

LATE NEWS BRIEFS

London, Aug. 10.—Andrew Carnegie has offered the city of Dublin the sum of $140,000 toward the erection of a free public library.

Budapest, Aug. 10.—The cabinet has resigned, owing to the failure of Premier Hedervary's program to meet with the approval of the king-emperor.

Tuxpam, Mexico, Aug. 10.—The Co-Nima volcano remains in a violent state of eruption. The last eruption was of a maximum force hitherto not reached.

Vienna, Aug. 10.—A dispatch from Salonica says M. Rostkovski, the Russian consul at Monastir, has been shot and killed by a Turkish gendarme whom the consul reproved for failure to salute him.

Valparaiso, Ind., Aug. 10.—John Wilson, a negro, attacked Mrs. Hugh Bitts, a farmer's wife, near here. The police brought him to this city. Excited people surrounded the jail. The negro has confessed.

Springfield, O., Aug. 10.—John W. Bookwalter of this city is a candidate for the United States senatorship to succeed Senator Hanna. This announcement was made by Harvey Gerber, chairman of the "Big Five" organizing committee.

Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 10.—Mrs. Sarah Murphy, wife of N. O. Murphy, former delegate to congress and recently governor of Arizona, has brought suit for divorce on the ground of insubordination of her husband. The suit has been anticipated for several weeks.

Berlin, Aug. 10.—According to the Frankfurt Generalanzeiger the wedding of Prince Angus of Greece to Princess Alice of Battenberg will take place at Darmstadt October 17th. The rumor that the wedding will be the occasion for a great gathering of crowned heads is denied.

New York, Aug. 10.—Kate Walsh, 25 years old, tried to end her life by jumping from the sixth floor of an apartment in West Sixteen street. She landed in a cistern at the bottom of the air shaft. The police carried her to the hospital and it was found that her injuries were not serious despite the great distance she had dropped.

Minneapolis, Aug. 10.—A man 33 years of age, yet unidentified but supposed to be Karl Gottfried Carlson, a Scandinavian of Liverpool, England, it is believed has been murdered in this city. The body, badly bruised, was found in the Mississippi river. On the body was found a notebook containing the name of John M. Nelson, 237 East street, San Francisco.

Denver, Aug. 10.—C. T. Carahan, a prominent mining man, fired four shots at Hugh Swearingen, contracting freight solicitor of the Burlington road, in the ticket office of the Burlington Saturday and then attacked Swearingen with the revolver. The shots went wild and Swearingen was not badly hurt by the blows struck before the men were separated.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 10.—United States marine inspectors Whitney and Turner have rendered their decision in the matter of the loss of the steamship North Pacific off Morrowstone Point the night of July 19th, finding Captain Soderman guilty of neglect and bad seamanship. For these offenses his license as master was suspended for the period of nine months.

Honolulu, Aug. 10.—The volcano Kilauea is virtually lifeless for the first time in many years. Saturday night there was an enormous lava slide from the rim of the pit, and since then neither steam nor smoke has come up from the crater. Yesterday several columns were seen higher than the craters of Mauna Loa volcano (13,000 feet), but they have since disappeared, and the entire mountain is now the quietest in its history.

RED

Red is the color of danger, whether on the semaphore or on the skin. When the face is reddened by eruptions, when boils break out on the body, or the angry red of sores and ulcers is displayed in the flesh, it is nature's danger signal. The blood is obstructed and tainted by impurities, and there can be no safety until the blood is made pure.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood, and removes the effete matter which clogs and corrupts it. It cures pimples, boils, eczema, scrofula, sores, ulcers and other consequences of impure blood.

"I feel greatly thankful for what your medicine has done for me," writes Mrs. Chas. Reed, of Kalamazoo, Mich. "I suffered with scrofula of the head for twelve years. Tried every kind of medicine that I heard of, but found no cure. Every one that looked at my head said they never saw anything like it. The last doctor I doctored with before applying to you I lost every day. Was so miserable that I was unable to do any work at all. After taking two or three bottles of your Golden Medical Discovery, and using the local treatment you prescribed for me, I was cured and my head was entirely free from scrofula."

