MAN WAS BORN TO MURDER.

He is of few days; but quite a plenty.

SUBSCRIPTION $1.50 PER YEAR

Entered in the Postoffice at Medford, Oregon, as Second-Class Mail Matter.

FIFTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS.

Monday.

In the senate the oleomargarine bill was under discussion. Simmons of North Carolina opposed the bill, while Dillingham of Vermont and McComber of North Dakota supported the measure. The house began consideration of the sundry civil bill, but little of the speech-making was pertinent to that subject.

Tuesday.

The senate, in executive session, discussed the charge of bribery made in connection with the sale of the Danish West Indies. No action, however, was taken pending the investigation of the subject by the house committee.

The house made rapid progress with the sundry civil appropriation bill. Knox, from the committee on territories, reported the bill for the admission of New Mexico, Oklahoma and Arizona, and gave notice that he would call it up at some convenient time.

Wednesday.

In the senate Bailey of Texas spoke in opposition to the oleomargarine bill, and said it was a violation of the constitution in the placing of a tax on an article manufactured and sold within a state. Depew of New York supported the bill.

The house, with a few unimportant amendments, passed the sundry civil appropriation bill.

Thursday.

At the conclusion of a lively debate the senate passed the oleomargarine bill, as amended, by a vote of 39 to 31.

The senate bill to promote the efficiency of the revenue cutter service passed the house by a vote of 135 to 49. The bill defines the relative rank of commanding officers of the revenue service and army officers, and gives the officers of the revenue service longevity pay equivalent to the corresponding rank in the army.

Friday.

The senate began consideration of the Chinese exclusion bill. Mitchell of Oregon making the opening speech. He pointed out the necessity for the exclusion of Chinese laborers and carefully analyzed the bill.

In the house the Chinese exclusion bill was taken up. Kahn of California was the principal speaker, and pointed out that the people of the Pacific coast were deeply concerned in the question. He made a strong argument in favor of exclusion.

Saturday.

After passing the Indian appropriation bill the senate considered the Chinese exclusion bill. Fairbanks of Indiana made a vigorous speech in support of the measure. The opposition to the bill is led by Senator Platt of Connecticut. He attacked those sections of the bill defining exempted classes.

In the house general debate on the Chinese exclusion bill was closed. All the speeches were favorable to rigid exclusion.

From the longest cruise of a battleship on record, the Wisconsin returned to San Francisco with 19,619 miles to her credit. She will shortly proceed to the Bremerton dry dock in Puget sound. Billy McCormick, a veteran horse trainer, after visiting Sacramento, where he had indulged freely in liquor, shot and killed Thomas J. Oullen, a stableman at Arcadia, on the Rancho del Paso. The shooting was entirely unprovoked. McCormick was arrested and charged with murder.

A WOMAN'S RISK

As a trapeze performer is greater than a man's. She must have a man's courage and a man's muscle to succeed. But she must also work under conditions of which a man knows nothing. Many an accident to women acrobats must be attributed to the sudden weakness to which all women are subject at certain times.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription treats the womanly diseases which cause weakness. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"With pleasure I write to-day in praise of Dr. Pierce's medicine," says Mrs. Mary Conway, of Appleton, Lawrence Co., Tenn. "I was troubled with female disease, the back of my head hurt, and I could not lie in bed and I would have to sit up, and then I would have such pains from my waist down I could scarcely rise up. My feet and hands would feel almost like ice. Since taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I can sleep well all night. Could hardly drag around before I took your medicine, and now I can do my housework and help my husband in the field. Words cannot express the thanks I owe to Dr. Pierce."

Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, containing more than a thousand large pages, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the cloth-bound volume, or only 21 stamps for the book in paper covers. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

IS 144 AND STILL WORKS.

That is the Account Given by Her Neighbors of Martina Celada, a Peruvian Woman.

Here is a case of longevity vouched for by El Morro, of Arica, a city in one of the Peruvian provinces held for ransom by Chilli.

