Notwithstanding the absence of a number of people from this neighborhood, the attendance at the Endeavor meeting Sunday was good and Miss Bertha Chapman gave us a very interesting program, proving that the interest in this movement is not on the decline.

It had been voted to make last Wednesday evening a social night for the Endeavorers and two score or more gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Porter. After the usual song practice, ice cream and cake were served and as some one remarked, no one would have imagined was busy haying time.
 I. B. Macdonald got a case of pictures and keepsakes the first of the week from his far off London home and has had much pleasure in installing them in his home here. His boy friends are particularly struck with the pictures of the different boat clubs, of which Mr. Macdonald was a member, and in looking at the medals won in various contests.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
 by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional treatment. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out, and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; also cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
 We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Obituary.

Addie S. Van Antwerp was born in Otsego county, New York, March 14, 1838, and died at Medford, Oregon, May 25, 1904. She was one of a family of ten children, six of whom are living today. She spent the days of her childhood and young womanhood in the old college town of Oxford, where the old Puritan principles of right living and pure thought were deeply instilled into her mind and heart. These same principles of justice to all and loyalty to her friends were among the very strong points in her character. Early in life she became much interested in educational work, and devoted many years to that line of work in New York, Wisconsin and Nebraska. In the latter state she was particularly active in educational lines, being appointed to fill a vacancy as superintendent of public schools and four times re-elected to the same position. An active temperance worker, her influence among both students and teachers was wide and ever toward the upbuilding of strong, self-reliant characters. She was an organizer of district institutes for teachers and succeeded in establishing various reforms for the benefit of those workers.

In the year 1864 she was united in marriage at Oxford, New York, to David H. Van Antwerp, of Jamesville, Wisconsin. In 1870 she removed with her family to Schuyler, Nebraska, living in that state until 1892, when she came to Oregon, making her home since then in Medford and Portland. She leaves two sons, George L. Van Antwerp, of Hoquiam, Wash., and Earl E. Van Antwerp, of this city. Also six sisters: Mrs. Etta Lowry, of St. Paul, Minn.; Mrs. Albert Sanders, of Santa Rosa, Calif.; Mrs. Julia Carruth, of Redlands, Calif.; Mrs. Louisa Moffatt, of Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Carolyn Haight, of Oxford, N. Y. and Mrs. D. E. Winton, of Morris, N. J.

Funeral services were held from the First Methodist church in Medford, Sunday, May 29th. The same evening the remains were shipped to Portland and a last service for friends and relatives in that city was held at Finley's undertaking parlors, Tuesday, May 31st, Rev. Moore, who was a friend of the deceased, and his quartet of young lady singers, conducting the services. The remains are at rest in the Lone Fir cemetery.

During Mrs. Van Antwerp's residence in this city she has followed out the line of work indicated by her early education. An earnest, Christian woman, with a heart and brain large enough to take in account the many things that lead to failure in her fellow men and women, she was ever ready so long as her health permitted to respond to the cry of the needy or the fallen, and her hand was ever outstretched to uplift her less fortunate fellow beings. A noble life, at its end leaves no sting. The work has been done, the journey finished and the wearied traveler sinks to quiet rest in the arms of He "who doeth all things well," leaving behind a record upon which her children and children's can gaze with pride, with a confident hope that there is a reward hereafter for the man or woman whose life has been as the "Master" would have liked it to be.