Accept no substitute for Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. There is no other medicine which is "just as good" for diseases of the blood and the eruptions which are caused by the blood's impurity.

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send twenty-one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or thirty-one stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

MORE TROUBLE IN BALKANS

TURKISH GOVERNMENT SPREADS FALSEHOODS.

CAPTURE MAIL AND MONEY

Macedonian Insurgents Massacre Villagers—Severe Fighting Between Turkish Troops and Macedonians and Bulgarians.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Aug. 10.—The insurgents held the town of Krushevo twenty-three miles northwest of Monastir, for two days, and only withdrew after severe fighting with the Turkish troops, in which 160 were killed on both sides.

Salonica, Aug. 10.—In several villages of the vilayet of Ohrida the Bulgarians have risen against their Turkish neighbors and have massacred them. A Bulgarian band, 1,400 strong, is threatening the bridge of La Gova, on the Monastir railway. A party of Bulgarians near Resna murdered the guard which was escorting the mails to Monastir and captured a large sum of money.

Constantinople, Aug. 10.—Late dispatches from Hilmi Pasha, inspector general of the reform movement, announce the insurgents in large numbers in the district of Cilsuri, vilayet of Monastir, attacked the village of Djivarek, near Kastoria, and massacred the inhabitants, including women and children, and then furiously attacked neighboring villages, taking many captives, many of whom were burned alive. Some Greek peasants were also killed in one of the attacks of the vilayet of Monastir and in the vilayet of Ohrida. Insurgents likewise attacked some Mussulman villages. They everywhere displayed rage and ferocity, and the Mussulman inhabitants were greatly terrorized.

WYOMING JAILER MAKES A BRAVE FIGHT

Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 10.—Tom Horn, the condemned murderer of the Willie Nickoli, and Jim McClellan, in custody for postoffice robbery, escaped from the county jail yesterday morning after overpowering Deputy Sheriff Proctor, but were recaptured after a brief but exciting chase. The ringing of fire bells brought hundreds of armed citizens to the scene and looked for a time as though a lynching would take place, but the escapees were hurriedly taken back to the jail and placed in their cells before the crowds could form themselves into a mob. The men got only two blocks away before they were retaken.

DELICATE OPERATION SUCCESSFULLY PERFORMED

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 10.—Because she was the image of the girl he loved thirty years ago, and who killed him, Thomas Barnes, 70 years of age and a bachelor, attacked and stabbed 13-year-old Alma Toomey at the home of her mother Saturday night.

At the City hospital it was thought the girl's heart had been cut by Barnes' knife, and it was decided to open the chest cavity and the pericardium that surrounds the heart to make sure that no part of the heart muscle was severed.

Two ribs were cut through and the pericardium exposed. A hole made by Barnes' knife was found in the pericardium. This aperture was enlarged by the surgeons and the heart was taken out of its cavity. No injury was found beyond a severed artery, which was immediately tied. The pericardium was then closed with ligatures after the heart had been replaced. For two minutes the heart pulsed outside the chest wall, and no ill effect was shown by the patient after the operation. Scarcely a dozen cases are on record in which the elimination of the heart has been attempted, and in most of these the patients immediately died.

MARCONI GRAMS ALLEGED TO BE IMPRACTICABLE

New York, Aug. 10.—Admission that the present plants erected by William Marconi along the English and American coasts have not proved practical for the transmission for wireless messages across the Atlantic has been made by an official of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company.

In the hope of remedying shortcomings or defects in the instruments, Marconi has invented new contrivances. These, it was predicted, will lead to finally perfecting the commercial wireless line between Europe and America, but until their worth is proved by experiments, a practical wireless line across the Atlantic seems to be a thing of the future.

Incident to the admission that there had been a hitch in the forging of the wireless Atlantic line it was told that an explosion had practically wrecked the station in Poldhu, Cornwall, a short time ago. Further than this it was stated that Emperor William has arisen as an opponent of Marconi, and is using his imperial influence to further the plans of the Blaby-Braun company, a German firm.