In the valley of Coppa, in the same province, it is said that there is a woman named Martina Celada, who is 144 years old and to this day works in the fields. According to her many relatives living in Arica she was born in 1757, and has seen most of the noted men of the South American wars of independence.

This old woman has seen three centuries, the eighteenth, the nineteenth and the dawn of the twentieth. She was twice married, the first time at the age of 40, and the second when she was 60. Her sons and daughters are all dead; some of her grandchildren are living, and she has great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren. Two of the last generation are of marriageable age, so the old lady may yet live to see her fifth generation.

The old woman has some means, but she does not want to enjoy them, because she says it is not yet time. She wants to live as she does in order to entertain all that come to her house.

Dona Martina is somewhat blind, for something like a film of flesh covers her eyes; she has completely lost her hearing; and her power to think went shortly after her sight. But she can still walk very well through the fields she cultivates, and as late as 1899 she was known to climb up a fig tree to gather the fruit.

It may be said in passing that such stories of great old age are not very uncommon in Peru, where the facility for gaining a living and the equable climate seem to conduce to longevity. It is a very common thing to see Indians (choloes) who are said to be as old as 100 years or more, doing their daily work with the ease of a young man and carrying their years as lightly as in the days of their youth.

JAPAN'S INTEGRITY.

Her People Are Proud to Serve Their Government for a Pittance.

The modern Japan which Marquis Ito's policy has brought forth was made possible by the religious devotion of nobles and coolies to the emperor, which made the imperial wishes law; by the intense patriotism and the official integrity of the retainers of the Daimyos, who have become the officers of the army and navy and members of the civil service, writes Frederick Palmer, in Scribner's. As an accidental, I should place integrity as the first cause. When you have official servants so proud that even the postman will not accept a Christmas present, a statesman knows that, whatever his errors of construction may be, the timbers are sound. As long as men become policemen on less than a coolie's pay for the honor of serving the government, it will never lack for first-class ability to fill its offices. Japan may well reverence her old military aristocracy, with its false punctilio.

The heaviest of cups is apparently the heaviest bit of silverware in the world. Sir Thomas Lipton, that prince of sportsmen and genial gentleman, has not been able to raise that cup or tilt it the least bit in his direction, says the New York Herald.

It is estimated that he has spent about $1,300,000 to lift it and yet it firmly maintains its level of the last half century. He has spent enough to lift Westminster abbey an entire story and still is unable to move that cup the smallest fraction of an inch nearer the British islands. If he had put that money into coal, and by its combustion converted a small portion of the water he has sailed over into steam, he would have power enough to lift the great pyramid. Yet all this power directed against that little cup has not been able to even shake it on its foundation. Surely this is a wonderful exhibition of gravity.

A High Balloon Ascention. MM. Siering and Berson of the meteorological institute of Berlin have lately ascended in a balloon of 8,000 cubic meters capacity to the great height of 10,300 meters (33,800 feet). Success was possible only because the aeronauts began to breathe pure oxygen at an elevation of about 8,000 meters. The scientific results of this ascension are now in process of calculation and will shortly be published.

UTILIZATION OF FURNACE GAS Waste Product in Process to Be Used in Running Big Electric Motors.

Vice Consul General Hanauer, of Frankfurt, writes, November 3, 1900, as follows: On October 30, 25 representatives of the largest iron works in France and Belgium visited the Horde Mining and Rolling Mills association, at Horde, near Dortmund, Prussia, to inspect the electrical central station for utilizing the gas coming from the mouths of furnaces. This new method is considered one of the wonders of modern technique. The plant, when fully completed, will have a force of 6,400 horsepower. At present, three twin motors of the Oeschelhauser system are run by this furnace gas to produce an electric current for supplying power and light for the Hermann rolling mills.

FOREIGN ITEMS.

King Menelik of Abyssinia has appointed Rie Makonnen, the famous general who defeated the Italian troops in 1896 at the battle of Adowa, to attend King Edward's coronation.

