

ADDITIONAL PERSONAL.

E. C. Wells, of Gold Hill, was a Medford visitor yesterday. Miss Lulu Hartzell is enjoying a few days' outing at Coolestin. Mrs. M. L. Alford was visiting Ashland friends yesterday. Mrs. O. W. Mason, of Ashland, was visiting her father, R. H. Hodge, and family this week. Miss Inez Kitchen, of Ashland, was in Medford this week, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Woods. Miss Virgie Woodford, who has been at Coquille, Coos county, for nearly a year past, returned home last Friday, and is once more an employe of this print shop. L. C. Coleman came up from San Francisco Tuesday evening, to look after his business interests in this section, and will remain here for a month or so. Eugene Rhinehart was in Medford a few days last week upon a visit to old-time friends. He is now employed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in San Francisco.

J. W. Mitchell and family, of Medford, Jack Wright and family, E. Wilson and Miss Wilson, of Talent, left Monday morning for Crater lake and other scenic points. C. C. Birch, of Trail, was doing trading with Medford merchants Saturday. The gentleman was a pleasant caller at THE MAIL office—and this shop's exchequer profited by his coming. Miss Elsie Nye, of Prospect, and Miss Floy Flory, of Eagle Point, were pleasant callers at THE MAIL office Tuesday. Miss Nye, while here, filed upon a homestead in thirty-three south, two east.

G. L. Davis returned Monday from his homestead up Rogue river way, where he has been doing a lot of improving. Mrs. Davis and Miss Hazel will remain there until the atmosphere cools off a little in the valley.

BULGARIA ALARMED.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Aug. 12.—The Bulgarian Foreign Office has received very disquieting news from its agent at Uskub. The Mussulmans there are daily gathering in the mosques and it is feared that a massacre of the Christians is impending. Officials here express the belief that the intervention of the powers alone can prevent a disaster. The most astonishing feature of the situation here is the remarkable quietude with which the people have received the news of the fresh rioting in Macedonia. The whole outbreak came as a great surprise, even to the local revolutionary committees, which were not prepared for so early a rising. In spite of the stirring appeals of the committees, little or no popular enthusiasm is apparent, not even among the 20,000 Macedonian residents of Sofia. How long this condition will last depends largely upon the developments in Macedonia. At present the center of the disturbances is Monastir, a long way off. Should the rising spread to the vilayet of Uskub and come to the Bulgarian frontier, it is probable that the population of Bulgaria will become aroused.

No News from Man-Hunters.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 12.—No reports have been received today from either of the posses which have been on the trail of the five convicts who killed the two millmen and wounded another in the fight near the Grand Victoria

My Hair

"I had a very severe sickness that took off all my hair. I purchased a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor and it brought all my hair back again." W. D. Quinn, Marseilles, Ill.

One thing is certain.—Ayer's Hair Vigor makes the hair grow. This is because it is a hair food. It feeds the hair and the hair grows, that's all there is to it. It stops falling of the hair, too, and always restores color to gray hair.

10¢ a bottle. All druggists. If your druggist cannot supply you, send us one dollar and we will express you a bottle. Be sure and give the name of your nearest express office. Address, J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

mine, ten days ago. It is believed they have reached the very heart of the Devil's Basin country, a region which will give them shelter, and where if cornered they can put up a fight strong enough from their entrenched position to hold an entire military company in check.

HE PAID $8000 DUTY.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—C. Vanderbilt, who just returned from a European trip with his bride, paid $8000 in duty to the Collector of the Port of Boston. This is the largest collection ever made by a tourist at that port. It is said the examiners checked up Mr. Vanderbilt's declaration, item by item, requiring two hours to go through the trunks which the couple brought in.

Cleanliness and Aseptic. In Styria and Carinthia there is much arsenic eating among the peasants. The women take it to give themselves a good complexion and to make their hair fine and glossy. The men take it because they believe that it gives them wind in climbing in the chase after chamois. There is nothing of this sort in Cornwall and Devon.