GREATEST SWINDLERS OF CENTURY NOW ON TRIAL

Paris, Aug. 10.—The notorious Humbert family are on trial before a judge and jury on the charge of having perpetrated "the greatest swindle of the century." Investigating Magistrate Leydet in May decided to commit Theresa Humbert, her husband, Frederick, and her brothers, Romaine and Emile d'Aurignac, for trial on the charges of forgery, the use of forged documents and swindling. He dismissed the cases against Eva Humbert (Theresa's daughter) and Mario d'Aurignac (her sister).

In this swindling affair the whole transaction was based on the alleged possession of a fortune of 100,000,000 francs, left by Robert Henry Crawford, "an American millionaire." This vast sum was supposed to be held in trust by Mme. Frederic Humbert, who, under Mr. Crawford's first will, was constituted his sole legatee, and who, on the strength of her title to the fictitious wealth, succeeded in borrowing over 50,000,000 francs from bankers, money lenders and others in France and Belgium. The Humberts were of high social standing in France, Mme. Humbert herself being the daughter of a Toulouse linen dealer and daughter-in-law of M. Humbert, one-time minister of justice. Her associates were her husband, M. Frederic Humbert, and her sister, Mlle. Marie d'Aurignac. During the borrowing period, which extended over twenty years, these three lived in truly regal style and had the entire to the most exclusive circles in France.

During all these years the mythical Crawford millions were kept locked in a private safe in a house on the Avenue de la Grande Armee, sealed up in packets, according to a French law applying to bequests made under certain conditions. But so shrewdly did Mme. Humbert and her confederates work their scheme that, without ever actually examining the alleged contents of this wonderful safe, some seventeen bankers, retired financiers and capitalists were induced to lend the Humberts sums aggregating nearly half the supposed fortune itself.

MURDERED TO SUPPLY DEMAND FOR BODIES

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 10.—Most barbarous of all the disclosures made in the wholesale grave robbing cases which shocked this community last spring, is the confession now made by Rufus Cantrell, leader of the band of ghouls, that a score of murders were committed in order to meet the demand for dead bodies.

When the police attributed the confession to a disordered brain, Cantrell furnished a partial list of the victims of the gang. All of these persons, Cantrell declares were murdered in cold blood and delivered up, with no questions asked, to the colleges that were trafficking with the body snatchers. Some were beaten to death, others shot and stabbed, and a couple died from poison ingeniously administered by members of the Cantrell gang.

With incomparable inhumanity Cantrell explains in his confession that they could not get bodies of persons who died natural deaths fast enough to meet the demands of the colleges, and they therefore resorted to murder and killed their victims in various ways in order that they might give better satisfaction to the patrons, who wanted to pursue their studies along unusual lines.

Cantrell's confession has reawakened all the horror which was felt at the time the first discovery was made of the operation of the band of ghouls which desecrated a score of cemeteries from Indianapolis to Muncie and Marion; delivered over more than a thousand bodies to medical colleges in the state and landed behind prison bars some of the most prominent physicians in Indiana on charges of having aided and abetted the ghouls in their operations.

FEMALE PRISONER BRUTALLY LASHED

Milledgeville, Ga., Aug. 10.—The whipping of Miss Mamie de Crist, known as Georgia's "Diamond Queen," who is serving a two years' sentence at the prison farm for robbing Savannah jewelers, promises to do more to shake the state convict system than anything that has occurred. Miss de Crist was accused of being refractory, and on Wednesday she was taken into the office of the physician, forced to partially disrobe, tied to a post and then brutally lashed.

The physician watched Miss de Crist to see that she was not whipped beyond her power of endurance. It is said Superintendent Fisher and the other officials concerned in the whipping will be discharged.

Miss de Crist is a pretty woman of a few years, and was secured by Savannah firms and sent to Atlanta, where she was received in good society. Six months later she was arrested, taken to Savannah and tried. A plea of insanity did not save her.