The struggle of the crowds that gathered at Ibrox park, Glasgow, to see the international association football contest between teams from England and Scotland caused the collapse of a portion of one of the spectators' terraces, resulting in the death of 31 persons and the injury of 250 others. Several more deaths are expected to result from the accident.

The Elder-Dempster company announce that they are willing to carry in their vessels sugar from Kingston, Jamaica, to Avonmouth, England, free of charge, in order to help the West Indian planters tide over the period until the sugar bounties are abolished, and to cultivate trade between Jamaica and England.

M. Hanotaux, the former French minister of foreign affairs, was assaulted by a woman as he was leaving a hall at Oran, Algeria, where he opened the session of the National Geographical congress. The woman clutched his arm and said something in an undertone. M. Hanotaux replied audibly, "You can do whatever you please." The woman thereupon threw a purse in his face, crying at the same time, "You are a coward and a wretch; you ruined my life." She then struck M. Hanotaux in the face with her reticule. The woman was arrested and afterward released at the request of her parents.

Good for Rheumatism.

Last fall I was taken with a very severe attack of muscular rheumatism which caused me great pain and annoyance. After trying several prescriptions and rheumatic cures, I decided to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which I had seen advertised in the South Jerseyman. After two applications of this remedy I was much better, and after using one bottle, was completely cured. Salte Harris, Salem, N. J. For sale by Chas. Strang, druggist.

Aldine Chamberlain, a handsome young woman, was sentenced by Judge Morgan at Los Angeles to 90 days in the city prison on the charge of petty larceny. The girl, who says she is 19 years of age, came to Los Angeles from Naco, A. T. She pleaded guilty to the charge of taking various articles of wearing apparel from the room of another woman staying at the same lodging-house, but stoutly asserts that she cannot resist the temptation to steal. A letter had been received by the police from the girl's mother, Mrs. E. L. Chamberlain of Naco, stating that her daughter is a kleptomaniac; that she had been twice arrested in Naco in one week for stealing, and requesting the police, if the girl was caught in any mischief, to take charge of her and put her into some institution until her mother could come for her.

John Lane, alias Beckwith, the boy highwayman who was recently found guilty at San Bernardino of holding up two men at Victor, whom he robbed and then locked in a box car and sent to Los Angeles, was sentenced by Judge Oster to serve terms of 15 years in San Quentin for each offense. When on his way from the court to the jail he made a dash for freedom.

Neglect Means Danger.

Don't neglect biliousness and constipation. Your health will suffer permanently if you do. DeWitt's Little Early Risers cure such cases. M. B. Smith, Battersea, Mich., says "DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the most satisfactory pills I ever took. Never gripe or cause nausea." Chas. Strang.

Mrs. Clara B. Fisher, a prominent club woman of Los Angeles, and widow of a minister of the gospel, was adjudged insane by Judge Shaw and ordered committed to the state hospital at Highland. Mrs. Fisher's delusion is that she is going to marry a millionaire, and for some time past she has been about the hotels in Los Angeles stating that she expected to meet certain persons of wealth and note.

George W. McFeely of Stockton, Cal., has discovered that he is a bigamist, and that his former wife is also married again, though neither has ever secured a divorce. Eleven years ago McFeely married a girl who resided in Prescott, A. T., against the wishes of her mother, who succeeded in separating the pair after a child had been born to them. About five years later Mrs. McFeely, hearing that her child was dead and that McFeely had married again, married a man named Comparat. McFeely, believing that his former wife had got a divorce, also married. On Feb. 22 Mrs. Comparat came to Stockton and kidnapped her child, which she learned was alive. In July, 1900, McFeely's second wife ran away with a fakier at the local street fair, and in recovering his child, the fruit of his second marriage, McFeely had considerable trouble.

NEWS OF THE WORLD.

HAPPENINGS OF THE PAST FEW DAYS FROM ALL QUARTERS.

Will of Cecil Rhodes—Corruption in St. Louis—Woman Swept Over Falls of Niagara—Beggars' Trust in New York. Rev. Dr. E. Everett Hale Honored.

