Eagle Point Eagles.

BY A. C. HOWLETT.

Geo. Brown & Sons are putting a new front onto their store.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Grover have gone to the huckleberry patch.

John Fisher and family have moved into the Fryer house on the north side of Butte creek.

Wm. Betz and family and Lee Black and sister, Martha, come in from Klamath County last week.

Mr. Peyton, formerly postmaster at Peyton, left last week for California. Mrs. Peyton was installed as postmaster of that place.

One day last week Mrs. H. T. Severance went to shake a yellow jacket off her hand and in doing so throw one of her fingers out of place.

Messrs. Letcher and Morton took a trip to the Big Butte country for a hunt last week but met with little success, as there was too much foliage on the underbrush.

Rev. Fyech and family, of Ft. Klamath, came over last week and were given a cordial greeting by their many old friends. Mr. Fyech preached for us on Sunday.

Joe Martin, the gentleman who recently moved into the Daley house, was made happy Sept. 8th, on the arrival of a new baby boy. They are now readers of THE MAIL.

Mr. Knighton and family, who have been stopping in Central Point for some time in order to give their son medical treatment, are in our midst again and are camped in Mrs. Thomas' yard.

The Meeker brothers, formerly of Big Butte, now of Colorado, sons of A. J. Meeker, of Big Butte, spent last Monday night here, and on Tuesday, in company with their father, went to his home on Big Butte.

Foster & Hays gave a dance last Friday night at this place, which was not as largely attended as was hoped for. Mrs. C. Thomas gave the supper and it is reported to be one of the most elaborate spreads ever given in Eagle Point.

Our school commenced last Monday with Prof. Bish as principal and Miss Clara Richardson in charge of the primary department. We have every indication of having a good school this winter, as both of the teachers come well recommended.

Last Sunday while little Austin Green was driving his grandfather's team one of the tugs came unfastened, letting the tongue to the ground and in so doing broke the tongue and reach and throwing the little boy out of the wagon and the seat falling on top of him. Fortunately he was not hurt but the broken end of the tongue ran into one of the horses feet and hurt it quite badly.

Last week my daughter, Agnes, and myself took a trip to the Big Butte country, spending the night with Wm. Chambers, Jr., and his estimable family. They are readers of THE MAIL and are well pleased with it. While on the way up we met teams loaded with lumber, shakes and posts in great quantities, which would indicate that these are prosperous times in Jackson County.

Jas. Ringer, one of the leading painters of Jackson County, who has been in Central Point for some time doing painting and paper hanging, was in our midst last week looking after his interests in this section. While here he took several orders for paper and subscribed for THE MAIL so that he could keep posted on this part of the country and send it as a letter every week to his children in Ohio.

Our little town was quite lively last week on account of so much hauling being done and our streets gave the appearance of a city. At one time there were so many teams congregated that the travel was completely blocked and some of the teams from the mountains had to wait some time before they could pass.

Died—Aug. 9, 1901, of heart disease, at Seattle, Wash., A. V. Barnum, formerly of this place, aged about fifty eight years. Mr. Barnum left this section of the country for the gold fields of Alaska, but not succeeding in that undertaking he returned to Washington, where he intended going into the restaurant business, but was suddenly called away, dying as he was walking the street with a friend.

A Shocking Calamity

"Lately befell a railroad laborer," writes Dr. A. Kollet, of Willford, Ark. "His foot was badly crushed, but Bucklen's Arnica Salve quickly cured him. It's simply wonderful for burns, boils, piles and all skin eruptions. It's the world's champion healer. Cure guaranteed. 25c. Sold by Chas. Strang.

Boy Photographed In Jaws of a Shark

Perhaps the most horrible picture ever taken by a camera is that of a boy in the grasp of a shark. Some persons profess to have no fear of these fierce sea tigers and contend they will not attack human beings in the water, but most people prefer to view them, if at all, from the safety of a vessel's deck. The fallacy of the belief that these monsters will not attack man was proved recently in the harbor of Aden.

The photograph from which this picture was made was taken from the deck of a steamer in that port. There, as in most tropical seaports, the natives come alongside in their small boats offering fruit and curios for sale and begging for money, which is thrown in the water and for which they will dive. Mr. Lufford of the London Graphic had just taken one photograph and was preparing for a second when some one threw a coin in the water. A boy in the bows of the boat farthest from the ship dived for the money. He came to the surface just as the camera was pointed his way, and as the shutter snapped, before even the photographer could see what was happening, a shark had caught him, leaving only one arm visible.

The boy's companion covered his face with his hands to hide the horrid sight, and one of the natives turned curiously, but the others went on about their business as though nothing very extraordinary had occurred.

Soon after this there was an order issued by the authorities prohibiting further diving. One of the interesting features of the case is that several years ago there was a lengthy discussion in the papers as to whether sharks were dangerous, and one New York paper went so far as to offer a reward for positive evidence of a person having met death from a shark. The evidence of the camera must settle the matter.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. Get Green's Prize Almanac, Chas. Strang, druggist.

WITH THE DOCTORS

Dr. William Ewart, the well known London physician, says in an article in the St. Louis Star:

Sleep has two offices, both fulfilled in the long sleep of night, which it is our usual endeavor to secure for our patients—namely, that of favoring the slow changes of repair and that of interrupting consciousness by uncoupling the chain of neurons or by relaxing protoplasmic tension or tone. This relief of tension is, it would seem, the only office performed by the shorter spells of sleep, and therefore the two forms of sleep suggest two therapeutic objects. The night's sleep which comes without any drugs may need to be bettered, and in improving the quality of spontaneous sleep our help is often of value. It might also need to be prolonged.