EVIDENCE OF MURDER

Nanaimo, B. C., Aug. 10.—Evidence that murder has been committed at the mouth of the Fraser river have floated ashore in the shape of a canny boat with a hole in her side and the dead body of a fisherman in her bottom. The man's partner is being looked for by the police. The decomposed state of the body makes it difficult to discover the exact cause of death at the present time.

FOUR MEN ARE DROWNED

MEET DEATH IN WATERS OFF CARQUEZ STRAITS.

WITNESSED FROM SHORE

Boat Crews Go Out to the Rescue, but Were Too Late—Sad Ending to Vallejo Yacht and Boat Club Excursion to Glen Cove.

San Francisco, Aug. 10.—Four men and a yacht went down Sunday in the rough water of Carquez strait, off the town of Crockett, making a mournful ending of the Vallejo Yacht and Boat club excursion to Glen Cove.

The party set out in sailing boats of different sizes and about 12:10 the small sloop yacht Lizzie foundered, and Herman Salomon, Emil Chelene, William Hanson and David Wilson went to the bottom with the sloop. The tragedy was seen from Crockett and near-by points, and a boat put out from the steamer Dauntless, lying at the sugar refinery wharf, but was unable to reach the four men battling for their lives in the water before they sank for the last time.

Salomon and Chelene were well known Vallejo business men and leave wives and children. Hanson was a chief machinist in the United States navy, attached to the torpedo-boat destroyer Perry. He ran the Perry's engines when the craft carried President Roosevelt to Vallejo and Mare Island last May. Wilson was a young man, a clerk for S. M. Levee during the past year. His family lives in Kansas.

The accident was witnessed by many persons at Crockett, and if the statements of eye-witnesses to the accident are to be credited, the men were decidedly reckless in the handling of their yacht, and to that cause their deaths may be ascribed. They headed from the Vallejo side and were apparently paying little attention to their boat when they were first seen by the family of John Johnson. The boat was being sailed so recklessly that Mrs. Johnson got a field glass to watch it. The sails were all set, and apparently the party was paying little attention to the management of the boat. Three of the men were stretched out on the deck and the fourth was seated at the tiller.

On the way back toward Vallejo the boat shipped a sea completely under. The men were seen struggling in the water and were apparently all unable to swim. Sam Johnson, whose mother had been looking at the boat through the field glasses, hurried to his boat, tied near by, and started for the scene. Almost at the instant Ben Morris, Cyril Thome and Archie King, members of the Dauntless crew, put out to rescue the men, but, like Johnson, they were too late. They had to row fully a quarter of a mile and by that time the men had gone down. They picked up three caps, a hat and a pair of trousers, but were unable to catch the slightest sign of the men or boat.

ESCAPED CONVICTS ARE HEADING FOR LAVA BEDS

Placerville, Aug. 10.—Deputy Sheriff Gilbert Cook with his manhunters and the bloodhounds is exactly fifteen hours behind the band of five convicts who are now thought to be making for the lava beds of the Western Alpine. The pursuers took their start from the identical spot that the fugitives left at 2 in the afternoon.

At noon Saturday Theron and his party looted the cabin of Nash Berns and Joseph Bowman. Berns is a cooper and Bowman a herder employed by Ben Meiss. Ben Meiss is a brother of Louis Meiss, whose herder, Richardson, Saturday morning was compelled to supply the runaways with breakfast.

The place that was visited by Theron and his crew is about twelve miles nearer the Alpine border than the place where they halted to rest themselves Saturday. From the course the criminals are taking Sheriff Bosquist concludes they are using every endeavor to slip through Corral and into the hopelessly wild region of the volcano country beyond.

RUSSIAN TREATY WITH THIBET

Berlin, Aug. 10.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg to the Cologne Gazette says, according to Chinese reports, great excitement prevails in Thibet on account of a secret treaty which has been concluded by Russia with the Dala Lama. The Chinese minister plenipotentiary in Thibet has been recalled.

POPE PIUS X IS CROWNED

SEVENTY THOUSAND PERSONS ATTEND CEREMONY.