The net earnings of the United States Steel corporation for the first year of its existence reached a total of $111,087,159.

Interstate Commerce Commissioner Charles A. Prouty, in an address at Chicago to members of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, suggested, as a remedy for the evils growing out of the discrimination in freight rates, governmental supervision and a commission empowered fully to do away with unjust rates as between individuals or corporations.

"Five dollars from a dying nurse lady for hidden things, her own dresses," is the closing paragraph of a letter, with the San Francisco postmark, received by Collector R. Stranahan of New York. The letter also contained two passages from the New Testament bearing on the subject of restitution. The money will be turned into the "conscience" fund at Washington.

The excise laws were rigidly enforced in Greater New York, and the result was a "dry" Sunday. In many of the saloons shales were drawn in the barrooms, but, it is said, improvised bars were established in upstairs rooms. In some places the proprietors are alleged to have established what is known as the "Kansas speak easy," or "blind pig," an arrangement whereby customers can be served with drinks by an invisible barkeeper.

Della Tansy of Buffalo jumped over the railing of Goat island bridge, about ten feet from shore. A man who was on the bridge at the time ran down the shore and waded into the river. A rake was passed to him, which he succeeded in fastening to her clothes. Miss Tansy begged piteously to be saved. The man tried to draw the woman toward the shore, but her clothing tore, and she was carried over the brink of the American falls. Two hundred people saw the woman go to her death.

In recognition of his long, busy and fruitful life as journalist, theologian, philanthropist and man of letters, several thousand of Boston's leading citizens gathered in Symphony hall to honor the Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale and congratulate him on his attaining his 80th birthday. Senator Hoar delivered an eloquent oration, which was responded to by Dr. Hale. Letters were read from President Roosevelt and Senator Henry Cabot Lodge. Dr. Hale was presented with a substantial sum of money, which he found upon his return home from Symphony hall.

Colonel S. B. Ludlum, formerly of California, superintendent of the Keystone Placer Mining company, whose mines are situated near Telluride, Colo., was instantly killed by a hydraulic giant that became unmanageable. The stream of water, coming with terrific force, struck Colonel Ludlum at close range and hurled him 50 feet down the mountain side. His shoulders, ribs and other bones were broken. Colonel Ludlum, who was 60 years of age, was one of the most distinguished hydraulic engineers in the country.

The will of Cecil Rhodes provides for the establishment of colonial scholarships and two American scholarships to each of the present states and territories of the United States. The will also provides for five scholarships for students of German birth, to be nominated by Emperor William. The scholarships are of the value of $1,500 a year, for three years, at Oxford. Mr. Rhodes has left $10,000,000 for the foundation of Anglo-American scholarships. In a codicil, telegraphed from South Africa, Rhodes says: "For a good understanding between England, Germany and the United States will secure the peace of the world, and educational relations form the strongest tie."

The grand jury at St. Louis has been investigating bribery and official corruption in the municipal assembly, and in its report declares that the people of St. Louis have but a vague conception of the extent to which corruption and venality have for the last ten years existed among their sworn officers and public servants.

"Combines" exist for the purpose of holding up domestic legislation until their demands in the way of money consideration are complied with. Indictments have been returned against four members of the municipal assembly for bribe-giving and bribe-taking.

The Rock Island management has begun a new service between Chicago and the Pacific coast, which is 12 hours and 40 minutes faster than any other route to Los Angeles. The time of the Rock Island service between Chicago and El Paso, where the cars are delivered to the Southern Pacific, is eight hours and 40 minutes faster than the former schedule. The new train is known as the "California-Mexico Express."

Belonged Elsewhere.

That it is possible to have too good an appetite seems to be one of the morals of a story told by a friend to the Washington correspondent of the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"I am very fond of roasted ears of corn," said he, "and I eat it whenever I can get it. Some time ago, while I was in a restaurant in Texas, the waiter put a plateful on the table, and I just helped myself.