The systematic prolongation of sleep for the cure of disease is one of our opportunities hitherto little used. Prolonged narcosis has also been suggested in excessive wear and tear of the nervous system, and in various nervous affections, including the mental, its renewed trial, combined with suitable methods in feeding, might lead to encouraging results.

Best suited perhaps to our everyday needs is a systematic resort to the shorter sleep. Like the light installations of food which restore the lost function of appetite and digestion, short sleep in the day may be essential to the cure of nocturnal insomnia. Our growing wealth in hypnotics warrants a hope that a suitable agent may yet be found which in that direction would minister to the health of the invalid and might command the luxury of sleep at an opportune time for the convenience of the worker.

Massage For Apoplexy.

The medical profession recognizes today as it has never done before the remarkable aid of massage. It has done marvelous things for paralysis, even for apoplexy, at which doctors once looked on helplessly. Apoplexy is caused by a clot of blood on the brain, and if that clot can be broken up, if an emptying can be effected of clogged veins, recovery is in sight. Constant massage of the forehead and skull will do it (this has been proved over and over again), while paralyzed limbs, by patient, constant kneading, can have new life rubbed into them.

To Turn Negroes White.

Professor Marshall Johnston of the University of Kansas school of medicine has discovered a means whereby he claims to be able to make the negro white. Briefly set forth, Professor Johnston's method consists in inoculating the negro with the serum of leucitis or albinism, a harmless disease which produces these strange oddities of nature known as Albinoes. The fact that albinism is the result of a disease is a discovery in itself, the credit of which belongs to the professor.

An Antiseptic Discovery.

An important discovery in the science of antiseptics, upon which Drs. Frederick G. Novy and Paul C. Freer have been working for over a year in their laboratories at Ann Arbor, Mich., has just been made public. The new antiseptics are organic acid hyperoxides. In a water solution five one-thousandths of 1 per cent of active oxygen derived from the hyperoxides is fatal to all bacteria.

LIME ANTIMALARIAL.

An Important Discovery Reported by a French Physician.

In France Dr. Roche has discovered that the presence of lime in the soil or in the water helps to exterminate malaria, and it is a curious illustration of the interdependence of widely different industries that this medical scientific discovery was first made in connection with experiments in manuring. This fact is particularly interesting to advocates, in season and out of season, of adding to the fertility of the soil by the judicious use of manures. The disappearance of malarial malaria from Pulisage after lime had been used in the district as a fertilizer led to investigations which are still being carried on, and which reasonably point to the probability that in lime a very effective agent has been found to neutralize the spread of malaria.

Another medical man, Dr. Grellet, has taken up the suggestion, and he has written to the Revue Hygiene that the liming of the soil for agricultural purposes in various provinces in France which were more or less affected by malaria has resulted in the reduction of malaria cases almost in proportion to the quantity of lime used. It is for experts to say whether his statement that in many countries whose conditions favor the existence of malaria the freedom or prevalence of malaria is the accompaniment of a calcareous soil is true.

Tumblebugs as Barometers.

Country folk are firmly of the opinion that the tumblebug (Geotrupes stercorarius) is an excellent barometer and that it takes flight only when a season of fair weather is coming. M. Fabre, a French naturalist, has investigated the question thoroughly and has come to the conclusion that this insect is, in fact, more sensitive than the best barometers and that it can veritably be used to predict fine weather. It is to changes of electric tension that the insect is sensitive.

A Freak Plant In Chile.

A Chilean botanist reports a plant that not only breathes but coughs and also sneezes. The least dust provokes a cough, and the leaf turns red, shakes spasmodically and gives out a sound exactly like that of sneezing.

The Tragic Side Of Electricity

It is now about 12 years since the first execution by electricity took place. William Kemmler, a murderer, suffered death in the electric chair in New York. Despite the popular outcry against electricity as a means of legal death, it has been conclusively proved that it is by far the quickest and most merciful. Innumerable accidents have shown that one touch is sufficient to divorce soul from body. Perhaps one of the strangest punishments of a criminal is that which was inflicted on a burglar in Holland. Although it lacked the sanction of a court of law, yet it was none the less just and effective.

The cashier of a bank in Amsterdam went down to unlock the safe at 9 o'clock one morning last July. The safe was of chrome steel half an inch thick and stood in a vault beneath the bank offices. The cashier pulled the switch of the electric light, but found, to his astonishment, it would not work. Striking a match, he moved on and stumbled over something. It was the body of a man. A glance at the safe showed a hole completely through the steel door just above the combination lock. He called for lights and assistance. Then the mystery became plain. A burglar had attempted to crack the safe in the latest fashion. He had attached a copper wire to the main wire of the electric light and another to the corner of the safe. With a carbon electrode he had completed a circuit and melted a hole completely through the safe door. Then he had set to work with a steel tool to pick the lock. In some way he had bungled and touched the live wire with his tool. The circuit had been completed through his body and killed him.

Contagious Blood Poison

There is no poison so highly contagious, so deceptive and so destructive. Don't be too sure you are cured because all external signs of the disease have disappeared, and the doctor says you are well. Many persons have been dosed with Mercury and Potash for months or years, and pronounced cured—to realize when too late that the disease was only covered up—