A SPLENDID SPECTACLE

Pontiff Central Figure in Long Procession—Many Women Paint in Wild Scramble to Enter—Pope Is Exhausted by Ordeal.

Rome, Aug. 10.—The ceremony of the coronation of Pope Pius X took place in the Basilica of St. Peter's in the presence of the princes and with all the solemnity and splendor associated with this, the most magnificent rite in the Roman Catholic church.

As Cardinal Macchi, the dean of the cardinal deacons, placed the triple crown on the head of the venerable pontiff, the throng of 70,000 persons gathered within the cathedral burst into unrestrained acclamations, the choir intoned a hymn of triumph and the bells of Rome rang out a joyous peal. It is fifty-seven years since the Romans and Europe assisted at such a function as was held in St. Peter's yesterday. The great Basilica, popularly supposed never to have been quite full, was overflowing with humanity. The papal throne, a bewildering mixture of gold, red and silver, was erected in front of the high altar. As, contrary to custom on these ceremonial occasions there were no galleries, the Basilica bore more of its normal aspect. On the altar, which was dressed in white, stood the famous gold candlesticks and a magnificent crucifix. All the available standing space within the cathedral was divided into sections by wooden barriers, which to a certain extent kept the vast crowd in order. In the early hours after sunrise a thick fog hung over Rome, and one bank of the Tiber could not be seen from the other, while from the Angelo bridge one saw emerald look into a fathomless abyss instead of the river.

At 6 a. m. the ringing of bells announced the imminent opening of the doors and a commotion at once began among the crowd. But ten minutes had to elapse before the doors were opened, and each seemed a century to the waiting crowd, which for hours had been standing before the closed portals. The police and Italian soldiers had a difficult task to maintain order as the crushing and fatigue had begun to tell on the patience of the people.

When the doors were opened the rush was terrific; many who started from the bottom of the steps outside were lifted off their feet and carried into the cathedral. It was a great human torrent let loose, thousands of people rushing, crushing and squeezing amid screams, protests, gesticulations and cries for help. The procession was a long time getting under way, but afterward, as it moved through the magnificent halls and corridors of the vatican, it recalled former days, when all was color and picturesqueness within the palace. The pope was the central figure in the long procession. White robes and the mitre were worn without an effort, making a vivid contrast to those memorable occasions on which Pope Leo XIII wore them, for Leo seemed always unable to support their weight. Over the pontiff's head a canopy was held by eight men, while the historic astrich feather fans with peacock tips gave a touch of barbaric splendor to western eyes.

Immediately beside Pope Pius were the major domo, Monsignor Cagiano, the master of the chamber, Monsignor Bisleti, the master of ceremonies, Monsignor Riggi and Dr. Laponi. The pontiff was very pale but composed.

From the throne Pius X, surrounded by his suite, walked to the high altar, standing over the crypt of St. Peter, into which meanwhile Cardinal Macchi descended to pray. The appearance of the holy father in that elevated position called for another burst of enthusiasm. The pontiff then blessed the altar and after saying the "Indulgentiam," the manipule, a symbol of the cord with which Christ was bound on his capture, was placed, with great ceremony, upon the pope's arm. At the same time prayers for the coronation were recited by Cardinals Vannutelli, Mocenni, Agliardi and Satolli. Returning from the crypt, Cardinal Macchi placed upon the shoulders of the pope the pontifical pallium and attached it with three golden jeweled pins, saying: "Receive this sacred pallium as a symbol of the fullness of the pontifical office, in honor of Almighty God, the most glorious Virgin Mary, His mother, the blessed Apostles St. Peter and St. Paul and the holy Roman Catholic church."

Mass was then celebrated with great pomp and ceremony, the voices of the holy father becoming gradually more firm until it was even audible in the most distant corner of the immense church. Following this, Cardinal Macchi performed the rite of incensing the pontiff, whom he subsequently kissed three times on the cheek and chest, as did Cardinals Segna and Vannutelli.

BOER AMUSEMENTS

Among Them Are Pole Climbing, Ax Throwing and Spade Racing.

