Love of Country. For the love of country, as such, it would be difficult to decide between the highlander of Scotland and the mountain born inhabitants of the Tyrol. Both will wander in search of fortune to the ends of the world and yet look back to their native mountains as their only real home. The same is true of the Swiss, although in a lesser degree. KILLED THE SPIDER.

Deadly Influence of a Small Magnet on the Insect.

An experiment made by a scientist to test the influence which a magnet will have on a si ler is of interest. The magnet employed was a small steel one of the U shape, the legs of which were about two and a half inches long by one-half inch wide and one-sixth of an inch thick, the distance between the poles being about one quarter of an inch. Having noticed a small spider actively running along his armchair, he brushed it off upon the carpet, where it began to run, but was somewhat impeded by the roughness of the fabric. He now slid the magnet along the carpet, following after the spider, till the ends of the poles were within a quarter of an inch of it. The animal, without being touched, almost instantly stopped, and on withdrawing the mag not the spider continued on his jour-

The experimenter then placed the magnet within half an inch in front of the spider, and, withdrawing it slow-ly, the latter followed it in every direction which the magnet took, both in straight and circuitous routes.

Gradually, however, the spider be-came so strongly magnetized as to be immerable for several minutes, the magnetic influence seeming to lose its further power. On withdrawing the magnet altogether the spider began to recover somewhat.

scientist ultimately placed a tumbler over the spider and the mag net, covering them both completely, and at the expiration of several minutes the spider, after a struggle to escape from the strong influence which the magnet exercised over it was dead .- Exchange.

An Old Doctor Tells a Secret of His Profession.

"Never tell a patient that there is nothing the matter with him," said the old doctor, who was revealing the secrets of his profession. "If you do, you make a lifelong enemy and lose your patient, who sends for another doctor. Give him something, if it is only flavored water. If the disease is only imagi-nary, cure the imagination with a harmless dose, and your patient gets well. In the profession we call such prescriptions 'placebos,' and more won-derful cures are effected by placebos than the world wots of. So, also, when you run across a patient who an-nounces the first thing that he cannot take certain sorts of medicine, don' tell him he must. Agree with him and give him the medicine, if he needs it, in a disguised form.

"There are thousands of people who labor under the conviction that they cannot take quinine and will tell you that they have never taken it in their lives, while at the same time they may be taking large doses of it. The taste of quinine is hard to disguise, but if administered in a pill the patient can be made to take it and never suspect what he has swallowed. The trouble is the patient is apt to recognize a quinine pill by its appearance, to suspect, bite into the pill and thus discover your ruse. To obviate this diffi-culty druggists now have pills of quinine made in odd shapes and colors. Pink pills, containing nothing but quinine and a little harmless coloring mat ter, are a favorite form for use in cases where an antiquinine crank has to be medicated. In giving a placebo it is not wise to have it taste too well. The pa tient is apt to suspect if you do. And be sure that you gravely impress upon the patient that only a tenspoonful is to be taken at a time and that at stated intervals. The whole virtue of a place bo exists in the solemnity and importance with which you surround it."-New York Press.

FLOWER AND TREE.

Salpiglossis is a pretty, showy annual, easy to raise and worthy a place in the garden. The birch grows farther north than any other tree. Next comes the Si berian larch and then the fir.

The dark spot in the center of a bean blossom is the nearest approach to black that occurs in any flower.

Sunflowers may be transplanted quite easily if the work is done on a rainy day or in the cool of the evening.

Preserve a green lawn in the center of the garden, however small. This is needed to set off the flowers and for purposes of relief. Mignonette is so unobtrusive that its presence is often betrayed by its sweet scent merely, but a large bed of mi-gnomette should be in every garden. Dissolve fresh lime in water, allow sediment to settle and saturate earth in which small, white worms have

For sheer ferocity of appearance, unredeemed by any milder facial attri-butes, a lizard called after "Moloch horrid king" Moloch horridus is pre-emi-nent among reptiles. The body of this Australian reptile is so covered with spines that, as it has been put, nature seems to have endeavored to ascertali how many spines could be inserted on a given area. But, unlike its tutelary delty, who seems really to have spelled himself Molech, the lizard does not demand the blood of children. It is, indeed, vegetarian and only flery in that it has a curious faculty of absorbing and drying up water. A specimen placed in a shallow dish was observed to attract the water like a piece of blotting paper.-Westminster Gazette.

At first sight there would appear to be little connection between flattery and the wagging of a dog's tall, yet in nearly all the northern language the same word signifies both, and flattery is certainly derived from the word signifying to wag the tall. In the old Norman flagra signifies to flatter and also to wag the tail. In Danish logre is to wag the tall, and loger for een is to fawn on one. In Dutch vleyden is to flatter and vleydsteerten is to wag the tail. In the old German wedeln is to wag the tail, and in English wheedle is to gain one's end in flat-

Nothing Wasted.

A Scottish farmer when going to market, it was observed, always took a hen with him in his trap. The reason was never known until one day be took a friend with him on a drive. Seven thousand years ago there were trades unions in Nineveh and Babylon, and so strict were their rules that in some cases the penalty of death was inflicted for infringing them. Each man's work was strictly defined, and even the number of hours that he was allowed to work was stated in the charter of his guild or union. Later exactly the same state of affairs ex-isted in Pompeli, and inscriptions have been discovered stating specific ap-pointments of officials to trades unions. The most powerful of these appears to have been that of the Fishermen's guild.