In Styria and Carinthia it is known that an arsenic eater can never be broken of the habit and that if arsenic be compulsorily kept from the eater death rapidly ensues. It is believed in the Tamar—and this is perhaps true—that an arsenic worker is fit for no other work. He must remain at this occupation. Health and breath fail him at other employments. Eventually it may be that chronic arsenical poisoning ensues. But this may be staved off, if not wholly prevented, by scrupulous cleanliness, by care taken not only to wash in the "changing house," but to bathe freely at home. As one of the foremen said to the writer, "Against arsenic the best antidote is soap taken externally."—Chambers' Journal.

Purely For Ornament. The trained nurse has to meet many curious conditions which arise among her poorer patients. One of these faithful women who had a sick girl in charge in a miserable tenement house noticed that the oranges which had been provided for the fever patient were not eaten. They were placed in an old cracked blue bowl on a little table by the sick girl's bed, and there they remained untouched.

"Mary," said the nurse one day, "don't you like oranges?" "Oh, yes'm," answered the girl. "You haven't eaten any of these," the nurse suggested. Mary's mother answered, "Oh, miss," she said eagerly, "Mary, she e't a half an' me an' Jimmy, we e't the other half, an' Mary an' me, we says we won't eat any more 'cause it looks so nice an' wealthy to have oranges settin' round."—Youth's Companion.

Fosterity of Drunkards. A professor of Bonn university in tracing the posterity of habitual drunkards has found 834 descendants from a woman who for forty years was "a thief, a drunkard and a tramp" and whose miserable life came to an end in the last year of the eighteenth century. The professor has traced the lives of 706 of this woman's descendants from youth to old age, and of these 142 were beggars and 64 more lived on charity. There were in the family 76 convicts, including 7 murderers. The professor estimated that in seventy-five years this family has cost the German authorities in almshouses, law courts, prisons and other institutions about $1,250,000.—Chicago Journal.

Friendship. There are two elements that go to the composition of friendship, each so sovereign that I detect no superiority in either, no reason why either should be the first named. One is truth. A friend is a person with whom I can be sincere. The other element of friendship is tenderness. When a man becomes dear to me I have touched the goal of fortune.—Emerson.

A Yearning For Courtesy. "Why do you sigh for great riches?" "Well," answered the mild mannered man, "I don't value money for its own sake, but I'd kind o' like to be in a position where the subordinate employe of large enterprises will say 'Good morning, sir,' instead of 'Step lively!'"—Washington Star.

Positively Brutal. Grace—Just see how much your little wife loves you. She made this cake for you all by herself. Arthur—Yes, my darling. And now if you will eat it all by yourself I shall possess indisputable proof of your devotion.—Pittsburg Press.

She Met It. He—If I should kiss you what would you do? She—I never meet an emergency until it arises. "But if it should arise?" "I'd meet it face to face."—Yale Record.

Got It So. Miss Black—I'm disgusted with my dressmaker; my new costume doesn't fit a little bit! Miss White—Well, I heard you tell her you wanted it "awful bad."—St. Louis Republic.

Hargrove, Grayce Beach, Maud Berry, Cora Baldwin, Grace Mount, Irma Patrik, Ora Patrik, Jennie Courtwright, Rev. Lockhart, E. C. Berry, Geo. Guyles, G. B. Walsworth and John Mount. The lecture on "Siam and Its People," by Rev. W. F. Shields, Wednesday evening, was well attended and fully appreciated by every one, and proved that even close readers of papers and magazines know but little of the real every day life of people in those distant lands. Before entering into the subject generally, the speaker exhibited several articles of clothing such as is worn by the different classes there, which thoroughly interested the young as well as the old. In his talk he told of the difference in their form of worship and of life, as well as the social side of our, and though he strongly urges more missionary work there, he found many of their customs commendable, even in this age of civilization. The whole lecture was delivered in such a plain and simple manner that even the smallest children here understood and have not or will not forget the treat so kindly given us.

When you want a physic that is mild and gentle, easy to take and certain to act, always use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by Chas. Strang. Central Point Items.