The Boer is a firm believer in the advantage of exercise, though his ways are not ours. One favorite form is pole climbing. This consists of having one arm tied behind the back and swarming to the top of the pole with the aid of the legs and the free arm. It sounds simple, but it is not half so simple as it seems.

Another exercise is throwing the hatchet, or ax, to be more correct. An ordinary wood chopping ax is used for this. This is swung round the head until it reaches a sufficient momentum, when it is released. The man who throws the farthest does not of necessity win, as it is necessary that the blade should bury itself in the earth on reaching its destination. It requires a considerable amount of skill to accomplish this.

Another kind of amusement is spade racing. The men stand with one foot on either side of an ordinary spade, grasping the top of the handle between the hands. At the signal they start forward by a series of jumps. If a man's foot leaves its proper place he is disqualified. There is no more severe strain on the muscles of the leg than this. The distance for such a race as this is generally twenty paces. The Boer is gifted with wonderful endurance. At long distances he could hold his own with any, but he would not stand any chance with our men at sprint racing, as he lacks the necessary speed.

The Sacred Scarab.

The sacred scarab was for many centuries venerated by ancient Egyptians, a cult shared recently by Hottentots and akin to that of the holy cricket of Madagascar.

In explanation of this Thespesian said, "The Egyptians do not venture to give form to their gods; they use symbols of occult meaning." A black and a golden green beetle were both regarded as emblems of Ra, the sun god; of Utah, the creative power, and of rebirth, resurrection and immortality.

Every beetle was held to be male and self produced. Its thirty toes symbolized the days of a month, and the pellet of dung in which it rolled along its eggs was a type of the movements of the sun.

In ancient Egyptian philosophy the sacred scarab is spoken of as the first living creature that sprang from the mud of the subsiding Nile. It was closely connected with astronomy and used as an amulet of sovereign virtue for the living and the dead.

Origin of "Grass" Widow.

"Why should a woman separated from her husband be called a 'grass' widow?" asked a young man of the antiquary. "The term 'grass' widow," the latter answered, "has nothing to do with the herbage on our lawns. 'Grass' is a misspelling, sanctioned by custom, of 'grace.' In the past, when divorces were rare, a woman separated legally from her husband was called a 'vidua de gratia' by the Roman church, and the French called her a 'veuve de grace.' The meaning of both terms is the same—'widow by grace.' We took the 'veuve' from the French and translated it properly into 'widow,' but the 'grace' was incorporated into our language, misspelling it in the process. You would be technically correct in writing 'grace' instead of 'grass' widow, but it is probable that no one would understand what you meant."—Philadelphia Record.

Schoolboy Blunders.

A. H. B. of Asot sent to the London Globe some specimens of "howlers" perpetrated by board school children and collected by a board school master. On the nature of gases, "An oxygen has eight sides." In natural history, "A cuckoo is a bird which does not lay its own eggs." "A mosquito is a child of black and white parents" and "A blizzard is the inside of a fowl." In geographical study we get the following: "The equator is a meandering lion running round the earth and through Africa." "A meridian is the place where they keep the time" and "The inhabitants of Paris are called Parisites." Among answers we have heard before is that of the child who declares, "Isak Walton was such a good fisherman that he was called the Judicious hooker."

The Japanese Way.

The question of choice between two vases was decided by a patron in a Japanese shop when the proprietor said: "That smaller vase, madam, is thoroughly Japanese in form and decoration. That floral pattern in gold around the upper half is characteristic, and so, too, is the exceedingly narrow and short neck. The vase will hold but a single blossom that should be long stemmed and stand upright. Thus the flower will be individualized and this vase likewise. That is the Japanese way."

Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach.

For many years it has been supposed that Catarrh of the Stomach caused indigestion and dyspepsia, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes catarrh. Repeated attacks of indigestion inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach and exposes the nerves of the stomach, thus causing the glands to secrete much instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

relieves all inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the stomach, protects the nerves, and cures bad breath, sour risings, a sense of fullness after eating, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles.

Kodol Digests What You Eat
