout and healthy to day, I think, as I ever was."

AN DENGLISH VIEW.

London Journal Regarding Our Late Census Returns.

Our Great Growth During the Last Decade Unsurpassed by That of Auy Other Nation-Some Complimentary Remarks,

Statistics are frequently merely dull and repellent hosts of figures; occa-sionally they strike home upon the imagination, and leave a vivid impression upon the mind. No thoughtful person can fail to realize something at least of all that is signified by the census returns of the United States, says the London Telegraph. That mighty nation has been numbered and it is found that her population now stands at 75,250,000. In the short space of ten years there has been an increase of nearly 13,250,000, which is equivalent to almost 21 per cent, for the decade, or rather more than 2 per cent, per annum. When we remember that 200 years ago the population of the states was under 300,600—or rother more than the present population of Bradford— and that 100 years ago it was but little over 5,000,000, it will be seen with what amazing rapidity the young giant among the nations has built up his strength. The first census was taken in 1790. From that year down to 1860 the increase per cent. per annum was

From 1860 to 1870 it fell to 2.26; in the next ten years it rose to 3.1; from 1880 to 1890 it dropped to 2.10, and now, as we have seen, it stands at 2.1. This is a slight decrease in ratio, but, after all, the important fact is that there are 13,000,000 more people owning allegiance to the American constitution than there were ten years ago. And the growth of population is the infal-lible test of national presperity and advancement. No nation has ever yet risen to greatness with a dwindling population, and probably none ever will. Declining numbers have been the invariable concomitant of national stagnation and decadence. The growth of the power of Great Britain, Germany and Russia bears witness to the truth of this sweeping generalization, and there is nothing which gives French publicists more serious grounds for disquietude as to the future of their country than the evidence of stagnation shown in their census returns Americans, therefore, may be well content with the progress they have made in the last decade. These figures af-ford them ample reason for pride and jubilation. The only great power of jubilation. The only great power of the present day which can vie with them in numbers is Russia, and in wealth, in energy, in adaptability, in education and in that cunning indus-trial skill which is the foundation of material propagative that for attention material prosperity, they far outstrip the subjects of the exar.

What the future has in store for the United States only the future can disclose, but that it is something great, something vast and magnificent far beyond anything hitherto witnessed in history, no one can doubt, and there are few Englishmen who do not welcome the prospect with hearty grat-ification, owing to the community of race, ideas and language which links both the heart and brain of the United States with the heart and brain of the British empire. Full details of this latest census have not yet been pub-lished, and a close analysis is at present impossible. Yet it is to be observed ent impossible. Yet it is to be observed that the increase of population has taken place chiefly in the eastern states. In New York state alone the numbers have risen by 1,250,000; Pennsylvania and Illinois show similarly striking results. As in England the urban and manufacturing centers grow much more rapidly than the rural one will be surprised to find that the Indians are steadily dying out of the land. There are now but 134,000 descendants of the red man, who once roamed in undisturbed possession of the soil. But for the reservations on which they drag out a forlorn and hopeless existence, they would soon become as extinct as the bison. Civili-zation has utterly failed to preserve the red man. Whether it is civiliza-tion's fault is another matter. In part, doubtless, it is; in part, and probably in greater part, it is not.

There is no room for the nomad in the modern scheme of life. He has refused to adapt himself to altered cor ditions, and though the result may be deplored, the law is inexorable. Probmost interest the Americans is the relative numbers of the white and colored population. The theory used to be very widely held that the colored races in America increased faster than the white. Statistics, however, prove that the inference was not warranted by the agtual figures. In 1880 there were 6,-500,000 free colored people in the states; in 1890 there were nearly 7,-500,000. The proportion in the former year was about two in thirteen; in year was about two in thirteen; in the latter it was two in fifteen. What it is at the present time the published returns do not disclose, but hitherto, except between 1840 and 1860, the white American has increased rather more rapidly than the colored. The racial problem in the states is one of such farreaching importance that all will hope the advantage will continue to rest with the whites.

A New Cure.

In the vicinity of Odessa are what are called "limans"—vast sheets of water, which were originally connected with the sea, but through gradual sifting up of sand have been isolated and are now extensive salt-water lakes. By means of evaporation the waters in these lakes have become concentrated, and have been proved to be of so much medicinal value that the "liman cure," as it is called, is rapidly growing into popular favor.—Little Chronicle.

It is as follows:—

"Messis. W. H. Hooker & Co., New York: Last year I used Acker's English Remedy at the suggestion of a friend, for a serious, long-standing throat difficulty and extremely hard cough. Had used many well-spoken of preparations without relief. I can honestly say that Acker's English Remedy removed the difficulty and stopped the cough. I did not purchase of use more than three bottles, and at least one-half of

The friend to whom Mrs. Le Fevre refers as having suggested Acker's English Remedy is Mrs. W. B. Chilton, wife of the president of the Troy Transfer Co., of Troy, Ohio, where this remedy has accomplished many other cures in Throat and Lung Troubles. In conversation with an acquaintance Mrs. Le Fevre also said: "If you will ca'l on Mr. W. H. Schauss, a prominent china and art merchant of Springfield, Ohio, you will find that he, too, has had any amount of experience with Acker's English Remedy in his family, and thinks they cannot keep house without it."