"When I had consumed the third, I noticed that a man across the table was eying me most curiously. I looked at him and told him that I considered roasted corn one of the most nutritious and palatable things a man could eat. Then I helped myself to a fourth ear and devoured it with relish.

"When I reached my hand into the dish for the fifth, the fellow across the table couldn't stand it any longer.

"Say, pard," said he, "don't you think you could save about a dollar and a quarter a day if you was to board at a livery stable?"

Fortifying a Lighthouse.

A lighthouse at the south cape of Corsica was built in a part of the island inhabited solely by savages and had, in consequence, to be fortified. The lantern was protected by steel revolving screens, and on the gallery of the tower, which was of cast iron, a machine gun was mounted on rollers.

Round the base of the tower was built a wrought iron refuge, or fort, communicating by bullet proof passages with all the rooms in the keepers' dwelling houses.

Both fort and tower were fitted with suitable accommodation for the staff in a case of siege, had water tanks in the basement and were supplied with a stock of provisions.

The station was further protected by a loophole wall and a dry ditch, flanked by two small towers, or caponnières, armed with eighteen pounder cannon.—Engineering.

Bulgarian Brigands.

The Balkan mountains have been the homes and haunts of many brigands through centuries of Bulgarian history. In the sixteenth century a national movement against the oppression of Turkey fell into the hands of brigand chiefs. They were known by the name of Haidutins. They were represented as friends of the poor, the protectors of the weak, the allies of Christians and the foes of the Mohammedans. In legends and in songs their names and fame were perpetuated. They increased from the ranks of the avengers and the worthless. Once identified with them a brigand's safety consisted in continuing with them. The Turks blocked the way to return to the ranks of common citizenship. Villagers often welcomed them as deliverers from their oppressors.—Leslie's Weekly.

Short of Experience.

Herbert Gladstone while yet a single man was addressing a woman's suffrage meeting in Leeds one afternoon, and he paid a graceful compliment to the eloquence of the ladies who had addressed the meeting. He gallantly remarked on the great pleasure which it gives the other sex to listen to women talking.

Pausing for a moment after this observation, Mr. Gladstone, like his audience, was thrown into an unexpected state of excitement by a male voice which proceeded from the back of the hall and proclaimed in the broadest Yorkshire dialect, "Eh, lad, thou'rt none wed yet, I see'st!"—London Truth.

London Street Names.

Peerless street, in London, is a corruption of Perilous pool. Golden square was originally Golden square, and the name was changed at the wish of the inhabitants. Fetter lane has nothing to do with fetters, but only with fewlers (idle fellows), who once loafed in the neighborhood. Gutter lane, in the city, is really Gutteron's lane. Duck's Foot lane, near Cannon street, should be Duke's Foot lane, being so named after the Dukes of Suffolk. Cannon street had nothing to do with guns, but everything with candles, which were made in it when it passed as Candlewick street.

How Parchment Came to Be Used.

When the literary jealousy of the Egyptians caused them to stop the supply of papyrus, the king of Pergamos, a city in Asia Minor, introduced the use of sheepskin in a form called, from the place of its invention, pergamum, whence our word parchment is believed to be derived. Vellum, a finer article, made from calfskin, was also used. Many of the books done on vellum in the middle ages were transcribed by monks, and often it took years to complete a single copy.

The "main guy" of a beggars' trust is a money-making business, according to James Sullivan, who was arrested in New York for begging and held for examination. His arm was neatly done up in splints, but was entirely sound. He admitted that his arm was purposely fixed by the "main guy" for begging purposes. In explaining to the magistrate the meaning of certain slang terms Sullivan said that a "dopper" is one who sits on the sidewalk with his legs doubled up under him. "A cane-man," said he, "holds his left hand as if it was paralyzed and carries a cane in the other. A dim-light grafter is supposed to be blind, and a pensioner plays the wounded soldier racket. The 'sore's' are the ones who have burns on their hands. Men get from $4 to $6 each trip from the main guy." The police say the "guy" has made thousands.
